Ag leaders tell of future challenges

Dr. James Beattie

By DIETER KRIEG

CAMP HILL — Two prominent figures in Pennsylvania Agriculture congratulated PennAg Industries Association this week on the occasion of the organization's 100th anniversary, and then outlined some of the challenges which they believe will need to be faced by the state's farmers and agribusinesses in coming years. PennAg Industries Association is an organization of more than 400 agribusiness member firms. The centennial convention, held here this week at the Penn Harris Motor Inn, was attended by over 500 persons and featured nationally and internationally known guests. Among them were Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Kent Shelhamer and Dr. James Beattie, dean of the College of Agriculture at Penn State University. Both men cited accomplishments and advances of Pennsylvania agriculture and then went on to cite the challenges which lie ahead. Among them are the proper use of medications, government regulations, land use, sufficient food production for a growing world population, energy supplies, credit availability, and research.

Please turn to page 19 for Dean Beattie's remarks.

Secretary Shelhamer's comments are detailed on page. 30.

IMPCO, MCMP look forward to Holly opening

BALTIMORE, Md. — Inter-State Milk Producers Cooperative and Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., joint owners of a milk processing plant near Carlisle, Pa., are looking forward to the opening of the facility as early as next week.

The venture, which cost the two cooperatives some $10 million, will be successful and profitable, say spokesmen at MCMP headquarters here and at IMPCO headquarters in Southampton, Pa.

Acknowledging that the project, which took 1½ years to complete, and is still undergoing testing, has had problems connected with it, MCMP general manager Ralph Stock commented that "It is unrealistic to expect it to open one day and have 2 million pounds of milk going through it. It is a very highly automated plant; there are a lot of technicalities involved, including computerized controls. It takes time. Once it's all checked out and okay, we'll be in clover."

Assistant director of member and public relations at Inter-State, Jim Sumner, agrees with Strock's assessment and says that the management of both

The tractors roared at the Penn Fall Nationals

By KENDACE BORRY

THE BUCK — Those who travelled down to the Buck last Friday and Saturday night to see the tractor pulls, got a special treat, for those were the nights of the Penn Fall National. For two days, nationally known tractor pullers competed for the right to call their tractor first in its class.

One of the competitors that could be found behind the scenes before the competition was John Shaul, from Fultonham, New York. Shaul is one of those men who pulls at national pulls throughout the country, that is, he competes at those events that are sanctioned by the National Tractor Pullers Association.

He's been competing for four years now and he still loves it. He first became involved when he watched someone else compete at a tractor pulling contest and, liking it, he decided to try it.

Today he has two tractors which travel around the country with him; an Allison aircraft powered tractor called the Eastern Flier and a twin turbo charged 454 Chevy powered tractor called the Longhorn.

Shaul estimates that he travels about 20,000 miles a year following the tractor pulls across the nation. And when he isn't pulling, he tells that he is a farmer, a crop farmer with corn being the main cropto be exact.

Claiming home is a 2000 acre farm in New York, which is farmed by him, his brothers, and his father, Shaul warms up when he

Barbara Herr excells at the Big 'E'

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. – Barbara Herr, 15, dominated what appears to be the largest Dorset sheep show in the country and the largest sheep show in the East with 1100 entries coming from as far as Illinois and Virginia.

The scene was in West Springfield Mass. at the Eastern States Exposition where Barbara won Champion Dorset Ram and Champion Dorset Ewe in the National Junior Dorset Sheep show. She also won Champion Dorset Ram and Reserve Champion Dorset Ewe in the open competition.

Winning is not new to Barbara who has been in the 4-H sheep project for seven years. "We always had sheep on the farm and it ended up a family project that was passed down" she said. She has done very well with her market lambs also, winning the champion carcass lamb at Farm Show and champion market lamb and pen of market lambs at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition last November. Barbara said, "I like to stick with the three major breeds, suffolk, hampshire, and dorset when selecting my market lambs. I don't have any major preference, it all depends on the quality of each individual lamb."

Barbara, daughter of Dr. and Mrs Robert Herr, cares for her own sheep which include five aged ewes, a show string of five pure bred dorsets and ten market lambs. She also does custom sheepherding, and shears approximately 200 sheep in the spring.

As a sophomore at Garden Spot High School, Barbara's future plans include further study in farm or sheep management.

Barbara Herr, Narvon, showed her grand champion dorset ram at the Eastern States Exposition, West Springfield, Mass.

Joan Liesau joins Lancaster Farming staff

LITITZ – Joan L. Liesau, a native of Chester County, has been named as associate editor to the staff at Lancaster Farming.

As a recent graduate from the Pennsylvania State University, Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Liesau, Spring City, RD 1, received her degree in animal production. During her senior year, she served as editor of the Ag Hill Action, an agricultural newsletter for students. She was very active in the Penn State Block and Bridle Club serving on many committees and showing in their Little International Livestock Exposition. She also participated on Penn States Livestock Judging Team.

She became involved with livestock at the age of nine through the Chester County 4-H program. While in 4-H she took many projects. Her geology project turned into a lapidary and jewelry business for four years. Joan said though, that her sheep projects and agriculture training throughout her 4-H career is what made her decide to study agriculture in college. She participated on the 4-H livestock judging team and the 4-H meats judging team. She won the state 4-H sheep award in 1974 and was a runner up for the national 4-H sheep award at the National 4-H Club Congress, Chicago, Ill.

After graduation from high school, Joan spent three weeks in Husum, Germany, as a participant of the Rotary Exchange program.

In 1974, Joan was the Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Queen. She went on the following year to be named National Hampshire Sheep Queen. Since then she has judged both of these events along with other various contests.

Last summer Joan worked as head pedigree checker for the American Hampshire Sheep Association in Columbia, Mo.

All feed companies are alike

If you believe that statement you could be missing an opportunity to increase your output of eggs, pork or milk—without increasing your costs.

At Pennfield our basic goal is to help our customers make more money. We believe we can accomplish this for you, too. For these reasons:

• Customized feeding programs. We specifically tailor a program to your operation, not to an "operation like yours."

• Nutritionally-superior feeds. We go a step beyond many conventional feeds. Our feeds have optimum nutrient Density ratios, profitable nutrient level per pound of feed, and contain high-quality protein for balanced amino acid nutrition.

• Quality in, quality out. We chemically analyze all incoming feed grains for pesticide residues and toxins — and all finished feeds for overall quality and nutrient content.

• Technical service. We're responsive to your needs—by phone or on your farm.

• A local company. We buy our feed grains locally; shipping savings are passed on to customers. Our feeding programs are developed and formulated locally, too. Nutrition, Research and Field trials based on local conditions.

These and other Pennfield advantages are helping hundreds of new customers increase their profits. We can do the same for you. But you must take the first step by phoning or writing us. Do it today.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

SEPT. 25-OCT. 1, 1978

Days of gold, not too cold.

Good time for outside painting W H Auden died Sept 28, 1973 Average length of days for the week, 11 hours, 51 minutes (days and nights are nearly equal this week) First Cinerama showing Sept 30, 1952 Battle of Britain ended Sept 27, 1940 In the fields of observation, chance favors only the prepared mind

Ask the Old Farmer: The expression "the goose hangs high" — isn't it or wasn't it once "honks high"? G T, Mt Pleasant, Mich

Part of the expression 'everything is lovely and the goose hangs high," meaning all is hunky dory Some say the correct word is "honks," indicating high flight under high clouds and, hence, probably fair weather We say the word is 'hang," indicating not only high flight in fair skies, but also a view of the earth below from a point clean out of gunshot range — in other words, safety

Home Hints Place your clock on a tin plate and you won t sleep through the alarm

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Partly sunny and warm with chance of showers to midweek, then clear and cooler

Greater New York-New Jersey: Warm with light showers to midweek, then clear and pleasant

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Hot with light showers to start, then clear midweek on

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Turning very hot, then partly cloudy and seasonal for end of week

Florida: Rainy, then end of week hot and showery

Upstate N.Y.-Toronto & Montreal: Partly sunny and warm with a few showers, then end of week sunny and warm

Greater Ohio Valley: Seasonal, then hot and clearing all week

Deep South: Showers south and east, then clear and hot most of week

Chicago & Southern Great Lakes: Seasonal with rain, heavy in northwest to start, then sunny at midweek, then rain and cool

Northern Great Plains-Great Lakes: Sunny and very hot end of week cooler and showery

Central Great Plains: Sunny and hot, last of week cooler with a few showers

EDITORIAL COMMENTS By DIETER KRIEG, EDITOR

The All-American shouldn't be missed

If there's any dairyman out there who is saying to himself that he is too busy to go to Harrisburg to see the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show - I know what you're talking about.

If it weren't for the fact that as editor of Lancaster Farming it has become my duty to attend, I might still be missing out on the annual event. We were always busy filling silos this time of year, or hauling hay bales and cleaning loafing sheds. Milking as many as 100 cows kept as tied down pretty well too. Year after year, through the first 11 Pennsylvania All-Americans, there didn't seem to be time for one of the biggest dairy shows in the world. Not even a single day.

So if you're one of those people who is too busy to travel to Harrisburg to see some mighty fine cows, I know what you mean

The 15th edition of the Pennsylvania All-American starts on Monday morning. It's an event everyone who milks and appreciates cows should try to attend, even if he or she is as busy as a kitten trying to untrap himself from a ball of yarn.

The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show is an outstanding event. Whether one's dairy interests are in breeding purebreds, or strictly commercial, there is something of value to be seen and learned in Harrisburg next week. The top cows of each of the six most common dairy breeds will be there, and they'll certainly be very stylish and impressive. They always are.

The dairy cow has come a long way through the generations since man has domesticated her. In my opinion, she has also come a long way in just the past decade. Champion dairy cows nowadays have considerably more dairy character. They reflect more profound milk-producing qualities. They're sharper, cleaner, leaner. It all adds up to more milk and greater efficiencies in feed conversions. So, the dairy farmer has gotten a better deal through the type of cow that is being awarded the blue riboons at dairy shows. In short, greater emphasis has been placed on traits which indicate high production and longevity. What's more these dairy cows are truly beautiful creatures.

The Pennsylvania All-American is also a good place to meet others from many states who share your dairy interests, problems, joys, and challenges. Just a short conversation with any one of the showman could lead to your increased knowledge and enrichment. It's certainly a good way to make friends and keep abreast with what's happening in the top levels of the dairy business.

The Pennsylvania All-American is a five-day international show of fine dairy animals Aside from the six breed shows, including several national contests, there'll also be spectator judging contests, 4-H and FFA judging forums, commercial booth exhibits, invitational breed sales, and a recognition banquet. The latter will include the coronation of the new Pennsylvania Dairy Princess. Forty-three county dairy princesses will be competing for that honor. That will take place on Wednesday evening in the elegant ballroom of the Penn Harris Motor Inn.

With the top cows of six breeds parading through the show ring, one would expect a sizable purse for prizes. At this-year's All-American, the purse is filled with nearly $65,000. That's quite an incentive for the competitors.

While the exhibitors have a chance of going home with prize money in their pockets, visitors to the show have the opportunity of seeing the kind of cattle which have and are pushing the industry to new heights. And even if one's interests are purely milk production, with no regard to raising one's own replacements, it's still true that that dairyman's future milking string will have been directly affected by the breeding programs of many of the exhibitors at the Pennsylvania All-American. So, if there's a particular trait the commercial dairyman would like to see in his replacements, he can have the

OF WORDS AND POWER

Lesson for September 24, 1978

Background Scripture:
1 Thessalonians 1:2-10;
2 Peter 1:3-7
Devotional Reading:
John 13:31-35.

Halford Luccock tells us that the preaching of Charles Wesley in London was a matter of some discomfort to his fellow clergy of that city. For Wesley had been preaching, says Luccock, "not only as though he had believed what he was saying, but as though he expected those who listened to believe, and do something about it." It was that last expectation which was more than the other clergy could stand. "The last thing in the world they wanted around their comfortable parishes was something doing."

Not Only In Word

Clarles and John Wesley had a reputation for that kind of preaching: the kind that resulted in doing something. They preached many sermons, wrote many treatises and Charles wrote many hymns, but the genius was in the action they provoked, not their words.

A Lutheran scholar recently conducted a joint Lutheran-Catholic study entitled, "Who Are The Unchurched?" The study was an attempt to determine why roughly 40% of the people in the USA prefer to remain outside the organized church.

One of the most prevalent reasons, he found, was that many people outside the churches found a wide gap between what church people say and do about their faith.

Although we may question the degree to which that judgement is justified, we can hardly escape the admission that there is often far too great a gap between our words and our deeds. We tend to talk a much better religious game than we play, a vivid contrast to the model lifted up by Paul to the Thessalonians: for our gospel came to you not only in word, but also in power and in the Holy spirit and with full conviction" (1 Thessalonians 1:5).

But Also In Power

Paul and his associates had spent a lot of time preaching and teaching in Thessalonica, but their effectiveness was not to be found merely in their words: "You know what kind of men we proved to be among you (1:5). The conclusive power of Paul's mission was the example they set before the new church there.

In return, Thessalonians responded with deeds as well as words so that Paul could say with pride, "you became imitators of us and of the Lord..so that you became an example to all the believers in Macedonia and Achaia" (1·6, 7)

Leslie Weatherhead tells the story of a little boy who tripped and fell while carrying a basket of eggs. A small crowd quickly gathered around the crying boy: "What a pity!" "Poor little chap!" were some of the expressions of sympathy. But a man stepped forward and, pulling a coin from his pocket, said, "I care half-a-crown." Turning to the man next to him, he asked: "How much do you care?" "In a little time," says Weatherhead, "they translated feeling into action." And beliefs are never faith until they are translated into action!

NOW IS THE TIME

TO LIME SMALL GRAIN FIELDS

In the next few weeks many acres of winter wheat and winter barley will be sowed. Some of this ground will be seeded down to clover or alfalfa next spring or next summer. By way of a complete soil test and if the ground needs lime, now is the time to apply the lime and work it into the topsoil.

To put it on top of the ground this Winter or next Spring is a very poor way to get the best results. The lime needs to be incorporated into the soil and needs time to correct the acidity. In addition, if the soil is very sour, the small grain yields will improve with the use of lime. Don't forget - lime needs to be mixed into the topsoil and needs time to work.

TO USE ANTIBIOTICS CAREFULLY

Many livestock and dairy producers need some help from antibiotics to keep their animals healthy. Their use is satisfactory when done properly. Our Extension-veterinarian at Penn State, Dr. Larry Hutchinson, reminds us that producers can get into hot water when these materials are not used according to directions. The witholding period after treatment is often the cause of the trouble. Producers do not follow the length of time milk is to be withheld, or allow time from treatment to slaughter on meat animals.

Accurate records should be kept on treatment in case there are problems following treatment. Don't take chances ... your market might be lost.

TO CONSULT YOUR VETERINARIAN

Being on excellent terms with your local veterinarian is a very good thing. Many producers need some veterinary help once in a while. The developing of a health program and sanitary practices for the farm operation is strongly suggested. Veterinarians are trained in disease prevention and treatment. The most important part is disease prevention. When this is successful there is little need for high veterinary costs.

We suggest that produce s regard their veterinarian as a valuable resource person for their farm operation; there may be times when it might be expensive; however, the prevention of infections and the saving of animals are things that must be done in order to make the most profit. Give him a chance to help.

TO BEWARE OF FROSTED CROPS

According to the calendar old Jack Frost can be showing up any of these mornings; we hope this does not happen for several weeks to come. However, farmers with sudan grass or one of the sudan-sorghum hybrids for temporary pasture or green-chopping should realize the danger of prussic acid poisoning of livestock; when these crops are frosted they should not be consumed for at least a week following the freeze - give them time to die down before being used in the fresh condition. They can be made into silage and permitted to ferment for 30 days and be safe to use.

However, no grazing or green-chopping for at least a week. Also, alfalfa or clover plants should not be consumed when coated with frost; they may cause severe bloating; allow the frost to melt and the plants to dry before grazing.

When you own something, you're more careful with it, you work harder for it

Each employee of Beacon owns a part of Beacon From the miller in one of our plants, to the office secretary, to the man who loads the trucks, to the truck driver, to the person who processes the orders all of these people are a bit more careful, work a bit harder in what they do

Beacon people are selected and trained to meet the feeding needs of customers like you Most field personnel come to us with strong agricultural backgrounds and educations Backing them up are staffs of technical specialists, proficient in the many aspects of dairy, poultry and livestock technology And every other Beacon employee, no matter what the job function, possesses a special skill or talent that makes him or her very valuable, to us and to you

Beyond the workings of today's typical business organization, our employees also have that additional advantage of being stockholders

Omaha Cattle

September 21, 1978

Compared with previous midweek: slaughter steers closed 25 to fully 50 higher, instances 75 up, heifers steady to 25 higher. Cows closed mostly steady, bulls steady.

Four day receipts 13,900 as compared 15,100 previous week and 14,600 a year ago. The price advance on slaughter steers was a rather forced affair on smaller receipts after Tuesday that more than recovered an early price decline. Demand was good for steers, only fair for heifers. Best demand centered on Choice 3 1150-1250 lbs. steers. Packers were generally caught between needing cattle but faced with a dull dressed trade The run included a fair percentage Choice cattle with a moderate volume Choice and Prime. Steers made up approximately 33 per cent and heifers 31 per cent; cows 11 per cent and feeders 21 per cent of the week's total run.

STEERS: Choice 3 and Choice with end of Prime 3-4 1125-1250 lbs. 56.00-56.50, Five loads 1118-1226 lbs. at 56.50. Choice 2-4 1000-1300 lbs. 54.50-56.00. Forepart of week, few loads 3-5 1300-1425 lbs. 52.50-54.75. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 975-1250 lbs. closed 54.00-54.50, load 1496 lbs. Holsteins 51.00. Good 2-3 49.00-53.00, few Standard and Good 47.50-48.50.

Average of LS-214, detailed quotations, for Choice 900-1100 lbs. steers this week 54.72; Choice 1100-1300 lbs. 55.10. Average weight steers first three days 1132 lbs. as compared 1129 lbs. previous week. Average weight heifers first three days 973 lbs. as compared 982 lbs. previous week.

HEIFERS: Several loads Choice 3 and Choice and Prime 3-4 975-1050 lbs. 53.25-53.85, early one load Choice and Prime 3-4 952 lbs. 54.00. Choice 2-4 875-1050 lbs. 51.00-53.25. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 850-1050 lbs. 49.50-51.50. Good 46.00-49.00.

COWS: Utility and Commercial 2-4 39.00-41.50, few 42.00, some heiferettes 43.00-45.00. Cutter 37.50-39.50. Canner and low-Cutter 34.50-37.50.

BULLS: 1-2 1400-2000 lbs. 43.00-47.00, some 1 47.50-48.50.

The difference is dramatic. You save half the cost of a commercial pre-starter when you build your own with Vigortone's Creep Wean No. 3.

Your figures will prove it.

First, you save because you use feedstuffs grown on your own farm; no need to purchase someone else's grain.

Next, you fortify these feedstuffs with Vigortone's Creep Wean Pre-Mix No. 3, a potent combination of all the vitamins, minerals and amino acids needed for optimum nutrition.

Finally, you do the grinding and mixing yourself - FRESH - adding the right amount of soybean meal for proper protein levels. And if a health problem does arise, you can medicate immediately.

There you have it: a highly fortified pre-starter that saves you half the cost of a commercial brand.

Vigortone swine feeding programs offer cost savings in your starter, growing and finishing rations as well.

You'll save substantially over commercial starters with Vigortone 16% starter using your own grain - no fillers. And Vigortone's corn-soy growing and finishing programs combine economy and quick-to-market-weight nutrition.

Now is the time to compare.
See your Vigortone dealer soon. He's ready to compare the performance of Vigortone's low-cost swine feeding programs with any other you name.

Jersey cattle bring highest all-time average

LANCASTER – Strong demand for Jersey cattle and top-quality consignments combined to give the Pennsylvania State Jersey Sale its highest all-time average. Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club, the sale was held on September 16 at the Guernsey Pavilion near Lancaster. The thirty-four registered animals sold for an average of $1091.91, with sixteen animals topping the $1000 mark. The cattle sold into Virginia, Maryland, Connecticut, Ohio, and Delaware, as well as Pennsylvania.

Top cow in the sale at $1825 was a fresh 3-yr-old, Wilderness Tillyson Dusty, consigned by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Dreisbach of Hamburg, and purchased by Paul and Charlotte Trimble of Peach Bottom. Second high at $1800 was a 4-yr-old Quicksilver cow consigned by Robert Eick of Columbia Cross Roads and purchased by Waverly Farm, Clearbrook, Va. Roller Jersey Farm of Timberville, Va., purchased Quicksilver Forester Caper from Rupert Jerseys of New Waterford, Ohio, for $1775. Also topping the $1700 mark was Smokey Hill Generator Helen, consigned by Roy Watson of Columbia Cross Roads and purchased by Terry Lee Rhein of Pine Grove. Top buyers of the day were Paul and Charlotte Trimble who purchased four animals for $5450.

Also sold were five heifer calves in the Second Pennsylvania Pot of Gold Sale. There animals, available only to junior buyers, will return money to their purchasers based on their two-year-old milking records. Top calf sold was Masters Merry Sonia, consigned by Pioneer Farm, Old Lyme, Conn., and purchased by Katherine Knowlton, Harwinton, Conn., for $650. Second high calf was a Supreme Virginian daughter consigned by Eugene and Brian Harris of Milan and purchased by Brian Watson of Columbia Cross Roads.

Several lots of semen were sold, including 10 ampules of Marlu Milestone for $115 per ampule to Roy Watson. The semen was consigned by Walebe Farms of Collegeville.

In a ceremony preceeding the sale, Roy Watson of Smokey Hill Farm received a plaque as purchaser of Rolling Acres Jokers Camille, the cow sold in the 1977 PJCC Sale which made the best record in the year following the sale. Robert Eick, also from Bradford County, received a similar plaque as consigner of the cow. "Camille's" record was 16,326 lbs. of 4 per cent fat-corrected milk.

Fitting and handling the animals were Meryl Sheaffer, William Swingle and Crain Rhein. Auctioneer was Braden King; ringman was Ralph Horst. Pedigrees were read by Donald Koontz. Chairman of the sale was Dr. Robert Driesbach.

Low-Cal Cooking

Here are a few low-cal cooking tips

—Take the skin off poultry before cooking and save about 20 calories per serving

—Substitute lemon juice or crushed herbs for butter or margarine to add flavor to vegetables and to keep the calorie count at a minimum

—Substitute skim for whole milk to reduce calories Use skim milk in cooking and as a beverage

—Cook eggs in little or no fat in a nonstick pan

VM Diesel

"THE DIESEL WITH A DIFFERENCE"

Cuts your power costs because it's way ahead of its time on all points.

AVCO-VM diesel engines are world-proven money-savers. They deliver maximum power efficiency immediately, under any sudden load or climate variation. Their higher power to weight ratios mean NO REDUCTION IN HORSEPOWER to qualify for pollution standards.

They're stingy on fuel, too. Many users report fuel consumption CUT IN HALF — and more — compared with gasoline engines. In some installations, our diesels are delivering more than TWICE the hours of operation per gallon of fuel.

Faultless performance is the norm, rather than the exception. A choice of 27 premium quality air-cooled Avco-VM's (5 to 670-hp) means there's one that's right for your application.

Modular, unitized construction means fewer specialized parts, lower weight per hp, lower maintenance costs, 70% parts interchangeability — and they'll fit the tightest space.

Farmworkers taking union to court

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Twelve California farmworkers are suing their union, the United Farmworkers of America (UFW), charging the UFW with oppression, fraud, malice, and violation of their constitutional rights. They are also asking the court to strike down a California law that allows the union to have almost absolute power over farmworkers by requiring full membership in the union as a condition of employment.

Headed by Cervando Perez and Giles Breaux, the workers filed their complaint September 5 in Superior Court for the County of Monterey. They charge the UFW, headed by Cesar Chavez, with forcing them to pay money to the union to use for political purposes with they disagree. They claim that in doing so – and in the way it was done – the UFW violated their rights of free speech and association.

The workers are supported in their suit by the National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation. In addition to two of the workers asking for damages of $1 million each, the plaintiffs are asking the court to require the UFW to cease confiscation of their money for political purposes.

The suit is the result of a UFW procedure to raise money for its political treasury – the Citizenship Participation Day Fund (CPD Fund). The CPD Fund provides money to candidates, propositions, and legislative initiatives backed by the UFW.

Previously, UFW contracts with employers provided that the first Sunday of every June would be "Citizenship Participation Day." Workers would receive holiday pay for that day and could either remit it to the CPD Fund or keep it for their own use.

In August 1977, however, the union leadership passed Resolution 45 requiring all employees working under CPD provisions to remit, or have the employer remit for them, the holiday pay to the CPD Fund.

While Resolution 45 did not change union contracts saying workers may keep their holiday pay, Section 1153 (c) of the California Agricultural Labor Relations Act gives union leaders the tools they need to force workers to comply with their commands. Section 1153 (c) permits unions to have contracts with employers requiring agricultural workers to be members in good standing of the union to keep their jobs. The union is the sole judge of whether a member is in good standing.

Beginning in June 1978, the UFW began a campaign against independent-minded workers to enforce its authority. One of the plaintiffs, Cervando Perez, was charged by the UFW with failing to give his holiday pay to the CPD Fund. The union leadership declared him not to be a member in good standing and ordered his employer, West Coast Farms, to fire him. On July 26, West Coast Farms fired Perez.

On August 31, Giles Breaux was also expelled from the union and is faced with imminent loss of his job. Other plaintiffs in the case also refused to give their holiday money to the union political fund. They are now threatened with being thrown out of the UFW, which will mean discharge from their jobs.

The workers are asking the court to restore them to their jobs and to remedy the union contracts and California law that brought about their situation. They want the court to declare Section 1153 (c) unconstitutional since it allows the union to absolutely control whether an employee is a member in good standing and therefore entitled to keep his job. This, they charge, abridges their right of free speech and association guaranteed by the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution and Article 1, Section 9 and 10 of the California Constitution.

The Union policy, they say, forcing them to support with their money political causes they don't approve of, violates the same constitutional guarantees. The workers want the court to order the UFW to rescind Resolution 45, which enacted confiscation of their holiday pay, and to return all money collected under the resolution.

Finally, two of the workers charge the UFW with "oppression, fraud, and malice" in its treatment of them. They are asking the court to award them each $1 million exemplary damages to discourage the union from attempting similar schemes in the future.

Commenting on the case Chairman Thomas J. Harris of the National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation compared UFW bosses to slaveholders. "Many of these workers are unskilled. If they can't work as farm laborers, they can't work at all. Under the arrangements the UFW has with employers, the union officers have absolute mastery over the lives and livelihood of workers. That's slavery.

"We'll do all we can to reinstate these workers in their jobs and to overturn the California law that permits such outrages."

The National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation, established in 1968, is a charitable organization. It provides free legal aid to wage earners whose rights have been violated as a result of compulsory members from all over the country and is presently supporting more than 80 court cases involving employees' rights.

WORK SMARTER NOT HARDER
THE LEVERAGE OF BALANCED AGRICULTURE

College dean outlines challenges

CAMP HILL — Dr. James Beatty, dean of Penn State University's College of Agriculture, told a gathering of Pennsylvania agribusinessmen this week that the well-being of agriculture in the century ahead will depend on available capital, incentives for profitable production, scientific methods, research, and "a solid base of support from all segments of society."

Speaking here at the centennial convention of PennAg Industries Association, a 2½-day affair which drew more than 500 guests, the Dean noted that agricultural changes can take place so rapidly that one could say they take place overnight, relatively speaking. The changing patterns in production, world trade demands, and the effects of technology and politics are examples.

"The role of food production and the role of oil are big factors in the fate of nations in the years ahead," the Dean lectured. He believes that world-wide food shortages could become more predominant in the next decades as the Earth's population grows faster than food supplies and technology.

Beattie is confident, nonetheless, that the challenges of the future can and will be met. One of the major bright spots he sees on the horizon are plants which will be able to produce nitrogen, thereby replenishing the soil naturally with an element which becoming increasingly precious. Acknowledging that legumes are already performing this important feat, Beattie noted that agronomists are trying to modify certain other plants, notably grasses, to do the same thing.

Other genetic improvements in plants and animals show up in the Dean's crystal ball. "The research centers at our 50 Land Grant universities are intact and a proven system of excellence," Beattie proclaimed. He called for continued support of these learning and research institutions, including the Cooperative Extension Service, noting that these segments of agriculture have contributed significantly to agriculture's advances.

Beattie also noted that there much work needs to be done in order to avoid waste and losses during harvests, storage, and distribution. While such losses are comparatively small in the United States and other developed nations, that is not the case in less developed countries. The challenges of the future include waste and loss reduction, he said.

The preservation of food is another area which is being looked at. Efficient transportation and distribution are included on the agenda. Among the most important areas of concern is energy. According to the Dean, agriculture and industry must learn to use less energy and use it more efficiently. Renewable resources must be looked at more and more if the challenges of the future are to be met.

Unquestionably one of the major areas of concern is land use. Beattie predicts with regret that prime agricultural land will continue to go out of production and that arid acreages will have to be brought into production to make up for it. "The arid lands will have to irrigated, which means our water supplies will be even further depleted," Beattie warned, leaving the definite impression that he felt prime agricultural land should be protected.

"Agriculture cannot compete economically with industry for land," the Dean lectured.

As an educator, Beattie considers the nation's learning and research institutions as a primary source of the new technology that will be needed to face the challenges of the future. He pointed out the continued need of public support for universities such as Penn State and expressed confidence that farmers and agribusinesses can meet the challenges of the future.

Pa. Dairy Princess to be named Sept. 27

HARRISBURG — This year 43 local dairy princesses representing 48 counties will be competing for the title of Pa. Dairy Princess. These young ladies have already been actively involved in promotional activities for milk and dairy products at the local level.

The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show will run September 25 to 29 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. The show features entries of six dairy cattle breeds in competition for over $60,000 in premiums, and boasts three national shows.

The All-American, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission, has since its inception in 1964 attracted exhibitors of the best in dairy cattle from dairy breeders and farmers around the world.

A survey of women attending a meeting to protest "deceptive packaging" revealed: 15 per cent tinted their hair; 38 per cent wore wigs; 98 per cent applied lipstick; 22 per cent used false eyelashes; 98 per cent used nail polish, and 25 per cent used eye shadow. 100 per cent voted in favor of a resolution to condemn false packaging.

U. S. Canadian wheat talks set

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Senator George McGovern announced recently a contingent of Canadian Senators from the Canadian Parliament under the leadership of Sen. Hazen Argue will come to Washington on September 27 to resume wheat pricing talks. McGovern said that this meeting would be a continuation of negotiations started in Winnipeg last June when Senator Henry Bellmon (R-Ok.) and Senator John Melcher (D-Mont.) accompanied him to explore the possibilities of establishing an Organization of Wheat Exporting Countries where world prices would be raised to cover production costs plus a reasonable profit.

"Secretary Bergland and Ambassador Strauss have been invited to attend these negotiating sessions," McGovern said. "Since the meetings are officially hosted by the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry, there is every reason to count on their attendance. At our Canadian meeting, the Canadian Wheat Board and high officials of the Trudeau Administration gave helpful comments during the sessions. I would expect our own government to respond in kind."

McGovern said that there he had received almost 100 per cent encouragement from major U.S. farm and wheat producing organizations for a mechanism to put a floor under world prices that would guarantee a profit for North American wheat producers. He said that the Australian Wheat Board gave every indication of its cooperation and that the Argentinian government, the only other major exporter, had been in contact with his office informally.

"The principal matter left to implement such a mechanism is for the major exporters to get together and try to work out details regarding markets and price," McGovern said. "This requires action on the part of the Administrations of the exporting nations being willing to negotiate. We hope that the legislators from the Canadian and U.S. governments can provide the incentive for these negotiations," he concluded.

Red Lion Grange elects officers

RED LION – New Grange Officers were elected when Red Lion Grange 1781 met on September 16, with Lee Burns, Master, in charge. Those elected are as following: Master, Lee Burns; Overseer, W. Russell Hoover; Lecturer, Naomi Bupp; Steward, Bruce Stein; Asst. Steward, Bruce Stein; Lady Asst. Steward, Beverly Stein; Chaplain, J. Thomas Stein; Treasurer, Edward Lanius; Secretary, Thelma Wineka; Gatekeeper, Edmond Markey, Jr.; Ceres, Dorothy Lanius; Pomona, Irene LeMay; Flora, Barbara Stein, Member Executive Committee, Ernest Leibhart; Member of Finance Committee, C. Harry Miller; Pianist, Louise Massa; Asst. Pianist, Irene Wagner and Kenneth Kurtz.

Herman Goodyear was appointed to the Red Lion Mobile Food Service Board to represent Red Lion Grange.

It was announced by Edward Massa, Chairman of the York Fair Booth Committee, that Red Lion Grange took third place on exhibit, with these other York County Granges winners: First, Eureka Grange, Dillsburg; Second, Valley Grange, Lewisberry; and Fourth, Gideon Grange, Hanover. The theme to be followed was "Beautiful Is - The Green of York County."

A special Pomona Officers meeting will be held Sunday, October 1, at the Red Lion Grange Hall, beginning at 2 p.m. All Subordinate Masters, Lecturers, Women Activity Chairman, and Youth Committee Members are urged to attend, plus all interested Grange members. Plans will be made for the following meetings and activities: "Visitation Nite" Programs, York-Adams Pomona meetings, "Degree Day", Four-County Picnic, Fifth Degree Nite, Legislative Banquet, Youth Picnic, as well as discussing changes in the programs under each department.

Grange meets

VIRGINVILLE -- Virginville Grange announced at their last meeting that they had won the Grange and Church softball league playoffs. Also during that meeting, prizes which had been awarded to members at the recent fairs were announced.

The Grange will have an installation of new officers on October 19. The youth of the Grange will have a macrame and banner contest on September 30.

Two to receive distinguished service awards

UNIVERSITY PARK – Rebecca J. Drick, Montoursville R1, and Ruth M. Hand, Pine Grove, will receive a Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Extension Home Economists at their 44th annual meeting in Omaha, Nebraska, October 16 to 19.

Lycoming County Extension home economist on Penn State staff, Mrs. Drick will be cited for her educational programs in the Expanded Foods and Nutrition Education Program, food preservation, clothing construction, and 4-H youth and adult leader work.

Mrs. Drick has been in charge of EFNEP in Lycoming County since the program began in Pennsylvania in 1969. Over 2,000 homemakers in both rural and urban areas are assisted by seven para-professionals under her direction.

Keeping Lycoming County residents up-to-date on food preservation techniques is another of Mrs. Drick's major program responsibilities. She uses radio programs, newsletters, demonstrations and workshops to teach proper food preservation by canning, freezing and drying.

The Extension home economist has also served as chairperson of the Lycoming County Nutrition Education Committee which has given her the opportunity to coordinate the efforts of many professional workers presenting nutrition education programs.

Mrs. Drick's work with the 4-H program includes training sessions for 4-H food and nutrition and 4-H clothing club leaders, recruiting and training new 4-H leaders and training judging teams. She has also served as regional chairman for various 4-H events.

Clothing construction from simple techniques to tailoring have highlighted her adult and 4-H clothing programs. In addition, she teaches wardrobe planning and care.

Mrs. Drick is a member of both the American and Pennsylvania Home Economics Associations; the National and Pennsylvania Associations of Extension Home Economists; Epsilon Sigma Phi, Extension honorary; and Business and Professional Women. She has served the Pensylvania Association of the Extension Home Economists on numerous committees. As a member of the Grange, she has served as secretary and Lady Assistant Steward.

Schuylkill County Extension home economist on Penn State University staff, Mrs. Hand will be cited for her unique educational programs stressing self-improvement, expertise in clothing construction, programs for the working woman and foods and health programs.

Mrs. Hand's self-improvement-type program, supplemented by reading lists and study sheets, are designed to encourage individuals to reach their full potential. A course, "For Women Over Forty-The Look You Like," was completed by 76 homemakers. The programs have been presented to numerous professional, social service, civic, church and homemaker's groups and help make Extension more visible in Schuylkill County.

Her indepth clothing programs have been conducted for homemeakers and professionals alike. Adult leaders taking the training have gained greater confidence in teaching clothing to others.

"Mini-lessons for the Working Woman," including topics ranging from money management to cleaning furniture, have been presented at manufacturing plants to workers during their breaks and lunch hours.

Mrs. Hand is concerned with the health of Schuylkill County residents and has, within the Extension framework, conducted with cooperating agencies, workshops on obesity and diabetes.

Mrs. Hand is a member of the American Home Economics Association and is past president of the Pennsylvania Home Economics Association. She is also a member of both the National and Pennsylvania Associations of Extension Home Economists, Epsilon Sigma Phi, Extension honorary, Federation of Women's Clubs, Order of Eastern Star, and Pottsville Garden Society.

Chickies Creek Watershed progress report aired

By KENDACE BORRY

MANHEIM — More than 100 people attended the public information meeting for the Chickies Creek Watershed held this week in Manheim. Sponsored by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, the meeting was utilized for the Soil Conservation Service to inform the public about the Chickies Creek Watershed project.

With the holding of this meeting, the SCS noted that the first two phases, that of spcifying the objectives of the project, and that of evaluating the resources, were complete. There are four phases left in the six-step plan.

The meeting was chaired by Jim Mays, planning party staff leader, who told his audience that something can be done about the Chickies Creek flooding problem, but that what is decided is up to the public.

Steve Kemmerle, economist for the SCS, reported that the total value of property in Manheim borough, for both structures and contents is $68 million. Approximately 200 people are employed in this floodplain area.

According to Kemmerle, the average annual damage in the borough due to Chickies Creek is around $300,000. This figure, which includes both direct and direct damage, includes structure, content, utility, railroad, highway and agricultural damage, and includes future value adjustments.

Kemmerle, also noted, that if a 100 year storm, that is, a storm of the intensity of Agnes which struck in 1972, would come in 1978, $3.3 million in damages would result in the borough.

The SCS's watershed study has shown that land uses are shifting from agriculture to conservation, recreation, woodland and urban uses. Regardless of the use, they stress that proper treatment is needed to protect the resource base and control the erosion and sediments.

Their report stated that there are 84 landowners who control 8,118 acres who have become district cooperations with the soil conservation service. This represents approximately 35 per cent of the watershed.

Approximately 50 per cent of the watershed land resources are adequately protected, the report noted.

The report states that terraces and diversions, grassed waterways, contour stripcropping, tile draining, tree planting, pasture and hayland planting, woodland and management plans, and harvest cuts have been applied to the land in the watershed.

Similar practices such as those, along with conservation cropping systems, cover cropping, diversions, minimum tillage, woodland stand improvement, ansd storm water management are needed to treat the 11,962 acres not adequately protected.

Gross erosion from the watershed, the report went on to say, includes sources primarily from sheet and rill erosion and streambank erosion. The present annual gross erosion rate in the watershed is about 5.5 tons per acre. The primary contributors of this erosion are agricultural lands and streambanks.

Chickies Creek and its tributaries were divided into eight evaluation reaches for the hydrologic study, with numerous cross sections, within each reach, developed to determine the flooding characteristics and flood plain delineations.

Water quality studies were also conducted and the results of these will be available in November.

Several alternatives were offered by the Soil Conservation Service.

Three different dam sites were offered as a possible means of controlling the floodplain waters.

Site 1 would be located at White Oak and control 18.2 square miles of drainage. Site 1a would be located about 3,000 feet upstream from White Oak and control 11.5 square miles of drainage. Site 1b would be located on a tributary which enters the White Oak reservoir.

Site 10 would be located abvut a mile upstream from the High Street bridge in Manheim. This dam would give the most protection and offer the highest control of the floodplain area. The dam would be 48 feet in height, requiring 800 acres of land. It would offer 6,110 feet of floodwater storage.

The Soil Conservation Service told that upcoming efforts of the study will be focused on identifying alternatives. On September 22, Soil Conservation Service personnel were available in Manheim to record suggestions made by the public for this project.

The Chickies Creek Watershed Association will hold a director's meeting on Monday, September 25, to discuss the alternatives offered at the meeting and other business discussed there.

Questions concerni;ng the watershed project should be directed to the Soil Conservation Serice contact person, who is Warren Archibald, District Conservationist, Farm and Home Center, Room 4, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, pa. 17601. He can be reached by phone at 717-394-0681, ext 561.

The Chickies Creek Watershed project is sponsored by the Lancaster County Commissioners, the Manheim Borough Council, and the Lancaster Conservation District.

Colored breeds dairy show held at Reading Fair

By LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

READING -- There seemed to be no surprises in the top placed animals in the five colored breeds represented at the Reading Fair Dairy Shows, held September 13. Judging the five shows were Robert Kauffman and Allan Bair.

For the Aryshire Show, the Henley family came out on top again while competing against five other exhibitors. Mildred Seeds, Downingtown took the highest honors in the Jersey Show. For Brown Swiss, top honors were awarded to Richard Heyer of Kutztown and Scott Hauseman, Oley. The Tischler family of Downingtown proved to be unmatched with their prize winning Guernseys and Pinesedge Farms, Shoemakersville, still holds the Grand Champion titles for Milking Shorthorn, as shown by the Yoder family.

Ayrshire Show

Young William Henley took many of the ribbons of the Ayrshire show including Senior and Grand Champion. His highest placed animal, Towerview Kelly's Heather, is a four year old sired by Oak Ridge Flashy Kellogg. Other honors won by this exhibitor included first place ribbons in senior heifer calf, senior get-of-sire, and produce of dam classes. He was placed second in junior yearling, aged cow, and dairy herd classes and took third placed ribbons in junior calf, three year-old, and dam and daughter classes.

Showing the Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Champion was Kennard Henley III. Kennard also had the second placed senior calf, four-year-old, and produce of dam, and won blue ribbons in two year-olds, three year-olds, aged cows, best three females, and dam and daughter and the dairy herd classes.

Sharon Nolan, Cochranville, showed both the junior and reserve junior champions. These animals were the first placed senior yearling and junior heifer calf. Sharon also had three year-old and third placed best three females as well as the second placed dam and daughter. Other exhibitors included Christine Dietrich, Hamburg, with the first placed intermediate calf and junior yearling. Lois Heyer, Kutztown, showed the second placed junior heifer calf, and Ann Baroni, Downingtown, had the second placed intermediate calf, leaving Brian Nolan, Cochranville with the third placed junior yearling.

Guernsey Show

Brown Swiss Show

In Brown Swiss competition Senior and Grand Champion honors were awarded to Richard Heyer, Kutztown, for his four-year-old cow which was also chosen as best udder. Richard also showed the second placed three year-old. Reserve Senior Champion and Reserve Grand Champion was exhibited by Scott Hauseman, Oley, which was his three year-old cow. Scott had other first place honors in intermediate calf which went on to become the reserve junior calf and fourth in junior yearling classes.

The Junior Champion of the show was Wasyl Onulack, Coopersburg, exhibiting the first place junior heifer. Wasyl placed second in that class also second in junior yearlings, and first in senior yearlings. Gary Hauseman, Oley, showed the first place senior heifer, second intermediate calf, and third junior yearling. Gregg German, Pottstown, had the first placed junior yearling.

Milking Shorthorns

Pinesedge Farms produced all the Champions of the Milking Shorthorn Show this year. Grand Champion Bull was a Senior Yearling, Kingsdale Rosie's Prince. Senior and Grand Champion rosettes were awarded to an aged cow shown by Nedra Yoder, Shoemakersville. Nedra also showed the first placed junior yearling to Reserve Junior Champion, following her sister Wendy who had the Junior Champion in her senior yearling. A three year old cow exhibited by Pinesedge Farm was awarded Reserve Grand Champion.

Frederick Yoder showed the first placed two year-old and four year-old, while J. Douglas Marsh, Sadsburyville, showed the first placed bull calf, senior heifer, third placed senior yearling, and second placed dry cow.

Jersey Show

Top-O-Hill Farm, owned by Mildred Seeds, Downingtown swept Grand Champion of the Jersey Show, taking the Grand Champion Bull and Senior and Grand Campion Cow titles in the open show. Top-O-Hill also placed first in senior heifer, junior yearling, two year old, three year old and four year old classes, as well as the junior and senior get-of-sire, best three females, and dairy herd classes.

Showing the Grand Champion of the 4-H show was Bruce Heller, Downingtown. Bruce also had the first place two year-old and aged cow, was third in produce of dam and first in dam and daughter. Other exhibitors were Harold Dietrich Jr., first in junior heifer calf, fourth in 2 year-olds. Helen McCahon, Downingtown showed the third placed junior heifer, while Henry Heyer, Kutztown was first in intermediate calf, third in junior yearlings, and first in junior and senior yearlings.

Mike Tischler, Downingtown, was second in 2 year-olds and his sister Susan was second in 3 year-olds.

Senate adopts conference report

WASHINGTON, D.C. – U.S. Senator Herman E. Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry, said that a conference bill adopted by the Senate recently will cut through the red tape that has virtually immobilized the Federal pesticide regulation program.

"The bill represents a sound balance between the interest of pesticide users, and the concern of all Americans for the preservation of the environment and the protection of human health," Talmadge said in urging the Senate to approve the Conference report.

Senate approval of the conference report was next to the last step in the prolonged Congressional effort to rewrite the 1972 Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act. House adoption of the report is necessary to send the legislation to the White House.

The bill has been in the Congressional works for almost two years.

'Champions chosen at E-town hog and sheep show

By KENDACE BORRY

ELIZABETHTOWN — Peg Mullen , Bainbridge R1, has the distinction of showing the first champion hog at the Elizabethtown Fair this week as that fair held its first livestock competition in its' five year history.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mullen, Peg showed a 215 Duroc gilt which had earlier been named the mediumweight champion.

Duane Hernley, Elizabethtown R1, showed the champion market lamb, which was a 92 pound Suffolk. He also had the reserve champion market lamb.

She is a third year member of the Elizabethtown FFA at Elizabethtown High School where she serves as FFA reporter.

The reserve champion hog was shown by Janice Kaylor, Elizabethtown R3. She was also named the top showman of the fair.

Her hog was a mediumweight Landrace-Duroc gilt which was the reserve champion in that weight class.

This was Janice's first year of showing hogs although in recent years she has had the distinction of showing both the reserve grand champion and the grand champion steer at the Pa. Farm Show as well as showing beef cattle at other shows and fairs.

She is a senior at the Elizabethtown High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Shelly Kaylor.

The champion lightweight hog was shown by Tom Lytle, Elizabethtown R1, who exhibited a 200 pound black spotted gilt. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lytle, he is a sophomore at the Elizabethtown High School where he is a second year member of the FFA.

A white 230 pound barrow shown by Les Kreider, Elizabethtown R1. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Kreider.

Duane Hernley, 16, Elizabethtown R1, showing three of the five market lambs shown in the sheep judging, won both the championship and the reserve championship. His grand champion entry was a 92 pound Suffolk.

Hernley is a senior at Elizabethtown High School, where he is a fourth year member of the FFA. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Hernley.

Judge for the shows was Dave Coble, Hershey R1.

chance to discuss it with breeders here this coming week. Many dairy specialists from several agricultural colleges will also be there.

As in previous years, there'll be visitors here from foreign countries. They'll come to see the best in order to be able to improve their stock. And that's what a show like this is really all about.

It's an event which shouldn't be missed even if your interest in the dairy business is just casual.

Truth and fact wage war against fallacy

CAMP HILL – A voice to prove simple scientific fact to the government is the main purpose of Council for Agricultural Science and Technology, CAST, stated Dr. C.E. Howes at the PennAg Industries Convention on Sept. 20. "It is a more effective means of utilizing the only weapon we have, truth and scientific fact."

CAST, said Howes who is liason officer, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, is involved with agriculture as a national concern. Data is accumulated with effective dissemination of these facts to industry leaders and policy makers rather than repeating the message to people in agriculture who already know the story.

"Your environment is being formed this week for next year" he stated. Legislation is being made now, for what you will be able to use your land for a year from now. Besides land use, herbicide and pesticides are being banned and antibiotics and preservatives are receiving strict control. These regulations will determine what is safe, economical, reliable, and convenient food stuffs for our future, but Howes questioned the methods of determination for these regulations.

"Today's society has the concept that modern day agriculture is forcing cancer upon us" Howes said as he cited recent concepts published in various well-known publications that were still using theories of the early 1900's from Rachel Carson's book "Silent Spring," which was written when little scientific fact was known. Howes cited that in the early 1900's the average American life span was 45 years. Influenza and diptheria were some major causes of such a high mortality rate. "But today we have limited these deaths and increased our life span to 75 years. Cancer, a disease related to age has increased due to our increasing life span."

"There has been false distinction between natural and unnatural chemicals," he said. "There is an important difference between natural and man made chemicals. Plants must have both broken down to the same elements to utilize them. There are hundreds of chemicals produced by nature that are dangerous. Many man-made chemicals are the same as plants. Plants don't want to be eaten," he said. "The chemicals they produce are for their protection. Man-made chemicals are essentially the same." "Companies should investigate what plants are making and make the same" Howes prescribed. There are some chemicals which decrease cancer because they kill insects which produce a toxin which causes stomach cancer. Yet these chemicals are going to be banned.

"We cheerfully overlook the fact that aspirin could not pass the pesticide tests," he said.

Howes advocated that we must demand correction of the gross inconsistencys of government policies, and that regulatory agencies realize their is no absolute zero risk in life.

Proper energy forecast emphasized at PennAg

CAMP HILL – "There is no crystal ball for the energy future" said William B. Murray in his speech titled "A Look Ahead - At Energy" at Wednesday's PennAg Convention in Camp Hill.

"It may be useful to consider some yardsticks for assessing the energy forecasts with which we are bombarded daily" said Murray who is vice-president of communications for the GUP Service Corp., N.J. He suggested that as recent forecasts on energy are read, their validity be tested by assessing who is making the forecast, what his or her special interest may be and what is being said along with the validity of the information.

Murray advised you know the interests of the forecaster because they may conflict with your own interests. "It is essential as you look at their utterings that you know where their hearts lie" he said. He urged conventioneers to watch for a technique for devising titles which some organizations use. "Many end up sounding like prestigious academic organizations or formal government agencies when, in fact, they are nothing resembling that." Murray urged caution and skepticism in automatically linking names and titles with forecasting accuracy or objectivity.

Murray advocated when measuring what is being said, you treat it like an insurance policy and read the fine print. "Headline writers are not noted for accuracy. Their aim is to catch your eye. Maybe in a divorce case or murder trial that's okay but in something as complex as our energy future the potential for error is horrendous." Murray urged the audience to dig for the behind-the-scenes details.

As a final measure of the validity of projections, Murray recommended that the responsibilities of the forecaster be determined. "If one is not going to be held accountable for the consequences of a forecast, I would be wary" he said.

Having given some criteria for assessing energy forecasts, Murray offered a few projections of his own while asking the assembly to evaluate them with the yardsticks he had outlined.

Murray prescribed the use of electrical energy will more than double in the New Jersey and Pennsylvania area by the year 2000, even though conservation programs have been in effect.

"Often overlooked is the energy need of those citizens still near the bottom rung of the economic ladder. If these people are to have a chance of improving their lot, we must have more energy" he said. Murray felt that Americans who live comfortably today, do so because of the technology and jobs made possible by an adequate supply of electricity. Denying the less fortunate the chance of establishing a higher standard of living would have a potentially dangerous social impact. We are not to doubt the growing need for electricity, this Summer showed record peak loads in the Pennsylvania and New Jersey areas.

Murray raised the question of what fuels can be used to satisfy the growing demand for electricity. Supplies of oil and natural gas are limited. "Oil", he said, "has far too many other valuable uses to be burned to generate electricity. You in the Agribusiness know this better than I. Fertilizers and pesticides, along with the production of medicine, plastics and lubricants, must be the future priority uses for oil and natural gas."

"This leaves us with coal and nuclear power as our only realistic fuel sources for the generation of electricity over the next several decades" he stated. "It would be foolhardy to rely on only one of these to meet our needs", said Murray as he gave last Winter's coal strike as an example to appreciate the fallacy of a one-fuel economy.

Murray recommended a better way must be found to balance our growing need for energy and our desire to protect the environment. Obstacles must be overcome. Progress has been unbearably slow in passing current legislation for the licensing and construction of nuclear power plants. "Nuclear power should not be underestimated. A third of the GPU system's electrical output, serving some 4 million people in Pennsylvania and New Jersey is nuclear-based today.

Murray looked further into the picture, summerizing that solar energy will be an energy source of the future, but at this time more research is needed to make it an economically feasable energy source.

He concluded by saying "The only realistic course is to move forecefully in overcoming the obstacles to increased energy from today's fuels, primarily coal and nuclear, so we will have the time to commercialize the new energy sources for tomorrow."

cooperatives is confident of having the facility be profitable and successful.

"We're disappointed that the plant hasn't opened sooner, but we're optimistic," Strock continued in a telephone interview Thursday afternoon. The major problems surrounding the delayed opening concern the waste treatment plant. A specialist from Purdue University has been contacted to alleviate that situation. Specifically, the problem was having enough of the beneficial bacteria that are needed to process the waste materials.

Despite the delay for full use of facilities at Holly, Strock is pleased that portions of the complex are in use. His cooperative has been using several of the storage tanks as a collection point for milk which is subsequently shipped out on tanker trucks to points West, including Ohio. He notes that although MCMP members produced 6 per cent less milk during August 1978, compared to August 1977, surplus milk is still in the area. For the first 15 days of September, MCMP producers lagged three per cent behind last year's production levels.

"The use of those tanks is very helpful and profitable to us right now, Strock assured. "The facility is performing a very valuable service."

The Holly plant has been called the most modern in the world, according to spokesmen at Inter-State and MCMP. A national magazines which deals specifically with milk handling and processing has contacted the owners about possibilities of featuring the new complex in its pages.

While admitting that the costly venture has been strewn with obstacles and delays, the word from both cooperatives is that a time of profitable use and benefit to dairymen is near. The board of directors meets next week to discuss further plans and the final go-ahead may be received at that time.

Berks County poultrymen plan revival of barbecue tradition

READING — The Berks County Poultry Association will revive a tradition of the 1950's next Sunday when it resurrects the annual barbecue and meeting. It will be held Oct. 1 at the 'Sol' Shearer Barbecue Ranch, southwest of Shillington. Dinner will be served at 1:30 p.m.

Billing the event an "Afternoon of Fun in the Sun" and reminiscing by all persons engaged in or friends of the poultry industry, the Berks County Poultry Association is hopeful of rebuilding a tradition which at one time drew as many as 500 persons. The barbecue was a tradition throughout the 1950's. The most recent such event took place in 1960.

Following the serving of dinner, the Association will hold an election of officers. The "official reminiscer" will be Lowell Blass of Walpole, N.H. who was a former Berks County agricultural Extension agent, having served the area during the late 1940's and early 1950's. Blass is presently vice president, director of sales, for Hubbard Farms, and is well acquainted with the poultry industry.

There will be a special recognition of the pioneers who started the original barbecue events, among them former Penn State University poultry specialist Carl Dassin.

Aside from the eating and reminiscing, there will also be various game facilities for both adults and children.

To arrive at the Shearer Barbecue Ranch, go south on Route 222 from Shillington, about three miles beyond Two Guys, turn right at directional sign and follow signs to the Ranch.

Houseplant course offered

UNIVERSITY PARK – Houseplants are currently popular in decorating one's home. Used singly or in attractive groupings, they create an atmosphere of warmth, beauty, and life in a room.

If growing plants indoors is new, a person needs to determine where one wants plants to grow and how much light is available before selecting them. Temperature and humidity are important in growing some houseplants.

Some houseplants, such as philodendron, dracaena, podocarpus, kentia palm, pittosporum, and schefflera, do stand more adverse conditions. However, to have healthy, attractive plants, good horticulture must be practiced.

Penn State has provided Correspondence Course entitled House Plant Culture. Written to provide basic information about growing plants indoors, the course discusses how to provide a suitable environment for a variety of houseplants through natural and/or artificial lighting, heat, and humidity control, suitable soil mixes, diseases, and containers.

A person can get a copy of the course by sending $3 to Houseplants, Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802. Check should be made payable to Penn State.

Proper use of antibiotics critical

CAMP HILL — Pennsylvania farmers who are neglecting to follow instructions on antibiotic containers could cause legislators to enact laws which will ban the use of medications by farmers, warned Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture while addressing the centennial meeting of the PennAg Industries Association.

Accordng to the Secretary, such moves were already underway at least once on the state level. The reasoning behind such moves is that there continues to be evidence that foods are occasionally contaminated by antibiotics. Overcoming this problem is one of the major challenges facing agriculture, proclaimed Shelhamer.

But Shelhamer didn't aim his warning to just farmers. Speaking to an organization of agribusinessmen, the Secretary pointed out that at least two animal poisonings have occurred in Pennsylvania in recent years for which feed mills were responsible. In another case, a company lost $1000 per day because of a dye that was found in milk.

Product assurance is what farmers and agribusinessmen must concern themselves with both now and in years to come, Shelhamer emphasized. "Or else there will be additional moves to legislate this area," he warned.

"A bill had been in the Pennsylvania Senate to prohibit the sale of antibiotics to farmers and to prohibit cosmetic surgery by farmers," Shelhamer explained. Cosmetic surgery would include such routine on-the-farm practices as dehorning and castration. Leaving no doubt that he and his Department are concerned over such moves by legislators, Shelhamer noted that these actions were spawned because "some people have chosen to ignore the directions on the lable."

While new and more restrictive governmental regulations might not be avoidable, Shelhamer urged the gathering of agribusinessmen to do all they could to impress farmers of the need to use medications as directed.

Land and water use are two more important issues which face agriculture today and may well become more critical in years to come. He pointed out that there are projects and studies being considered now which could severly curtail the rights which farmers have to water. He urges that farmers and agribusinesses become concerned and involved in order to protect agricultural interests.

Noting that Pennsylvania has lost a third of its farmland since World War II, Shelhamer exclaimed his Department is concerned about the land and the families on the farm.

"As land use changes, you'll see society change," the Secretary continued. "I suggest you get active in local rule to protect your interests." The agriculture department head noted that the public is becoming increasingly annoyed by grain dust, feed dust and noise. In one case, a farmer received a court order to refrain from using his grain dryer between the hours of 6 p.m. and 8 a.m.

"Eating habits will also change in the years ahead," Shelhamer continued. People will continue to consume more of their meals away from home: "This has a direct effect on marketing patterns and agricultural production," Shelhamer explained.

One hundred years ago, when PennAg Industries was founded, the consumer spent an average of 58 per cent of his income on food, Shelhamer said. "Today, food may seem to be expensive, but it's a real bargain," he proclaimed, persuading farmers and agribusinessmen to go out and tell the story of agriculture's efficiency.

In order to meet the challenges of the future, Shelhamer said that the varied independents of agriculture must cooperate with one another. He said that independent American agriculture has become a proven way of life.

American agriculture and the supporting agribusinesses are also interdependent on one another, Shelhamer explained. It's necessary if the system is going to flourish in the future.

In concluding his remarks, the Secretary noted that PennAg Industries has been an integral part of the changes that have taken place in agriculture during the last century and that he is confident of PennAg's continued involvement and success.

Consumer buying trends stressed

CAMP HILL – "Consumers will not be buying this year" predicted Ted D. Gibson, Senior Economist of Mellon Bank, Pittsburgh. "Business firms seem to be aware of this. Many retail chains realize this Christmas season won't be a good one, and they have cut back on inventory because of this" Gibson said in his opening remarks to the PennAg Industries Convention on Sept. 20.

"Consumer debt burden in 1978 have been the highest ever seen" Gibson said in his morning speech titled "A Look Ahead – At the Economy". Gibson continued to say our society has a need to have something short term to blame on our economy. We have established a "culprit of the month" which has ranged from food to mortgage, Gibson said we must all look further than the "culprit of the month" to find a solution to our economic problems. "Three out of five U.S. families have an average of two wage earners. There is a very rapid labor growth at this time due to the 'baby boom' which is having a great effect on our economy."

Gibson eluded that today's society, business and special interest groups feel they have an inside tract to Washington, D.C. They find it easier to fight their economic battles through a direct, personal favor type route. This year we have seen a large increase in social security, minimum wage and environmental regulation. Gibson said "the result of this has reduced our growth and output per hour of work." Government is requesting voluntary restraint in the private sector while on the other hand, Carter walked into his administration with a 400 billion dollar budget, which he now proposes to increase to 500 billion dollars.

Gibson said "there is a possibility to decrease growth of government expenditures, but even more possible to decrease government expansion. Bureaucracy is the strongest advocate. We should reallocate resources within the present framework."

Property tax defended at Grange meeting

HARRISBURG – David Kirkpatrick, research analyst for Senator Patrick Stapleton of Indiana County, told the Pennsylvania State Grange's Agricutural, Legislative, and Dairy Committees that the property tax is not as bad as it seems.

Kirkpatrick addressed the Grange's committees at the Excellent Inn in Harrisburg last week.

"This problem with the property tax in this state is the way it is utilized," said Kirkpatrick, "those school districts that are wealthier are the ones that benefit more from these revenues."

School districts presently receive about 36 per cent of their operating revenues from property taxes.

Wealthier districts have larger amounts of money available to them through property taxes.

Kirkpatrick cited that about $1.5 billion dollars in school revenues are gained from the property tax.

"If property tax were to be abolished, there would have to be a 1.5 per cent increase in the income tax to make up the difference."

Kirkpatrick went on to point out that Pennsylvania does not have the highest property tax.

"There are 36 states that have a higher property tax than we do," he said.

Pennsylvanians pay about $175 per person, while in 1976, New Jersey's residents paid about $446 per person.

In summary, Kirkpatrick stated that the existence of the property tax was not the problem.

"The real problem is that we lack an equitable assessment formula to equalize the utilization of tax revenues in our school districts."

Urban birds like country setting

UNIVERSITY PARK – Trees and shrubs are the best devices to attract birds into urban areas, studies at The Pennsylvania State University indicate. The findings also confirm what most bird watchers see, that feeders increase the number of birds around individual homes, especially in Winter.

Wooded residential sites had a significantly higher number of species and individual birds than non-wooded or field habitats. This was true in both Summer and Winter.

Natural stands of trees and shrubs were most effective in increasing bird numbers and variety of species. However, planted trees and shrubs of significant size and number were acceptable.

Bird feeders were the single most important factor in Winter to attract a variety of species. Even the Downy woodpecker, highly dependent on deciduous forests, was found at feeders in non-wooded residential sites. Bird populations were notably low in old fields during Winter - the habitat with the least trees or shrubs and no bird feeders.

The study was financed by the Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the U.S. Fish and Widlife Service. The pinchot Institute Consortium for Environmental Forestry Studies helped coordinate the project.

New food labeling system requested

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. – The American Soybean Association has asked the federal government to develop procedures for a food labeling system that would provide consumers with clear information about the ingredients in their food purchases.

"Recent action by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration permits food labels to contain an optional listing of vegetable oils which may or may not be contained in food products," said Nick Rose, a Roseland, Arkansas, soybean producer and ASA chairman of the board. "The labels of some food products list up to five or six vegetable oils which may or may not be used in the product. We believe these labels have created confusion and uncertainty and feel strongly that American consumers have the basic right to know the contents of their food purchases without going through such a guessing game."

Rose presented his testimony in a Little Rock hearing held by the Food and Drug Administration, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Federal Trade Commission. He noted that soybean growers at their recent annual meeting had adopted a resolution calling for new food label regulations which would provide food labels which list in descending order the oils or fats contained in food products.

"We recognize that source oil labeling may be an unnecessary burden to food manufacturers if required on all products containing fats and oils," Rose testified. "We suggest that specific source oil labeling not be required on foods where fats and oils are a nutritionally insignificant component of the food.

Rose pointed out that some in the medical profession recommend inclusion or avoidance of specific types of fats and oils in certain food diets for health reasons such as reduction or elimination of cholesterol and/or saturated fats.

"Soy oil is a healthful, nutritious oil that represents a very large market for American soybean growers," Rose said. "It is used in 78 per cent of all margarines, 75 per cent of all salad and cooking oils and 60 per cent of all food fats and oils consumed in the U.S. This consumption contributes more than $4 billion to income to American soybean growers."

Food prices investigated

WASHINGTON, D.C. – House Agriculture Committee Members Fred Richmond (D.-N.Y.), Richard Noland (D-Minn.), and John Jenrette (D-S.C.) have announced the release of a General Accounting Office report entitled "What Causes Food Prices to Rise and What Can Be Done About It." The report is the result of a three-year long GAO investigation into the widening farm-retail food price spread, and its impact on related food industry costs and profits.

According to Richmond, the study indicates that the government can and should take stronger action to curb food price inflation and monitor food prices. In the report GAO calls upon Congress to enact legislation to monitor food production, processing, marketing, and pricing. In addition, the Secretaries of Agriculture and Transportation and the Interstate Commerce Commissioner are urged to re-evaluate regulations governing the transportation of food in the U.S.

Richmond, chairman of the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Domestic Marketing, Consumer Relations and Nutrition, stated his intention to follow through on the GAO suggestion to develop a comprehensive system to monitor food prices and food industry profits by gaining access to confidential pricing policies. Richmond praised the report, saying it would form "the basis of our work on agricultural problems during the next two years."

Course on bees available

UNIVERSITY PARK – The best results for overwintering bees occur when bees are left on their Summer stands, according to Penn State's correspondence course on Beekeeping. Other steps are involved in Fall management to ensure that bees survive cold weather, including entrance cleats on apiaries, uniting weak colonies, and requeening colonies with old queens.

Beekeeping also gives methods for successful production of comb and extracted honey, seasonal management, rearing of queens, control of bee diseases, enemies of the honeybee, and preparing comb or extracted honey for the market.

This 10-lesson correspondence course offers directions on how to begin a beekeeping enterprise or improve an existing operation. Included with the course are Pennsylvania Cooperative Extension circulars on Beekeeping and Diseases of Bees and Their Control.

To order a copy of this course one can send $5.50 to Beekeeping, Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802. One should make check payable to Penn State.

speaks of his hours spent on his big machines.

"They're powerful machines," he noted. "The most powerful things that a person can drive. There is a real thrill in competing, and I really like it."

"I like the people you meet at the pulls," he continued. "They're very friendly, and very real people, a lot of them are farm folks. It's very much like a big farm family."

From Beaver County, Carl Vogel and Russell Zahn, were found before the pull preparing for their classes. The two young men travel around the state for tractor pulls, estimating that they have travelled to about 30 of them this year.

Vogel, 18 years old, has a 427 Chevy engine powered tractor called the Clodhopper which he uses in the 7000 Modified class. He got started by travelling to fairs to see tractor pulls and "does it for fun".

Zahn, who uses a Farmall 400 powered by two 427 Chevy engines that is called the Orange Squeezer, has been involved in tractor pulling for three years. He tells that he just "wanted one" and so he now estimates that he has about $3,000 invested in his tractor.

He thought tractor pulling appeals to everyone, being the heaviest sport on wheels. "It's a growing sport," he noted. "The crowds just grow and grow."

There were eight classes held at the Buck stadium between the two nights of competition.

In the 9000 Modified, Ron Bickel, from Versailles, Ohio, took first place with is Massey Ferguson 55, powered by an Allison aircraft engine and pulling 250 feet, three inches.

Dennis Wilson, Greenville, Ohio, and his Cockshutt E4, with a 427 Ford engine, won the 7000 Modified, with a pull of 272 feet, three inches.

Danny Dean, South Charleston, Ohio, with an International 1066 won both the 9000 Super Stock and the 12,000 Super Stock. In the 9000 Super Stock, he pulled 258 feet, six inches; and in the 12,000 Super Stock, he made two free pulls.

In the 7000 Super Stock, Harry Savage, Monrovia, Maryland, took his John Deere 4010 to the top of the class with a pull of 290 feet, four inches.

Wayne Ross, Concord, New Hampshire, took the 5000 Modified, with his Oliver 1650 powered by a 454 Chevy engine. He had a full pull followed by a pull of 241 feet, five inches.

In the 5000 Super Stock, Tim Stauffer, Ephrata, with his Deutz 8006, won the class pulling a total of 269 feet, six inches.

And in the 12,000 Unlimited Class, John Shaul, Fultonham, New York, with his Cockshutt, powered by an Allison aircraft engine won the class by making a full pull, the only one in the class.

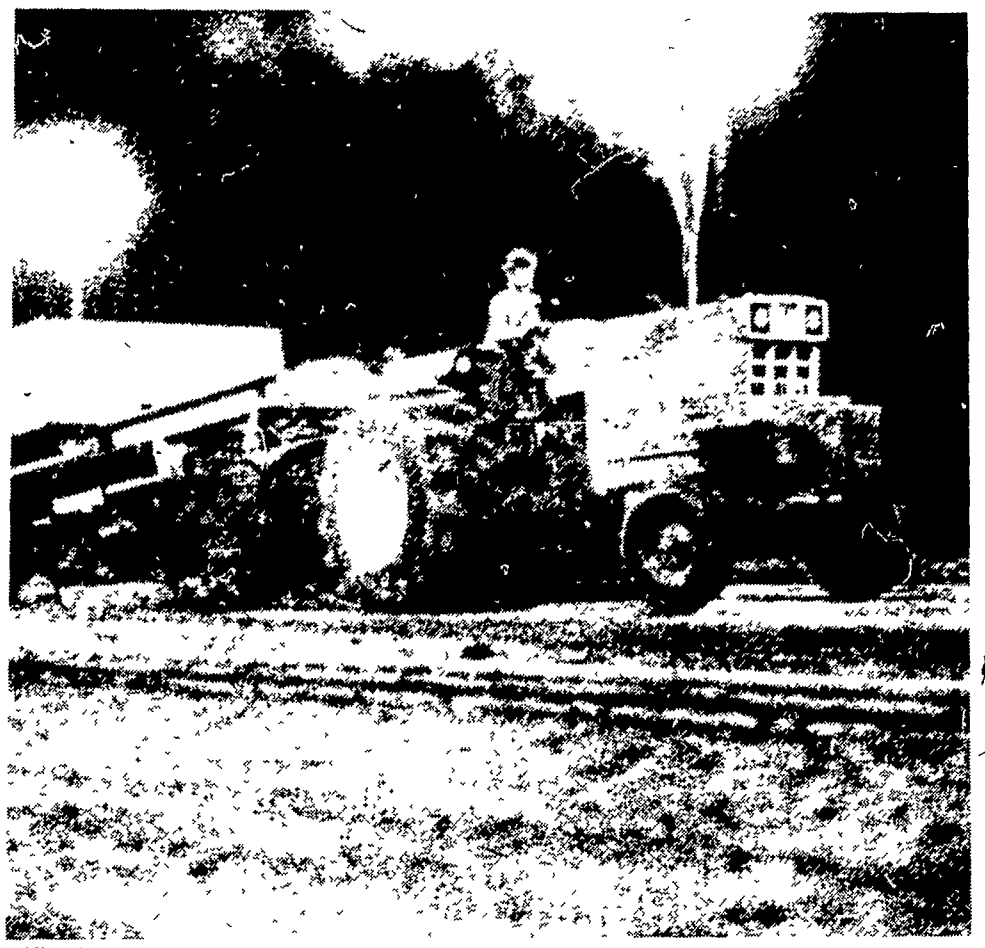
Complete results of the tractor pull follow:

9000 Modified

1. Ron Beikel, Versailles, Ohio; 2. Maurice Cayer, Casselman, Canada; 3. Ralph Banter, Lafontaine, Indiana.

7000 Modified

1. Dennis Wilson, Greenville, Ohio; 2. Ralph Banter, 3. Michael Hoff, Westminister, Md.



Winning the 9000 Super Stock, Danny Dean, from South Charleston, Ohio, urged his International Harvester 1066 to a pull of 258 feet, 6 inches. Later he went on to win the 12,000 Super Stock class also.

9000 Super Stock

1. Danny Dean, S. Charleston, Ohio; 2. Tom Middleton, Ridgely, Md.; 3. Harry Griest, Coatesville.

7000 Super Stock

Steve Leiser is Pork Cookout King

YORK – As the mouth-watering smell of barbecuing pork wafted over the watching crowd at the York Fair's livestock exhibit ring, Windsor R1 hog grower Steve Leiser set a table with fine china and uncorked the bottle of wine that would accompany the meal he was carefully preparing.

"Sweet and Sassy Pork" is what Leiser cooked up for the contest, and the original concoction earned him the crown of Pork Cookout King. Runner up in the competition was Joseph Shaeffer.

Judges for this year's countywide cook-off were Joann Lamberson, York Extension home economist, Phil Smyser, 4-H leader and life member of the Fair's Agricultural Society, and Rich Davidson of WGAL Channel 8 news team.

Criteria for judging the entries were the originality and preparation of the pork cut used, use of Pennsylvania products in the recipe and showmanship and flair in cooking and serving techniques.

The name for the subtle-flavored chops was coined by Leiser and his fiance while they were on their way to the contest.

"I'm sweet and she's sassy – that's how we came up with that title," quipped Leiser, who's also a field representative of the Pennfield Corporation.

Flavored with overnight marination in the original sauce, the pork dish called for fresh half-inch butterfly chops. Ingredients in the sauce are a half cup of soy sauce, a half-cup of honey, 1 clove of garlic that's been minced fine, and 1 tablespoon of monosodium glutamate (flavor enhancer).

All the sauce ingredients should be mixed, and the chops allowed to sit overnight in the refrigerator covered with the marinade. Next day, grilling of the meat should be done on a well-greased grill, about six to eight inches above hot coals. Chops should be turned every two to three minutes, and are ready to eat in twenty to thirty minutes.

Steve Leiser's "Sweet and Sassy Pork" pleased the judges enough to win him the title of pork Cookout King during the cook-off at the York Fair. The Windsor pork grower will now pack up his grill and tools to compete at the state level.

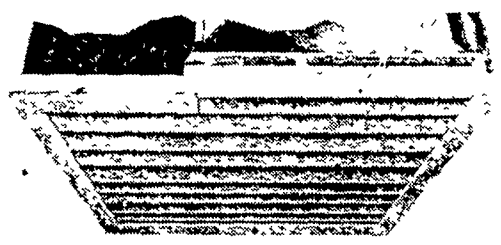
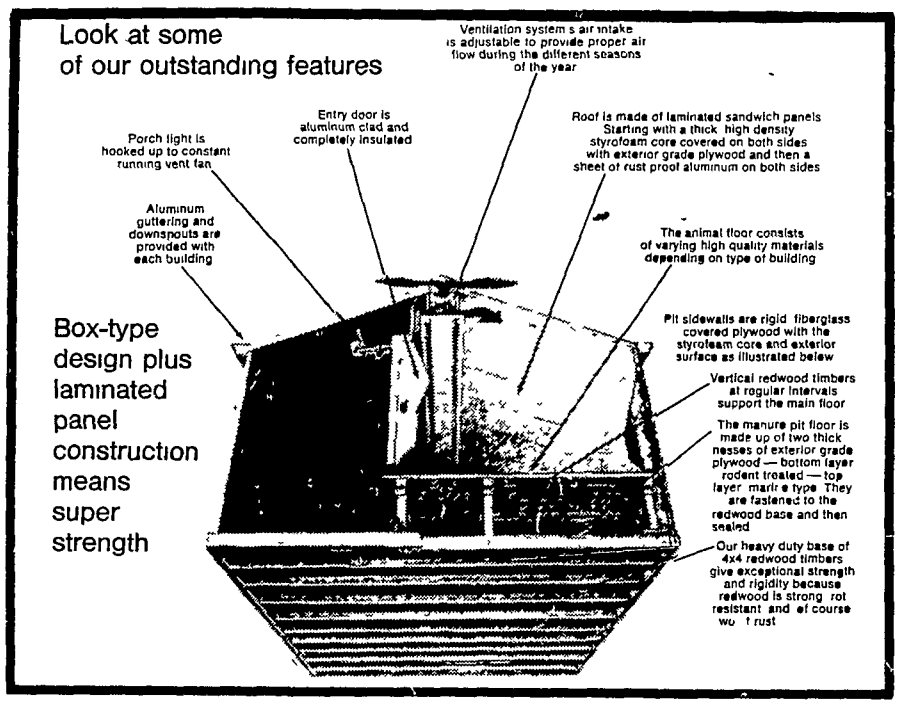
AGSTAR THE QUALITY CONFINEMENT BUILDINGS
PITLESS OR SELF-CONTAINED



Also available in our PITLESS MODULAR construction

The base of the pitless buildings is constructed with 2" x 10" treated timbers across the width on 24" centers. They are fastened with joist hangers to 2"x10" timbers running the length of the building on each side. We also have a 2"x8" flat plate which is fastened to the perimeter of the base and is mechanically fastened to the wall of the concrete pit when installed.

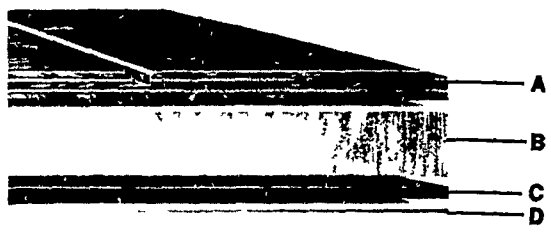
Look at some of our outstanding features



Ventilation system s air intake is adjustable to provide proper air flow during the different seasons of the year
Porch light is hooked up to constant running vent fan
Entry door is aluminum clad and completely insulated
Roof is made of laminated sandwich panels Starting with a thick high density styrofoam core covered on both sides with exterior grade plywood and then a sheet of rust proof aluminum on both sides
Aluminum guttering and downspouts are provided with each building
The animal floor consists of varying high quality materials depending on type of building
Pit sidewalls are rigid fiberglass covered plywood with the styrofoam core and exterior surface as illustrated below
Vertical redwood timbers at regular intervals support the main floor
The manure pit floor is made up of two thicknesses of exterior grade plywood — bottom layer rodent treated — top layer marine type They are fastened to the redwood base and then sealed
Our heavy duty base of 4x4 redwood timbers give exceptional strength and rigidity because redwood is strong rot resistant and of course wo t rust

Box-type design plus laminated panel construction means super strength

Laminated Wall Panel Design



A The outer wall surfaces are handsome rough sawn red exterior 5/8 plywood Surfaces can be painted another color later if desired by owner to match existing buildings

B The exterior wall is permanently laminated to a full 1½ inch thick core of styrofoam insulation the finest heat and cold barrier we know of for this purpose

C A sheet of 3/16" exterior grade plywood is laminated to the styrofoam core for extra strength and rigidity

D Then, a sheet of rigid fiberglass is laminated to the plywood to form the interior wall surface — a surface that cleans easily and can't harbor bacteria All interior walls are of this fiberglass material The lamination process produces a sandwich panel that is far stronger than the total strengths of all the individual components in the panel

Winners chosen at Reading Fair Holstein Show

By LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

READING — The Shaw family of Oley R2, added two more Grand Champion titles to their long list of dairy showing achievements on September 14 as they competed against more then 70 fellow exhibitors during the Reading Fair 4-H and Open Holstein Shows. Earning these honors and several other first place ribbons was Wendy, while her younger brother Steven took the Reserve Champion 4-H title. He too, exhibited several more first place animals during the lengthy show judged by Jack Fairchilds.

The Grand Champion of both shows, which were held simultaneously, was Bryncoed Astra Dolla, an aged dry cow sired by Paclamar Astronaut. Reserve Champion of the open show was also sired by the same bull, but exhibited by Reu-Hel Farms Inc. This cow was Reu Hel Farms Astro Robin, a four year old, also named best udder of the show.

Continuing to add to Reu-Hel Farms achievements by exhibiting the Junior Champion was 13-year-old Constance Ohlinger and her senior yearling, Reu-Hel Farms Rorae Shu-Shun. The Ohlingers, Mohrsville, owners of Reu-Hel Farms exhibited other first placed entries, and where also named earlier as the 1978 Farm Family, a tradition at the Reading Fair for the past 23 years The complete show results follow:

Pork producers seek congressional help as a result of federal harassment

DES MOINES, Iowa. – Pork producers and their industry associates are fed up with the constant harassment of regulatory actions pouring forth from Washington, according to the interest being exhibited in their ARRWAD membership and funding program that is associated with a petition effort to gain attention of congressmen. This program is being directed and conducted by pork leaders in the 35 member states of the National Pork Producers Council.

ARRWAD is the code name for a nationwide membership and market cooperation drive that is being featured around the theme "Are Reasonable Regulations Worth A Dime?" With their dime per head voluntary funding program keyed to market cooperation and membership support, the pork producers' drive this year centers around those seeking members and market cooperation carrying petitions containing a statement requesting that congressmen emphasize and put forth greater effort to reduce the flood of negative regulatory actions that various segments of government agencies have enacted in recent months that are deterrents to stability and normal growth patterns of the nation's pork industry.

These regulations have created a concern and awareness among pork producers that has deterred their making normal production increases. Their desire to express this concern by joining their local pork organizations and also signing the petitions has been greater than ever expected. These petitions will be presented to congressmen in meetings now being scheduled in the congressional districts. In some cases these meetings are beng planned to handle up to 400 producers at which time they will express their concerns to their congressmen.

Nuts course offered

UNIVERSITY PARK – Do you like to grow plants - both useful and ornamental? Hickory tree or hazelnut bushes grown on home grounds give food as well as landscape interest.

Dr. Marshall Ritter of the department of horticulture, Penn State, has produced a course entitled, Edible Nut Production.

Written for the individual who wants to grow a few nut trees or shrubs, the eleven-lesson course discusses chestnuts, walnuts, hickories, hazels, and filberts. One learns soil and fertilizer needs and disease and insect control.

Improved varieties are listed and described to suit growing conditions. One lesson discusses propagation and grafting with drawings to demonstrate correct ways to graft nut trees.

A person can enroll in this course by sending $6 to Edible Nuts, Box 5000, University Park, Pa 16802, making check payable to Penn State.

Brian Bankert has champion market hog

YORK — Brian Bankert, 11, added another grand championship rosette to his collection last week when he exhibited the grand champion market hog at the York Fair. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Bankert, Hanover, the young member of the Jefferson 4-H Club took a 230-pounder into the ring which the judge described as being a good representative of "today's modern hog."

The runner-up for the high honors was Steve Trostle, 15, son of Mr., and Mrs. Ronald Trostle, Red Lion. His entry was a 225-pounder.

Other placings in the show, which had eight classes, were as follows:

Class 1 - 1. Jennifer DePalmer, Brodbecks; 2. John Mummert, Seven Valleys; 3. Kevin DePalmer, Brodbecks.

Class 2 - 1. Harold Mummert, Seven Valleys; 2. John Mummert, 3. Todd Mummert.

Class 3 - 1. Gus Parlett, Airville; 2. Gus Parlett, 3. Harold Mummert.

Class 4 - 1. Gus Parlett, 2. Brian Bankert, 3. Brian Bankert.

Class 5 - 1. Steve Trostle, 2. Mike McClain, Stewartstown; 3. Jon Janney, Brodbecks.

Class 6 - 1. Melissa Trostle, Red Lion; 2. Todd Mummert, 3. Shelly Bankert.

Class 7 - 1. Brian Bankert, 2. Shelly Bankert, 3. Shelly Bankert.

In fitting and showmanship competition, Gus Parlett, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Parlett, Airville, was named champion fitter and Brian Bankert won the showmanship honor. The respective reserve spots were filled by Beverly Brown of Delta and Steve Trostle of Red Lion.

Placings of the junior, intermediate and senior age groups follow:

Gus Parlett led his age group - 12 years and under - in fitting. Melissa Trostle followed in second place and Brian Bankert was third. In showmanship, Brian Bankert led the pack, followed by Melissa Trostle and Gus Parlett.

Ronnie Wilson was the winner among 12-14 year olds in fitting competition. Steve Trostle followed and Mike McClain was third. In showmanship, Trostle placed first, Michelle Bankert was second, and Harold Mummert was third.

Beverly Brown led the fitting contest among seniors. John Mummert and Kevin DePalmer followed in that order. In showmanship, Mummert placed first, followed by Jeff Wilson and Beverly Brown.

Gus Parlett, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Parlett, Airville, was grand champion swine fitter at the York Fair.

Brian Bankert, 11-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Bankert, Hanover, is a member of the Jefferson 4-H Club and champion swine showman. He had the grand champion market hog in 4-H swine competition this week.

Winning judging teams named

COLLEGE PARK, Md. – Harford and Frederick County senior 4-H teams regained their traditional roles as top contenders in livestock and dairy cattle judging, respectively, this year at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium.

And a Cecil county senior 4-H team moved back to top spot in the poultry and egg section of the 4-H agricultural judging contests, during state fair week.

Meanwhile, a Carroll county senior 4-H team swept to victory in horticulture judging for the second consecutive year. And a Carroll county junior 4-H team won again in dairy cattle judging.

A Prince Georges county junior 4-H team was a repeat winner in poultry and egg judging.

Harford county's state champion senior 4-H livestock judging team boasted perhaps one of the few triple-winner individuals in state fair 4-H judging contest history. Achieving that distinction was Karen Holloway, 15, of Darlington.

Runner-up Gary Ruby, 15, of Hampstead was the champion sheep judge in senior 4-H livestock competition.

Despite team domination by central and western Maryland counties in senior 4-H dairy cattle judging, an Eastern Shoreman won top individual honors. He was Jeffrey Moore, 19, of Centreville.

Moore placed first in Brown Swiss judging and second in Ayrshires. Runner-up Patty Kahler, 16, of Keymar, was first in Guernsey judging and second in Jerseys. She was also first in written reasons.

Sudans linked to horse disease

NORRISTOWN – Horses on sudan or sudan hybrid pastures during the Summer and early Fall may develop "cystitis syndrome," a disease of the urinary bladder.

The causative substance of this disease syndrome is not known, but the symptoms are posterior in coordination, urinary incontinence, and abortion in some pregnanat mares. Also in mares, there is a loss of hair on the hind legs caused by the irritation of the urine. All horses and breeds are susceptible; however, this condition is more prevalent in mares, says Kadwill.

Mares affected with cystitis syndrome commonly exhibit signs of heat; however, this is not true heat, but instead is the result of irritation of the uretha and vagina. Affected geldings exhibit the urinary dribbling. Once urine dribbling is evident, the animals usually die. There are several reports of this condition in horses of the southwest and the one constant factor in each case is the pasturing of sudan or sudan hybrid. Cured hays from these crops are also hazardous for horses.

Warning statements on tags of sudan seed request that this not be used for horse pasture. More recently, reports suggest that sudan pasture may be the cause of fetal anklyosis as well as all or many of the symptoms listed above.

WHAT'S NEW

FEEDLOT VACCINES

A new family of virus and lepto-pasteurella combination vaccines is now available to guard against the major viruses and bacteria which contribute to the shipping fever/ pneumonia complex and leptospirosis.

The new family - available from Anchor Laboratories - takes the guesswork out of deciding whether to use a lepto or a pasteurella diluent with virus vaccines. Through the convenience of a combination bacterin, the feelot can now utilize both in one dose, choosing whichever virus-bacterin combination is right for their cattle.

The lepto-pasteurella virus vaccine combinations are recommended for the immunization of healthy, susceptible cattle against Leptospira pomona, Pasteurella multocida, Pateurella haemolytica, infectious bovine rhinotraceitis (IBR), parainfluenza (PI3) and bovine viral diarrhea (BVD). They are available in various combinations for use with light or heavy-weight calves.

Anchor's IBR vaccines are produced in a stable cell line which offers unsurpassed safety, stability, efficacy, and uniform production. Anchor virus vaccines are packaged in amber vials to protect vaccine potency from the damaging effects of sunlight.

Now that lepto and pasteurella protection are available in one injection, farmers can select a single vaccine that best fits your feedlot need. For further details, see your local Anchor animal health supplier, or write: Anchor Laboratories, Inc., 2621 North Belt Highway, St. Joseph, MO 64502.

Miller and Rex, Inc. top August DHIA herd

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN – The herd of Miller and Rex, Inc., Andreas, had the highest milkfat in Schuylkill County for the month of August, according to information released from that county's Extension service.

The production is given as the average production per cow per day. Miller and Rex., Inc., with 34 cows on test, produced 50.3 pounds of milk per cow per day, with 1.92 pounds of milkfat per cow per day.

Second highest milkfat rating in the county went to Suntrail Dairy Farm, Pitman R1, with 1.90 pounds of milkfat per cow per day. Their 48 cows were rated at 51.2 pounds of milk per day.

William R. Daubert, Pine Grove R2, was third with 1.86 pounds of milkfat and 51.0 pounds of milk per cow per day.

Thirty-two cows finished lactation records with 600 pounds of milkfat in August. The records are based on 305 days or less, two times actual production.

John Rodichok, Tower City, had the top two cows for the month. His Claudin, was the highest listed, with 21,795 pounds of milk, and 883 pounds of milkfat. Missy another of his cows, was rated 18,890 pounds of milk 855 pounds of butterfat.

The Elizabethtown Fair is a 'growing thing'

By SALLY BAIR
Staff writer

The Elizabethtown Community Fair, in its fifth year, is the youngest fair in the county. It is also one of the fastest growing fairs, and helping it grow are two enthusiastic workers who have been involved almost from its beginning.

Mrs. Samuel Myer, Elizabethtown R5, is general chairperson for the marketplace fair and she recalls that she got initiated in the fair when she was asked to help organize the entries five years ago. Mrs. Clay Mumma, Mount Joy R1, current secretary for the marketplace fair, began working with it four years ago. Each year Hilma Mumma says with a laugh, "They get us in deeper."

Despite the long hours and hard work the two agree readily that every effort is worth it. Sara Myer states, "We are proud when everything is displayed. It makes it all worthwhile." Hilma agrees, "Sometimes we get very discouraged, but it is a pleasure to be able to have people display their handwork."

Hilma said she feels the growing Fair is good. "I think it is good for the community to be involved in the Fair and to have an opportunity to show their handcrafts. Many people turn out quality things to display to the public."

Hilma said growth has come in every department, but the needlecraft department is "where we have seen the most growth." Many people enter because they see other people who do it." She predicts continued growth, if people are willing to work at the Fair.

Asked if people can make money on winning entries in the fair, Hilma replied, "I think they do it as a matter of pride. Basically they do the work for nothing, so any premium they win is extra. I would encourage anyone to enter. We get a wide range of people - all ages." She added that young people are eligible to be judged with other youth in any category in the Fair.

Anyone who has ever read a fair booklet knows that there are categories which seem to cover almost anything a person would be interested in entering. Apparently people have additional items they would like to display. Sara said, "Sometimes we get requests for categories, and we try to add when we have a request. Hilma pointed out, however, that the catalogue follows the basic state guidelines. She also noted, "We can only accept in the designated categories."

The Elizabethtown Fair is full of "firsts" this year. Formerly they were not open in the daytime, but Sara said they will open the exhibits from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to closing at the request of local citizens. "People wanted it to be open so they can see everything that's there. Classes from school can now come and see the animals in the barnyard."

This was also the first year for judging of animals. FFA and 4-H project animals in swine and sheep were accepted. Sara said, "We wanted to grow, so we met with FFA and they agreed to do a lot of the work. They helped get sponsors to defray the costs. The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring swine awards and Farmers Fertilizer is sponsoring the sheep trophies." The FFA was responsible for the Kiddie Barnyard, a popular feature from former years.

There was a parade for the first time, a King and Queen contest which involved voting for youngsters in the week prior to the Fair, and a tractor driving contest.

Another big first this year was putting the entry cards on a computerized basis. Hilma said that the work of calculating premiums usually fell to her and Sara and involved many late night hours during fair week. Each year they would say, "There has to be a much simpler way." To find a better way they visited other fairs, including the York Interstate Fair, and discovered that even at that large fair the winners were calculated by hand. The only difference is that the York Fair employs a staff of office workers to carry out the job.

When a computer was suggested as a possibility, the two women were enthusiastic. Sara said, "We are the only fair to be computerized." During the week it meant many fewer hours of work. However, one major problem developed which caused inconvenience for all concerned. While the numbers for the computer were added, the specific numbers of flowers tobacco leaves, etc. needed for an exhibit did not get included in the finished booklet. The women expressed deep regret for the inconvenience caused people in preparing their exhibits, but they said they were planning to make allowances for confusion resulting from the mistake. Prior to the fair, Sara said, "We're going to suffer."

This year the booklet was distributed in a mass delivery with the Merchandiser, which proved an effective way to reach outlying areas around the town. "It cost us some money," Sara said, "But it is the first time we got that much distribution." Hilma added, "We really touched people who garden."

Getting the book out is important as Sara notes, "I think people go through the book right away and plan what they'll bring. Some people start right after the Fair to prepare for next year." Hilma said, "People really plan all year, and work on items just for the Fair."

The two women work as a team, and their preparation for the annual fair begins about two weeks from now, when they will review their successes and study areas which need improvement. Sara noted, "We meet while it is still fresh in our minds, and try to think of anything to improve it. In February we begin having monthly meetings to plan more carefully."

The Elizabethtown Community Fair is sponsored by the Elizabethtown Jaycees, and grew from a community festival to a fair. It has no permanent buildings. Both women praise the efforts of the Jaycees and chairman Joe Maher, with Hilma saying, "The fair gives people something to look forward to. The community needs action, and the fair is a highlight of the Fall."

So far the fair continues to be successful each year, although they have not been blessed with perfect weather. Earlier this week Hilma was predicting good weather, but added, "We take it all in stride." With everything displayed in tents, Sara said they sometimes need plastic to protect exhibits from the elements.

Monday and Tuesday were their busiest days, when they accepted entries and supervised the judging which requires a large number of people to assist. But their work prior to the fair included such important tasks as helping recruit advertisers for the fair booklet, and scheduling as many people as they can for work during the fair.

An interesting sidelight of the fair is the auctioning of the baked goods on the evening of the judging. Sara explained that just a piece of each baked entry is kept for tasting and judging, and the remainder is sold in an auction that goes extremely well. All the money from the auction goes to the community, in many cases going back into the Fair.

Hilma and Sara both do some food preserving of their own, but say they would never enter as exhibitors while being so involved in the administrative end of the Fair.

Hilma described herself as always being a "country girl," although she didn't live on a farm. Since she sews, cans and freezes herself, she said, "I really enjoy seeing other people's things at the Fair." The mother of three children, Hilma said she encourages them to exhibit. She is a member of the Marietta Congregational Bible Church where she was active in the women's group. She was formerly involved with scouting, but a part time job has forced her to curtail some of her former activities.

For Sara, being involved in the Fair is just one more in the list of community activities which she takes seriously. She is vice-president of Lancaster-County Farm Women Society 6, a member of Eastern Star, and is a member of the First Church of God in Elizabethtown. She also works hard on the Dairy Princess Committee and mothered five children. In addition to preserving the fruits of a large garden at her dairy farm home, Sara said, "I enjoy doing for older people. It is very rewarding. I feel young and I feel like working." She recently helped an 86-year-old woman prepare for a move from her home to an apartment, helping her settle in, and she regularly assists a friend with grocery shopping and doctor visits.

Hilma says her family doesn't suffer during the week of the Fair because they enjoy being there in the thick of things as often as possible. Sara said, "My family is very understanding about the work during Fair week."

By the time you read this, the Fair will be nearly over for the fifth year. But it is a certainty that plans will be underway in just a few weeks to make next year's even better. And two reasons why it will be better are Sara and Hilma, who are both committed to a successful, community-oriented Fair.

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Home Economist

CAN CONFLICT BE HELPFUL

Newly married couples soon find it sometimes takes a good fight to let each other know you don't exactly see eye-to-eye on everything all the time.

With differences out in the open, it's often easier to clear the issues that are upsetting the relationship. We often say things in anger that we hesitate to say otherwise. Of course, this has both positive and negative results.

If you're expressing genuine feelings when you're angry, the other person will gain understanding of just how you feel. But angry words can hurt if accusations are made that undermine confidence in yourself, your partner or your marriage

Constructive disagreement is based on two rules - (1) attack the issue rather than each other and (2) state your case clearly without trying to analyze or accuse the other person. Each person needs to be able to understand how the situation looks to the other.

Open warfare is dangerous in marriage or on the job. Actual fighting settles nothing and often makes things worse. Pretending the problem doesn't exist is harmful, too. Angry feelings don't go away because you ignore them. They can lead to serious health problems.

Recognize your differences. Face each problem calmly. Talk it over and really listen to each other. Discuss the causes of your disagreements and together consider the alternatives and plan a course of action. Make your conflicts helpful instead of harmful.

SUIT TOYS TO KIDS, NOT MOM OR DAD

Everyone usually enjoys buying toys.

But the toy that appeals to an aunt, uncle or parent may not be appropriate for the child.

It is common phenomenon that adults buy toys which essentially meet their own needs or they buy toys because they are realistic. They look for toys that do everything and those which resemble articles from "the real world."

Children, on the other hand, are not always operating in the real world. They need to use their imagination and need toys which allow them to do this. A toy should allow a child to write his own program by allowing him to be creative. A child can't be creative with a battery-operated toy that performs one function.

Parents may do best by giving considerable thought to appropriate toys for their children and then making a list before going on a toy-buying trip.

Don't go shopping for specific items. First look around to see what may meet the child's needs. Ask yourself:

- Is this the right toy for the child whatever his or her age?
- Is it appropriate?
- Is it going to make the child passive?
- Is it too simple or too complicated?
- Is it possible to be hurt by it?

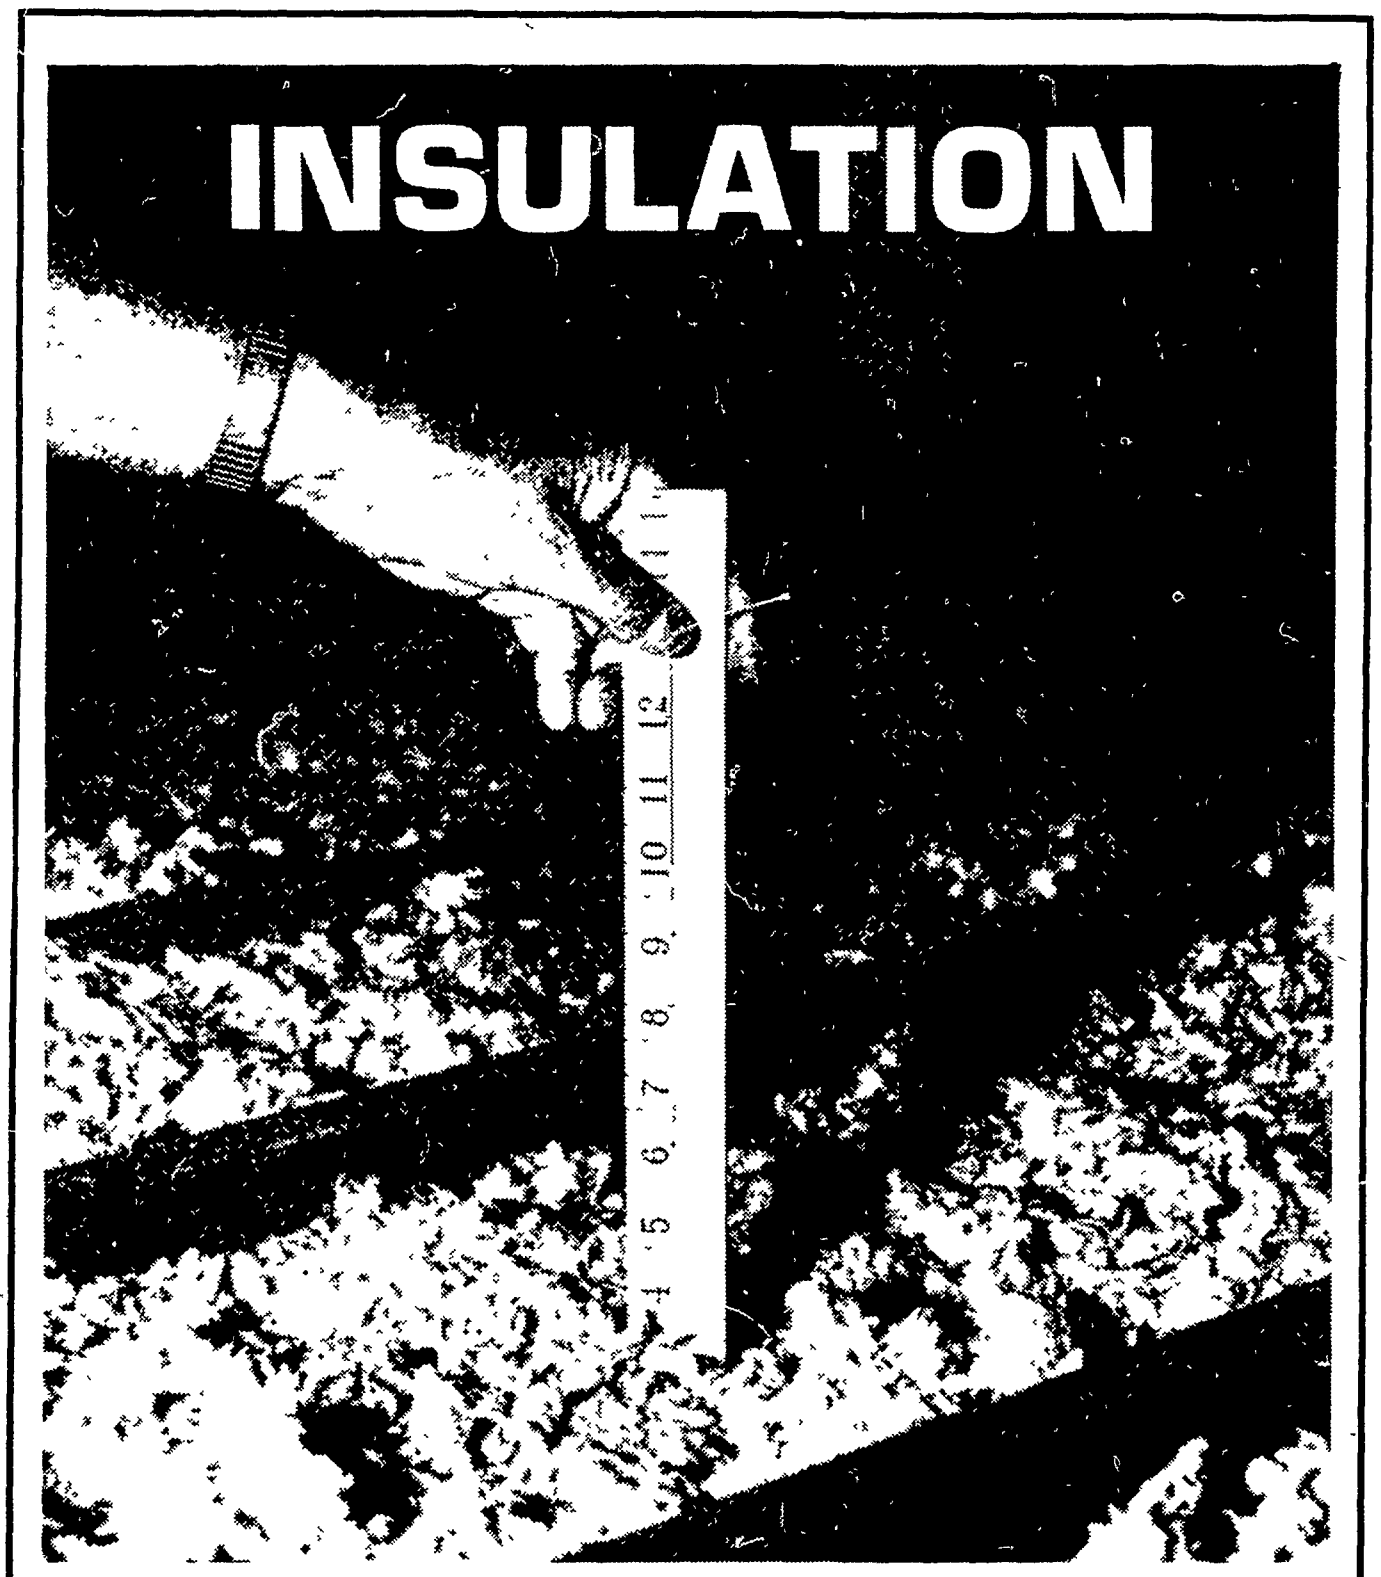
Air conditioners need Winter care

UNIVERSITY PARK — The Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel, which handles consumer complaints, says air-conditioner questions account for about 5 per cent of the total questions the panel receives. Many complaints are caused because dirt, moisture, and rust have been permitted to accumulate in units.

Wintertime storage of room air conditioners in a clean, dry place will prevent problems. Be sure each unit is clean and dry before storing it. Room air conditioners which cannot be removed from windows or walls should be covered by a heavy duty cover of the right size and shape to protect the unit and prevent leakage of heat out of the room.

It's also a good idea to clean the condensor part of the unit with the hose attachment of a vacuum cleaner at both the end of one cooling season and the beginning of the next. Professional cleaning and service may, of course, be needed in the Spring if the unit was subjected to excessive dust and moisture during the Summer.



Time to Add More

Attic insulation can settle down over the years. It's not as thick, or effective, as it used to be.

It's time to add more. And chances are, the older your home, the more you'll need.

Years ago, 2 or 3 inches of attic insulation was par for the course. But let's face it...the days of cheap energy are over. In fact, heating costs have risen to the point that now even 6 inches is not considered good.

Today, we recommend attic insulation 8 to 12 inches thick...or the equivalent of R-30. The "R" stands for thermal Resistance. And, the higher the R-number, the better the insulating value.

Of all the places to add insulation in your home, the attic is most important. It's also the easiest, most economical place to start.

So, come up to the new R-30 standard soon. You can cut heating costs in winter...cooling costs in summer. Best of all, with year after year savings like this, your extra insulation can pay for itself.

On being a farm wife

Okay, all you cats sprawled all over the back porch: line up.

Now listen, and listen good.

A mouse ran across the floor this morning. That's right...a mouse. M-O-U-S-E. You know, little, grey with a scrawny tail and white whiskers.

Yes, I thought'd you remember if you concentrated for a minute.

Obviously, you cats are falling down on the job. Now, Fat Albert, even though there's dog food available in the garage, you are not excused from putting in your share of time stalking pests in the feed room.

And look at Porky there. All he wants to do is lie in the sun and fan himself with his big fluffy tail. Why, I even caught him sleeping on a chair the other day after he'd opened the screen door and sneaked in through the basement. Is it too much to expect of him to at least make one mouse-patrol around the jar shelves and behind the water pump?

Of course, what brought this mouse-catching goof off to a head is the changing weather. As soon as Fall begins to approach, these mice go on a househunting rampage. I wouldn't mind so much if it wasn't our house they're hunting in.

The only one benefitting from this invasion is the bounty-hunter I hired to take over your mice-eliminating chores. At twenty-five cents per mouse, Patty might be able to boost her bike fund rather fast; she's already caught two in one trap.

So, in conclusion, get out there and get your tails moving. Or next thing, I'll probably find a mouse running across the typewri....

No, it just couldn't be raining that hard, I groaned to myself, as I rolled over in bed. Opening one eye, I roused myself long enough to look at the clock. It said 4 a.m

Outside, the tempo of the rain increased, if that was possible And the lightning flashed across the sky while the thunder refused to let me drift into sleep again And the whole time I thought about those two poor horses stuck out in that pasture

The weatherman had prosmised me that it was going to be fair, so I had taken the pregnant broodmare and the three-year-old gelding and put them out in the pasture overnight But both of them are nervous horses, and thin skinned, and jumpy, and spooky, and as I lay there, worrying about them, endless possibilities of what they might do to hurt themselves rambled through my mind

There was only one solution, painful as that might be.

Still more asleep than awake, I slid from the warm bed, crawled into my clothes, and stumbled from the house Outside the cold rain was a shock to my system that made me doubt my sanity for even attempting to check on those horses But on I plodded.

There they were, down at the pasture gate, huddled together and shivering. Overjoyed at my arrival, they immediately charged towards me, demanding attention and action

Later, the problem solved, with two happy horses stabled in the barn, I turned towards the homestead again to rest my weary, soaking wet bones

But it's times like these that make me wonder about the advantages of living in a small apartment in a big town far from the life on the farm.

Ethel Gross to speak

LANCASTER — Ethel Gross, the state coordinator of Penn's Agri-Women, will speak at the YWCA in Lancaster, on September 26, beginning at noon.

Her topic will be "The Farm Connection", where she will take a lok at the production and distribution of food as the over-riding social, political, economic, environmental, and moral issue of the next decade.

Everyone is welcome to attend. People may bring their lunches, and beverages will be available. Child care can be arranged in advance by calling the YWCA at 717-393-1735. A donation of $1 is requested to cover costs.

728 million bu. grain stored

WASHINGTON, D.C. — There were 727,885,478 bushels of feed grain and wheat in the grain reserve as of Sept. 8, according to Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). As of that date, the reserve held 30,696,637 bushels of barley, 234,873,491 bushels of corn, 34,526,948 bushels of oats, 35,035,602 bushels of sorghum, and 392,752,800 bushels of wheat.

The figures cited by administrator Fitzgerald were based on a telephone survey by ASCS.

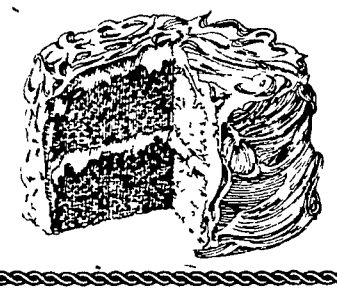
Home on the Range



Grapes are great for any time

Grapes are featured in the Home on the Range recipes this week, and there seems to be a wide variety of ways that grapes can be used to add a little something extra to a meal.

It seems hard to beleive but it will soon be October and time for the garden clean-up recipes as well as the other themes which will be seen during that month. Don't forget to take the time to check our recipe theme calendar and send your recipes to Lancaster Farming, Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543.

CHICKEN AND GRAPES

2 large chicken breasts, boned, split, and skinned
2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup grape juice
1 bunch seedless grapes
½ cup chopped nuts (optional)

Saute chicken breasts in butter until they are golden. Then add grape juice and stir the juices, to dissolve them, reducing heat. Simmer for ten minutes, covered. Before serving, add one bunch of seedless grapes and the nuts, if desired. Simmer for ten more minutes. Serve warm. Serves four.

GRAPE SURPRISE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
⅓ cup granulated sugar
6 ounces grape-juice concentrate
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup seedless grapes cut in half
2 bananas, diced

Mix cold water and gelatin, adding boiling water, and mixing well. Add sugar and stir until dissolved. Stir in the grape juice and lemon juice, mixing again and then refriegerate until slightly thickened. Then add grapes cut in half and sliced bananas. Refrigerate in molds. Can be served as a dessert salad on greens.

FROSTED GRAPES

clusters of grapes slightly beatedn egg whites
granulated or colored sugar

Dip small clusters of grapes into slightly beaten egg whites, then dip them into granulated or colored sugar. Dry on a rack and serve as either a snack or a desert.

Sylvia J. Ruoss
Blain, Pa.

GRAPE JUICE CONCENTRATE

10 pounds grapes
7 cups water
3 pounds granulated sugar

Boil and press the ten pounds of grapes with the seven cups of water. Then add the sugar and boil and bottle. Process in hot water bath for 15 minutes. Before drinking, add three parts water to one part juice.

GRAPE JELLY

5½ pounds ripe Concord grapes
½ cup water
7 cups granulated sugar
4 ounces fruit pectin liquid

After removing stems from washed grapes, crush the grapes. Add water, and simmer for ten minutes, covered. Squeeze out four cups of juice. In a large saucepan, measure sugar and juice, and mix. Bring to a boil. Stir in pectin, and boil hard for one full minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. With a metal spoon, skim off foam. Fill jelly glasses at once, placing paraffin on top and letting cool.

GRAPE PIE

4 cups Concord grapes
¾ cup granulated sugar
1½ tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon quick cooking tapioca

Remove grapes from skins, saving the skins. Cook the pulp until the seeds loosen, then press through coarse sieve. Mix sieved pulp, skins, and rest of ingredients, let stand for five minutes. Place in lined pie plate. Bake at 425 degrees F. for 45 minutes or until crust is nicely browned. Good served warm or cold.

GRAPE DESSERT

1 package lemon-lime gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 cup cold grape juice
1½ cup seedless grapes
3 ounces soft cream cheese
3 tablespoons milk

Dissolve the gelatin in the hot water and add the grape juice. Refrigerate in individual dessert dishes until it begins to harden. Then add grapes, stirring gently. Refrigerate until completely set. Serve with whipped cream and garnish with grapes.

FANCY GRAPES

½ cup sour cream
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 pounds seedless grapes

Mix together sour cream and brown sugar and place in refrigerator for one hour. Just before serving, add grapes and stir lightly to mix well. Serve cold.

Junior Cooking Edition

Here are some more applicious recipes sent in by our junior readers. This week try something new like apple fritters, Norwegian pie carmel pudding, or easy apple treat. Apple crunch, apple cookies, dutch apple pies, and apple crisp are also featured. And of course, there is always room for a scoop of homemade ice cream to top off these new desserts.

The first half of October's Junior Cooking Edition will feature garden clean-up recipes (relishes, pickles, etc.). To bring in the Halloween festivities, we will feature your favorite party nibblers, candy and punch recipes, the last two weeks of October, for a fun and delicious ghost and goblin holiday.

When sending in your favorite recipes, don't forget to include your complete name, address and age. Recipes should be sent to Lancaster Farming, Junior Cooking Edition, Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543.

APPLE FRITTERS

1 egg, beaten
⅓ cup milk
1 cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1¼ teaspoons baking powder

Combine egg and milk, then add remaining ingredients. Add as many peeled and diced apples as desired. Drop batter by tablespoonfuls on hot oiled griddle. Turn as fritters brown.

NORWEGIAN PIE

2 cups apples
1 cup nuts
1½ cups granulated sugar
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
½ teaspoon vanilla

Mix dry ingredients, add eggs, apples, nuts and vanilla, mixing thoroughly. Bake at 350°F. for 30 minutes. This can be cut into small squares and be eaten like date pudding with a topping.

Narvon, Pa.

CARMEL PUDDING

1 cup brown sugar
½ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1⅔ cups milk
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon butter
1½ teaspoon vanilla

Mix brown sugar and flour together. Add salt and egg yolks, gradually add milk and water. Bring to a boil. Remove from heat. Add vanilla and butter. Let cool. Top with cream, chopped peanuts and bananas.

EASY APPLE TREAT

4 cups homemade applesauce, preferably made from McIntosh apples and not sweetened
½ cup raisins
⅓ cup chopped black walnuts (or regular walnuts can be substituted)
½ teaspoon cinnamon
whipped cream

Combine the applesauce, raisins, walnuts, and cinnamon in a serving bowl and let stand in a cool place for at least four hours before serving. Serve topped with whipped cream. Yields six servings.

APPLE CRUNCH

1 quart sliced apples
1 cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon salt

Topping

¾ cup oatmeal flakes
¾ cup brown sugar
¼ cup melted butter
¼ teaspoon baking soda

Pare and slice apples. Combine sugar, salt, cinnamon and flour. Sprinkle over apples. Place apple mixture in the bottom of a greased baking dish. Combine oatmeal, brown sugar and baking soda. Add melted butter and rub into oatmeal mixture to make crumbs. Place crumbs on top of the apples patting them down evenly. Bake at 375°F. for approximately 40 minutes. Serves six to eight. Serve with rich milk or whipped cream as desired.

Matilda H. Mas
Dover, De

APPLE COOKIES

1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
½ cup shortening
1 egg, beaten
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon allspice
1 cup chopped apples

Cream sugar and shortening until very light. Mix in beaten egg. Sift dry ingredients and add to mixture. Stir in apples. Drop in balls on greased cookie sheets. Bake 12 to 15 minutes at 325°F.

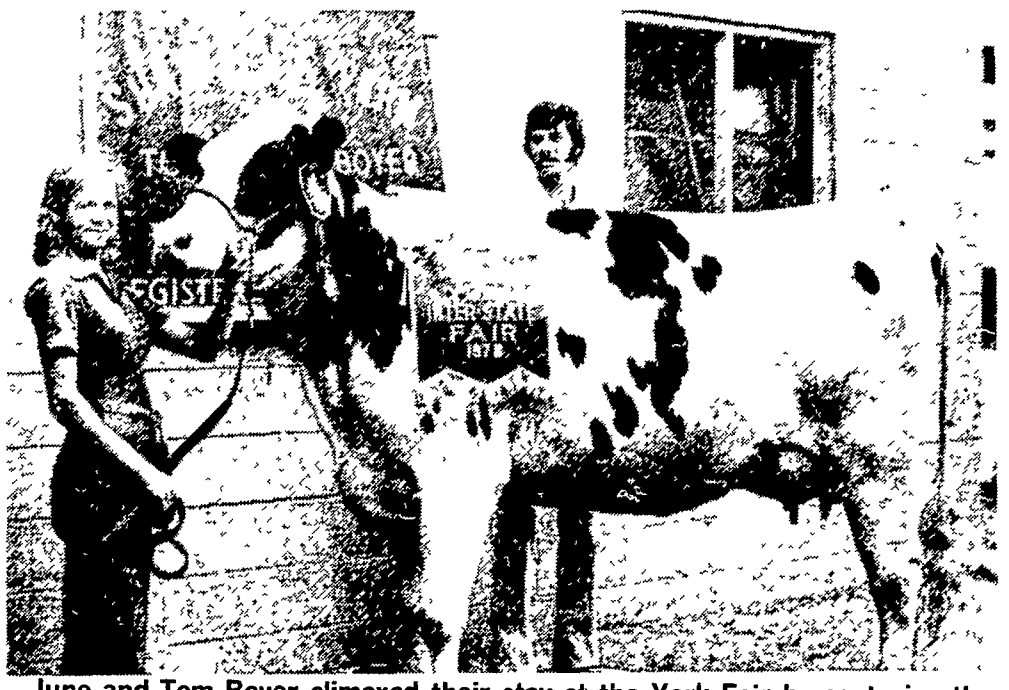
Junior championship honors of the York Fair's open class Holstein show were won by 9-year old Lesley King of Delta. Leroy Bupp took the reserve junior ribbon.



June and Tom Boyer climaxed their stay at the York Fair by capturing the senior and grand champion trophies with a stylish 2-year old. The young dairy couple from York also won the reserve senior and grand placing as well.

Everyone's a lumberjack at a Woodsmen Festival

By KENDACE BORRY

ELIZABETHTOWN — Although you may not think that Elizabethtown, Lancaster County, is the center of the forests of Pa., for the second year in a row, it hosted the Elizabethtown-Mount Joy Forest Fire Crew annual Woodsmens Festival. Held recently, the three day event included such activities as a square dance under the stars, a musical show, and booths and games for all who attended.

But the big attraction at the festival was the woodsmen competition held on a beautiful Saturday afternoon, where everyone got the opportunity to bring out the lumberjack that had been hiding in their souls.

First there was the two-man cross cut saw, where the contestants cut twice across a nine by nine inch poplar log. Winner was Jack Cogar, from Webster Springs, West Virginia, with a time of 10.70 seconds.

Jack's brother, Arden Cogar, of the same address, won the stock chain saw competition, with a time of 7.81 seconds. In this contest, three cuts were made, one down, one up, and another down, through another nine by nine inch poplar log.

In the modified chain saw division, Jack Cogar won again, making three cuts on the poplar wood. His time for that event was a quick 5.30 seconds.

And Jack Cogar won the ax throwing contest, where those who competed took three chances to throw an ax and score a bull's eye, with a perfect throw being five points. Out of a possible 15 perfect score on three throws, Jack scored 14.

But it was Arden Cogar, who won the ax chopping, where the men with their $150 finely sharpened axes, stood on the logs and chopped through them in record time. Arden made it though his poplar log in 17.46 seconds.

This may seem like a one sided contest, but one has to remember that Jack Cogar

(Turn to Page 57)

Showing his finest tobacco spitting style, Pa. state champion Bill Pahokin, from Coudersport, retained his title, while only placing third in the contest. His record of 18 feet was unbroken although the best he could do on that day was 17 feet.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

I wish you could see my daughter's flower garden. It is a riot of colors at this time of year. It makes me sad to think of it all dying in a month or so.

But as of now, the row of scarlet sage is the attention-getter next to the brilliantly colored petunias. It's difficult to realize how many shades of pink can be crowded into one small area. The dwarf marigolds that come in many hues or yellow, gold and red and are quite spectacular.

The tall flowers like cosmos, cornflower, gaillardia and scabiosa have many blossoms but leave something to be desired as they fell over and had to be staked. The fact that our kittens loved to play around them did nothing for their appearance.

One flower that shouldn't be forgotten is the celosia or cockscomb with its rich crimson color. It is one of the many flowers and weeds that I dry for bouquets for winter use. One year we sold many of these plumes plus straw flowers to a local garden center

As her flower garden covers a thirty by twenty foot space at the edge of my big vegetable garden, she had plenty of specimens to choose from when competing at the 4-H Achievement Day in August. She was pleasantly surprised to learn that her display of various flowers was chosen champion. A few years of practice in arranging an artistic exhibit does help. Some participants don't realize that one doesn t achieve perfection overnight, in fact sometimes one never achieves it has been the 17 times world champion in some events of the woodsmen carnivals, and he and his brother, and his cousin, Paul, who also competed at Elizabethtown, are real-life loggers, who run a family logging business in Webster Springs, West Va. And this was the 19th competition that they had been in this year.

You notice that I'm not talking about my flower garden which is the same size. It does have some beautiful snapdragons which I raised from seed and a few tube-roses fill the air with their sweet fragrance. But, generally it lacks color and of course I'd like to blame this on the fact that it is located under a large pine tree and not on my inability to grow flowers.

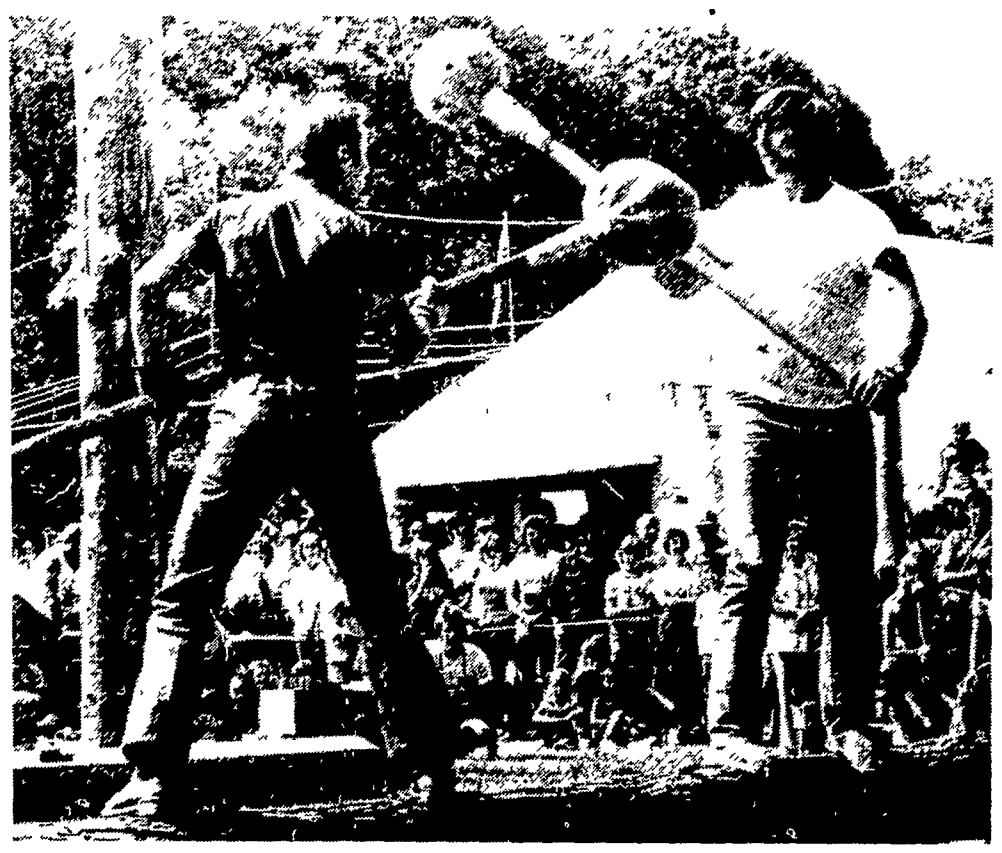
But there were other events at the festival, too. Despite the disadvantage of a bloody nose earned in competitive combat, David Miller, Seven Valleys, secured and held his title in the log jousting, defeating all challengers.

And Robert Young, who was at the festival helping his father with an exhibit, was the quickest one who could make it to the top of the skinned 18 foot pole to win that event.

For the ladies, there was women's nail driving, and Kathy Farrell, Sinnemohoning, won it by driving four nails into the wood in 15 seconds flat.



Dueling on the log, David Miller, of Seven Valleys, seen on the right, defeated all his opponents, to win the championship. Here he is seen jousting with Buck Young, of Scranton.

The team of Gary Collins, Milton Grove, and Paul Cogar, Webster Springs,W. Va., won the log rolling, moving their lopsided log up and down the bumpy path. Their winning time was 47.37 seconds.

Paul Cogar was a member of a winning team again, when he and Kathy Farrel, entered the Jack and Jill cross cut contest, sawing across a poplar log in 10.20 seconds.

But then came an event not often seen in the Lancaster Farming area. The Pensylvania state cahmpionship tobacco spitting was at stake with local competitors trying to beat Bill Pahokin, Coudersport, who was there to defend his title.

Nine men entered the contest, where they had to stand a measured distance from a hot pot bellied stove and aim to hit it, so that the juice would sizzle. Each person was allowed thirty seconds to make his try.

Jay Frey, Sr. Conestoga R2, won the event, tying Pahokin's record of 18 feet. But to be the Pa. state champion, he would have had to beat that record, so Pahokin is still the official state champion, even though he placed third in this contest.

Second place winner in the tobacco spitting was Ron Lutz, Landisville.

And in the tug of war, the team of Buck Young, Barry Snook, Dave Jones, Bruno Kujat, and Paul Ceresini, pulled the longest and strongest to take home the top honors in that event.

Arden Cogar, who is also an officer of the North Eastern Loggers Association, announced that the Elizabethtown-Mount Joy Forest Fire Crew headquarters, the Green Tree Station, will be the site of the 1979 Northeastern Loggers Association Woodsnen's competition. The competition will be held on September 8, 1979.

Climbing the pole in record time looked easy for Robert Young, of Scranton.

York County Dairy Princess

Patty Greek, 17 - she grew up in town - and now has a dairy operation of her own

By JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

DELTA – Six years ago, the William Greek family decided that the time had come to leave the Fallston, Md. housing development that was then home and find a quieter, more rural location.

That move north ultimately involved their children in Pennsylvania's dairying industry and propelled pretty, dark-haired Patricia to the throne of the York County Dairy Princess.

After relocating to rural southern York County, at Delta R2, son Leonard Greek, then 13, acquired a registered Holstein calf and found himself a member of the 4-H dairy clubs.

"You know how it is with brothers and sisters," recalled Patty Greek with a grin. "If Leonard had a calf, than I wanted one, too. And I became interested in dairying."

Leonard went to work part time after school for neighbors Paul and Kathy Ring of Kingway Farms. Patty's original 4-H project heifer, "Kingway KV Luscious Laurie," came from that herd, and was sired by Kingway Bess Ivan Viking.

Together, "Luscious Laurie" and Patty have won quite a collection of ribbons in youth and open class exhibiting. As a 2-year-old, the heifer took the championship of the 1977 York County 4-H show, and just last week, Laurie topped the three-and-four dry class at the York Fair.

After presenting Patty with a heifer calf, Laurie finished her first lactation with a 14,700 pound milk, 625 pound butterfat record. Patty also owns one other cow and two calves, and participates in a variety of other 4-H activites.

Interest in the dairy business continued to grow within the Greek household. When Patty entered ninth grade at Red Lion Area High School, she followed Leonard's footsteps and enrolled in the agriculture program, while also carrying business courses.

The high school's ag curriculum put Patty in the Future Farmers of America, where she earned her Greenhand and Chapter Farmer degrees and served as parliamentarian. As a member of the chapter's dairy judging team, Patty has competed at the FFA's Penn State judging activities, and finished as tenth high individual last year, with the Red Lion team placing second in the state. She has also carried vegetable, horse and beef projects through the FFA program.

A 17-year-old senior, Patty will try this year to earn her Keystone Degree, an honor bestowed upon only a select group of outstanding FFA members from across the state.

After his graduation from Red Lion, Leonard made the decision to strike out on his own and build a dairy herd. Patty supported his goal with her enthusiasm and willingness to help and they combined their animals to form the foundation of a milking herd on the family's Pearce-Oakes property.

First, the barn on the 20-acre farm had to be remodeled, with comfort stalls and a milk house added for the dairying operation and an adjacent calf pen and maternity facility constructed for herd additions. A silo was added and 120 rented acres were included in the cropping program to feed the small but growing registered Holstein herd.

In July of 1977, the first shipment of milk was picked up at the Greek farm by a truck from Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers of Baltimore and Leonard and Patty were in business.

Currently, the Greek barn houses 21 head of milking animals and over two dozen young heifers and calves. Corn, oats and alfalfa and timothy hay comprise the crops raised to feed the Pearce-Oakes herd.

Patty's favorite barn chores involve the milking and feeding of the cows and calves. While she does lend a hand in the field at times, the barn work is still her first choice.

"I'll help to bale and chop, but I don't particularly care for those jobs," she admitted. "Really, I prefer to be with the animals."

Following graduation next June and her busy year of representing the county's dairy farmers, Patty hopes to find a job that will combine her interest in the milk-production field with the office skills she's studying at Red Lion. She is considering taking additional courses at a specialized business school, but has not made any defenite committment toward a specific one.

A transplanted suburbanite, Patty Greek has taken an exceptionally strong interest in dairying. She has her own herd, is enrolled in the vocational agriculture program at Red Lion Area High School, and participates in area shows and fairs. She is happiest when she is working with cows. This coming Wednesday she'll be competing for the title of Pennsylvania Dairy Princess.

The shiny crown and silky white banner of the dairy princess have taken friendly, outgoing Patty to speaking engagements with Farm Women groups, the Grange, Bible School youngsters touring Avalong Farms' dairy and cattle barns, and to several parades and cattle shows

• August milk price: $10.84

NEW YORK, N.Y. – Dairy farmers supplying milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during August will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $10.84 per hundred pounds or 23.3 cents per quart. Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson, who announced August's price, also stated that the uniform farm price was $10.16 per hundredweight in July 1978 and $10.09 per hundredweight in August 1977. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average for the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive fund (Louisville Plan) returned a total of $2,918,645.52 or $.366 per hundredweight to the dairy farmer's uniform price for August. This fund was generated by reducing uniform price paid producers during the high production spring months.

The total amount of milk received from the 17,964 dairy farmers supplying the New York-New Jersey Marketing Area was 798,405,001 pounds during August 1978. This was less than 2.6 million pounds below last year. The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $86,707,519.09. Wilson explained that this included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) utilized 384,827,378 pounds or 48.2 per cent of the total amount of milk for Class I. For August 1978, handlers paid $11.51 per hundredweight, or 24.8 cents per quart, for the milk used in Class I products compared with $11.00 a year ago.

The balance of the milk, 51.8 per cent, was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream and yogurt. For this milk the handlers paid $9.78 per hundredweight.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 per cent butterfat. For August 1978, a differential of 13.4 cents was applied to the price for each one-tenth of one per cent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 per cent standard.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank milk received within the 201-210 mile zone from New York City.

Beef promotion launched

CHICAGO, Ill. – A special Fall promotion encouraging consumers to fill their freezers with beef has been launched by the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board and seven state beef promotion groups.

The $128,000 cooperative effort includes national radio spots on the Paul Harvey show and the NBC network; newspaper and radio advertising in New York, Chicago and Detroit; retail tie-in and supporting news releases to newspaper food editors.

It is scheduled to run the last two weeks of September and the first week of October.

The message to consumers in the radio spots and newspaper ads is "Now's the time to fill your freezer with beef." The ads acknowledge the fact that beef prices are generally higher this year, but remind consumers that fall is the time of year when beef is traditionally in best supply.

In both ads and news releases, consumers are offered free copies of the Beef Industry Council's 12-page booklet Getting the Most from Freezer Beef Buys. This publication is a comprehensive consumer guide to buying beef in quantity, with facts about storage, wrapping, selection, grading, calculating costs and other related subjects.

Herr wins Solanco tractor driving contest

QUARRYVILLE – Gordon Herr, the grand champion at the 1975 and 1977 Solanco Fair tractor driving contest took the championship spot again this year as he was named first in the open class and then champion overall.

Second place winner in the open class was Jeff Rutt, Peach Bottom R1, and third place went to William Krantz, Quarryville R1. There were seven competitors in the open class.

In the FFA and 4-H competiton, Dwayne Peifer, Kirkwood R1, was the first place winner. David Holzhauer, Holtwood R1, placed second and Scott Brinton, Peach Bottom R1, was named third. There were 11 entries in that division.

AGRI-KING
KEY TO PROFIT

IT'S TIME AGAIN TO START THINKING ABOUT GETTING THE MOST PROFIT FROM YOUR CORN SILAGE.

Don't let hot or sour corn silage rob you of digestible protein, energy, vitamins and palatability

or This ?
(20 x 60)
Approximate protein and energy value of 440 tons corn silage testing 50% moisture equals $6 437 00
(20 x 60)
Approximate protein and energy value of 500 tons corn silage testing 70% moisture equals $10,575 00
Approximate protein and energy value of one acre corn silage testing 50% moisture and yielding 16 4 tons per acre equals $240 00
Approximate protein and energy value of one acre corn silage testing 70% moisture and yielding 20 tons per acre equals $423 00
Approximate protein and energy value of 4 1 ton load of corn silage testing 50% moisture equals $60 00
Approximate protein and energy value of a 5 ton load of corn silage testing 70% moisture equals $105 00

The above examples show approximate difference in the value of low moisture and high moisture corn silage

Values reflect difference in yield per acre, silo capacity, net energy, digestible protein and animal performance as reflected by university research

Energy and protein values are based on soybean meal at $200 00 per ton and corn at $1 50 per bushel

Grow the protein and energy you need, and save the energy and protein you grow!

Recently, she appeared on York television accompanying the Magic Cow and helped to promote dairy products at the York Fair.

"It gets rather hectic sometimes, but it's fun," is Patty's opinion of holding down two jobs at area cattle exhibits. Between handing out ribbons and trophies as she congratulates winners, she often takes her place at the halter of the Greek's show animals.

Activities at the Salem United Methodist Church are also a part of the busy life of York's dairy princess. She's president of the Youth Fellowship and helps to teach a Sunday School class of pre-kindergarten youngsters.

Twice weekly, Patty meets with other members of the Lower Chanceford Recreation Council, a neighborhood group that organized for fun and fellowship for all ages in the rural township. Meeting at the Lower Chanceford Elementary School, volleyball games are on the recreation schedule during the cold winter months, while softball and football games are the drawing interest over the Summer.

LINCOMIX®
THE HEAVYWEIGHT

The feed additive for the treatment and control of bloody scours (swine dysentery) from birth to market.

A number of feed additives for bloody scours are on the market: But until today, few could offer such high performance and so few feeding restrictions as Lincomix.

On-farm trials have demonstrated the efficacy of Lincomix. By controlling bloody scours, Lincomix has proven its superior performance in maintaining rate of gain and feed efficiency while reducing death losses

And Lincomix can be fed in any ration, from starter to finishing — just withdraw six days prior to slaughter It's available in both complete feeds and supplements for on-farm mixing.

Lincomix—THE HEAVYWEIGHT feed additive for the treatment and control of bloody scours.

Talk to us today about getting Lincomix in your hog rations!

Look for lincomycin on the feed tag.

IH 2-Year Warranty - One final thought before you decide on your new tractor: IH has enough faith in the reliability of its tractors to back them with a complete 2-year or 1500-hour warranty. (The only exceptions are tires and radio which are warranted by their own manufacturer, plus normal maintenance items.) The warranty covers every IH tractor shown here.

York Co. 4-H Council meets

BAIR – The September meeting of the York County 4-H Council was held at the 4-H Center, near Bair. Reports were given. Extension assistant, Beth Hershey, reported on the York Fair and Timothy Markovits, County agent, reported on the leaders banquet and cookie sales.

The program for the evening was the election of officers. Elected were: Charla Janney, president; Brooke Palmer, vice president; Emily Livingston, secretary; Lisa Dobrosky, treasurer; Judy Waltersdorff, news reporter; Chrsitine Shive, historian; and Nancy Eisenhart, song and game leader.

October 4 is the date for the next meeting. It will be held at the 4-H center and the activities will include the installation of officers and a hayride.

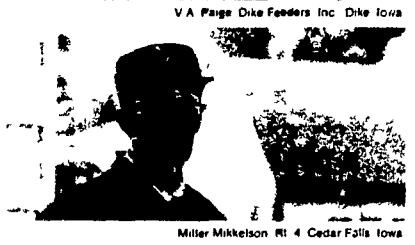
SEALSTOR
THE NEW BLUE
"I bought SEALSTOR® because I got more for my money"

FOR HOG FEEDERS...
"We looked at both systems, and bought Sealstor. It has many plus features, at no extra cost.
When you re talking about sealed storage you re talking about a building crew No structure is any better than the way it's built regardless of the name on it The Sealstor crew does a good job of building '

V A Paige Dike Feeders Inc Dike Iowa

FOR BEEF FEEDERS
"Sealstor is the least expensive sealed storage there is for the man that wants to feed his own corn
You can t help but take feed value out when you dry corn When you harvest it wet, and have a Sealstor there's nothing to stop you until the structure is full "



Miller Mikkelson Rt 4 Cedar Falls Iowa

FOR MEN WHO FEED BOTH....
"I looked at both sealed systems . . I bought Sealstor because I got more for my money."

Joe Rash Union Iowa

FOR DAIRYMEN...
"The fiberglass roof makes a big difference . It insulates better than steel and we get more storage because the breather bags are up out of the way The feed? Well, our test is up 2 points and we save half a day a week by not having to grind

Facts for Dairymen

By Alan Bair
Assoc. County Agent
Lancaster, Pa.

I have talked with many dairymen this Summer that were concerned about low milk fat test in their dairy herd. There are several things that can affect fat test on dairy farms, but the major influence is nutrition.

Dr. Dick Adams, our Penn State dairy nutritionist, tells us that we certainly don't know all the requirements for maintaining fat test, but it appears "balance" is the key word as it applies to the cows' diet. For instance, while it is often observed that increased grain feeding produces more milk, it may affect rumen function and lower butterfat test.

Balancing a cow's ration can be a trial and error game or it can be done by forage analysis and feed programming. According to our DHIA records, the rations of most high producing herds contain about 18% fiber, with about 50% of the TDN coming from grain and 50% from forage.

Although nutrition is probably the biggest influence on fat test, there are other factors that can cause lowered or erratic fat test: Genetic potential of the cows, improper cooling and agitation, sampling technique and sample care can all influence the fat test.

Like so many other problems on your dairy farm, your fat test level is a product of your overall farm management. To correct a problem, consider all the possible causes.

There is a real flurry of dairy barn construction going on in this part of Pennsylvania this Summer. I and my Extension Service counterparts in other counties, work closely on barn design and construction details when ask to do so, but most barns are built on the sole advice of the carpenter in charge.

Certainly we don't know all the answers to all the problems, but it is discouraging to me to see the same mistakes made over and over again in barn after barn.

You as a dairyman don't have the opportunity to learn from experience simply because in your lifetime you will not build too many barns. Few building contractors have a feel for how the building is really to function – his main concern is that it looks okay and won't fall down for a few years.

My mental list of dumb mistakes witnessed this Summer include: ridge caps that restrict air movement 100%; side wall panels that won't open and/or won't stay open; roofs that are too flat for good ventilation; miserable concrete work in milking parlors; doors on drive through barns that are too narrow; gate posts that break out before the cows get in the barn; manure pits that are too small and too expensive; thousands of dollars worth of unnecessary equipment; and locking headgates that won't open.

When you have made the decision to invest in new facilities, try to get some professional advice from an unbiased source. Above all, try to visit farms that have incorporated some of the same ideas and equipment that you are considering. It's far better to correct mistakes on paper than to bust up concrete.

Rat control funded

HARRISBURG – Pennsylvania communities conducting programs designed to limit and reduce the Commonwealth's rat population are eligible to seek grants-in-aid from the $500,000 appropriated by the General Assembly for this purpose this fiscal year.

Applications for the grants, to be awarded in January, must be filed with Pennsylvania Environmental Resources Department's seven Regional Environmental Protection (EP) Offices by October 15, Paul J. McMichael, Chief, Facilities Sanitation and Vector Control Division, DER Bureau of Community Environmental Control, announced recently.

McMichael said that all applications will be screened by an adivsory review board comprising representatives of State agencies, municipal organizations and universities before funding is approved. Last year 31 of the 36 municipalities that applied shared in the $500,000 rat control grant fund.

Eligible for funding are environmental code enforcement development and/or improvement programs, rat extermination campaigns and community educational activities designed to promote support of and participation in rat control and environmental improvement programs by municipalities, residents and property owners.

Grant application forms are available from and should be filed with the Regional Sanitarians in DER Region I EP Offices at 1875 New Hope Street, Norristown, Pa. 19401; Second Floor, 90 East Union Street, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. 18701; First Floor, Building 10, Wernersville State Hospital, Wernersville, Pa. 19565.

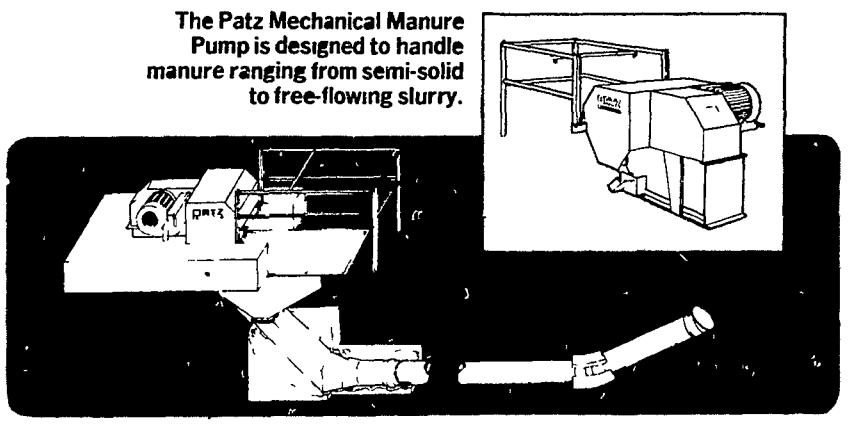
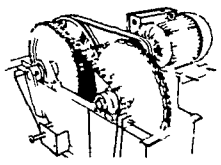
introducing the all new PATZ slurry manure pump

The Patz Mechanical Manure Pump is designed to handle manure ranging from semi-solid to free-flowing slurry.



The Patz Slurry Manure Pump provides the ultimate solution to the moving of slurry liquid manure from dairy, beef, hogs or poultry installations to manure storage facilities
The new Patz Slurry Pump can move slurry and liquids up to 150 feet The manure is supplied to an underground hopper with a gutter cleaner or scraper and is forced into a 12 inch P.V.C. pipe by means of an 8 inch by 15 inch plunger.



A 10 h p electric motor running a roller chain reduction unit drives the plunger at a rate of 21 strokes per minute The Patz exclusive roller chain drive unit is the most efficient way to transmit a smooth flow of power

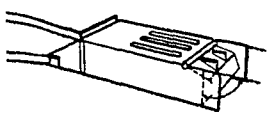
The 8 inch by 15 inch plunger has a one way valve in the sleeve which closes on the forward stroke forcing the manure into the storage facility and opens on the backward stroke for the next load



Plunger sleeve can be removed from sleeve chamber for servicing without breaking out concrete Valve in the sleeve and flapper valve at the end of the pipe prevent manure from returning

Agriculture to get top priority under senate compromise gas bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Senator Herman E. Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry, sought and received assurances last week that American agriculture would receive "high priority" under the compromise natural gas pricing bill now being debated by the Senate.

Entering the debate on the controversial and complex energy bill, Talmadge said "utter chaos" would occur in the production and processing of food and fiber unless farmers are assured "a dependable supply of reasonably priced natural gas."

Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, chairman of the Energy and Natural Resources Committee and floor manager of the bill, assured Talmadge that essential agricultural uses for natural gases would be protected if the bill becomes law.

In response to a series of questions propounded by Talmadge, Jackson agreed with the Georgian's interpretation of the bill that farmers would receive the "same high priority accorded households and small businesses in protection against sharply higher natural gas prices by exempting agriculture users from the incremental pricing features of the bill."

Jackson also agreed with Talmadge that the bill "provides an exemption against natural gas curtailment for essential agriculture uses."

Jackson warned that agricultural users of natural gas would experience some price increases. But he said that would not be "as great as boiler fuel or other industrial plant increases in that category."

Talmadge reminded the Senate that in recent Winters some dairy processing plants had been denied natural gas and that supplies to some fertilizer plants were curtailed during the Winter of 1973/74. He asked Jackson if the bill would prevent a repetition of those or greater curtailments.

"The answer is yes," Jackson responded. "What we have done is to protect essential agricultural uses."

Talmadge has stated that he expects to support the compromise gas bill even though it is not "wholly satisfactory from any standpoint." He said it is "the best we have been able to work out."

Sand Rock wins

YORK — Sand Rock Farm of Rocky Ridge, Md. came close to shutting out all the competition when it came to winning first-place blue ribbons at the York Fair's Brown Swiss Show. The Maryland herd won all but one class out of 25, relinquishing that particular title to fellow Marylander Howard Long of Thurmont.

NEWARK, Del. – The 1979 wheat program contains the same 20 per cent set-aside requirement as the 1978 program, according to Joe Penuel, of the Delaware Agricultural Stabilization and Conervation Service.

Farmers complying with the program will be eligible for a wheat loan of $2.35 a bushel, and a target price of $3.40 per bushel. Both figures are the same as they were in the 1978 program.

Program participants who reduce their 1979 wheat acreage for grain by 15 per cent from the 1978 wheat acreage will be eligible for target-price coverage on 100 per cent of the 1979 wheat acreage for grain. The 1978 wheat acreage will be the acreage harvested as grain, plus credit on 1978 participating farms for underplanted acreage, set-aside, and wheat grazing and hay acreage for payment.

Unlike the 1978 program, the 1979 program does not provide payments for grazing out or haying of planted acreage. However, producers may graze their 1979 set-aside acreage for a six-month period.

The wheat reserve commitment will continue in the 1979 program. This includes the farmer-owned reserve and the special emergency reserve for food aid commitments.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland called the program "a stabilizing measure designed to benefit both producers and consumers." If farmers use the 1979 program as well as they did this year, we believe the farm wheat prices will be maintained. The program is designed to be anti-inflationary. Without the set-aside in 1979, U.S. wheat stocks would be well above needs, farm prices would be considerably lower, government payments would be higher, and wheat export earnings would decrease, Bergland said.

The 20 per cent set-aside means that for every 100 acres of wheat planted for harvest as grain, 20 acres must be set aside.

Apple prices not showing inflated costs

PARK RIDGE, Ill. — Prices offered Eastern apple producers by processors are not reflecting current inflated costs, or supply and demand, Howard Reed Heritage said recently.

"Prices offered producers are inconsistent with supply, demand and all other factors that affect the market," Heritage said. "I can't explain it, and the producers don't understand it."

Heritage, general manager of the American Agricultural Marketing Association, said a recent U.S. Department of Agriculture forecast predicted that, in view of smaller supplies of other fruits, prices to apple growers during 1978 should remain at levels only slightly below those of 1977.

"However, prices currently offered by processors are considerably lower than 1977 prices," Heritage said. "For example, Virginia processors are offering seven per cent less for juice apples and a whopping 27 per cent less for sauce apples than last season."

Heritage pointed out that apple product demand has been excellent with juice shipments for the 1977-78 marketing season up 13 per cent and applesauce shipments up nine per cent.

He added that juice and sauce inventories on August 1, the start of the 1978-79 marketing season, were three per cent lower than last year.

Fertilizer law praised, soil conditioners to be tested

HARRISBURG — While addressing a group of Pennsylvania State Grange leaders in Harrisburg last week, State Secretary of Agriculture Kent Shelhamer commended the Grange for its work with the fertilizer laws this past year.

Under the old regulations, fertilizer manufacturers were penalized for three times the fertilizer value that their product was deficient.

The new regulations supported by the Pennsylvania State Grange, penalized the manufacturers for ten times the deficient fertilizer values.

Shelhamer promised that "we will be paying a lot of attention to the violators" and that the bulk plants would be regulated.

The Secretary further promised some evaluations would be performed on soil conditioners.

He cautioned that at the present time, there is no procedure to test this product. "However, Penn State is working on this problem with money from the Ag Research Fund."

While talking about soil conditioners, Shelhamer pointed out that there is some data available on those soil conditioners that are algae-based.

"These soil conditioners do work in some parts of the world," said the Secretary, but they need a warm, high humidity, they must be applied no deeper than 1/10" in the soil, and they cannot stand herbicides.

Secretary Shelhamer went on to cite the accomplishments of the State Department of Agriculture this past year.

"We were the first Ag Department of all the states to come out against the use of caseins in ice cream."

Mr. Shelhamer said that he has been working to streamline his Department.

"I have abolished 50 positions in my Department this year with little effect on our efficiency."

John Marsteller wins tractor drive

YORK — John Marsteller of Kennard-Dale High School is the top tracor driver among York County's Future Farmers of America members, according to competition which took place here last week at the York Fair.

Placing second in the all-county event was Clay Tyson of Red Lion High School. Third in line for the honors was Jeff Koler from the Eastern FFA Chapter.

Jeff Kerr, Northern; Andy Bange, Southwestern; Nelson Brenneman, Dover; and Greg Fantom, Kennard-Dale, followed in that order.

New York 4-H livestock sale sets record

CALEDONIA, N.Y. – The Caledonia 4-H Meat Animal Show and Sale set a new record price of $6.65 a pound paid by Hatfield Packing Company of Hatfield, Pa. for the grand champion 4-H hog exhibited by Kim Olmstead of W. Bloomfield, N.Y. This was near a national record for a livestock auction. Hatfield Packing Co. did the bidding against a strong contending bidder of Tobin Packing Company of Rochester, a long time participant in this annual 4-H Show and Sale. Hatfield Packing Company is not new to the New York Pork industry as they have a weekly buying station in Scipio Center south of Syracuse. They purchased a total of 12 animals from this sale.

Tobin Packing purchased the Reserve Champion 4-H hog exhibited by Cheryl Olmstead of W. Bloomfield for a record price of $4.25 per pound. The 51 hogs at the sale averaged $94.35 per hundred weight with the champions included. Without the champions, the average was $75.55 per hundred compared with a regular market price of about $50 per hundred weight.

The lamb division of 26 animals averaged $97.85 per hundred weight. Champion honors went to Doreen FitzPatrick of Wayland and her animal sold to Harris Wilcox Inc. of Bergern at $2.75 per pound. Kevin Walton of Linwood exhibited the reserve champion which was purchased by the Bank of LeRoy at $1.80 per pound. Trophies in the lambs were donated by Conti Packing and George Millspaugh.

The Grand Champion Steer always creates excitement. This year was no exception. The champion steer exhibited by Susan Stein of Caledonia was bid off at $1.00 per pound. The Erie & Niagara Ins. of Clarence was the buyer. The reserve champion steer shown by Cheryl Yasso of Leicester was auctioned off at $.70 per pound to Empire Livestock and Genesee and Wyoming Railroad. The 10 steers in the sale averaged $65.10 per hundred weight. Empire Markets and New York Beef Cattlemen's Association sponsored trophies.

Hunting Day is today

HARRISBURG – Today, September 23, has been set aside by Gov. Milton J. Shapp as National Hunting and Fishing Day in Pennsylvania.

The observance is designed to foster an increased awareness of the contributions of sportsmen and sportswomen to wildlife management. Its theme this year is "Hunting and Fishing are Conservation."

In Pennsylvania on September 23 there will be hundreds of displays, exhibits, instructional centers and programs to introduce the general public to target shooting, fly and plug casting, archery, trap and skeet, bird and mammal identification and management, stream improvement, habitat preservation and reclamation, etc.

Hunters and fishermen have asked that their hunting and fishing license fees be increased and that their sporting gear be taxed nationally, so that funds derived may be devoted to improving the management of fish and wildlife habitat, the continuation of wildlife research, the education of our citizens, and for the purchase of land to be held in trust for the benefit of all.

York posts 4-H dairy show results

YORK — Grand champion dairy animals were shown here at the York Fair last week by Peter King, Delta; Mike Welsh, East Berlin; Greg Fantom, Delta; Barry Lehman, York; and Tina Rutter, York. Following are more detailed results, by breed, beginning with the largest group of competitors, the Holstein showmen.

At the halter of a 3-year old, young Peter King edged a 2-year old entry exhibited by Beverly Brown of Delta. The same animals stood as senior and reserve senior cahmpion, respectively. Kevin Laughman, Thomasville, had the junior champion, a junior yearling, while Paul Knight, Airville, had the reserve junior animal.

Junior Calves - 1. Kevin Laughman, 2. Barbara Kilgore, Airville; 3. Downa Doll, Glen Rock; 4. Loretta Cooper, Delta; 5. Deanne Feeser, Hanover.

Intermediate Calves - 1. Paul Knight, Airville; 2. Mike Welsh, East Berlin; 3. James Knight, Airville.

Senior Calves - 1. David King, 2. Patricia Greek, Delta; 3. Dana Doll, Glen Rock; Tommy Welsh, East Berlin; 5. Roy Thompson, East Berlin.

Junior Yearling - 1. Leslie King, Delta; 2. Carol Mundis, York; 3. Kevin Laughman, Thomasville; 4. Dennis Godfrey, Glen Rock; 5. Ann Miller, Seven Valleys.

Senior Yearlings - 1. Paul Knight, 2. Gary Crowl, Airville; 3. Kelly Krebs, Glen Rok; 4. James Knight, Airville; 5. Steve Feeser, Hanover.

Two-Year Olds - 1. Beverly Brown, 2. Roy Thompson, 3. Kathy Rauhauser, Dover.

Three-Year Olds - 1. Peter King, 2. Patricia Greek, 3. Leonard Greek.

Four-Year Olds - 1. Dana Doll.

Aged Cows - 1. Roy Thompson, 2. Leonard Greek.

Dam and Daughter - 1. Roy Thompson, 2. Dana Doll, 3. Roy Thompson.

In showmanship among Holstein exhibitors, Barbara Kilgore was first, followed by Patricia Greek and Beverly Brown. Miss Kilgore was later judged as reserve champion showman in competition among exhibitors for all breeds. Tops in Holstein fitting was Lesley King while Annette Walter and Jonathan Miller followed in that order.

GUERNSEYS

Tina Rutter won double honors in the 4-H dairy show by winning the prized purple rosette and championship showmanship distinction over all breeds. She exhibited a 3-year old. Reserve grand champion was Darryl Rohrbach's second-place 3-year old. The same two entries stood as senior and reserve senior champion, respectively. Miss Lehman is from York and Rohrbaugh hails from New Freedom.

Junior champion honors were won by Tim Rutter of York, while Micki Ilgenfritz, York, won the runner-up spot.

Class winners were as follows: Junior Calf - Micki Ilgenfritz, York; Intermediate Calf - Todd Rutter, York; Senior Calf - Cindy Rutter, York; Junior Yearling - Timy Rutter; Senior Yearling - Debbie Lehman, York; Three-Year Olds - Tina Rutter; Four-Year Olds - Brian Lehman; Aged Cows - Barry Lehman; Dam and Daughter - Cindy Rutter.

In Guernsey showing and fitting competition, Todd Rutter was tops in fitting, followed by Timy and Tina Rutter. Tops in showmanship was Tim Rutter, followed by Tina Rutter and Darryl Rohrbaugh.

AYRSHIRES

Barry Lehman, who is more often found at the halter of champion Guernseys, made his way to the top in the Ayrshire ring with a first-place junior yearling. Runner-up in the contest for grand championship honors was Scott Cooper of Delta who took a second-place junior yearling into the ring. The same two animals stood as junior and reserve junior champions. No milking age females were shown. The only other first-place entrant was Joey Welsh of East Berlin. The young 4-H'er from western York County was chosen champion fitter and showman in breed competition. Runner-up on both counts was Scott Cooper.

BROWN SWISS

Holstein breeder Kevin Laughman of Thomasville came close to winning top honors in the Brown Swiss show when the judge named his junior yearling as junior champion. Going into the ring later for grand champion honors, the young man and his entry edged the reserve senior champion for reserve grand honors.

The high honors of the show went to Greg Fantom of Delta who had a first-place aged cow, a first-place 2-year old and a first-place daughter-dam pair entered in the contest. The reserve senior champion was owned by Jana Beth Fantom. Reserve junior champion was Mike Welsh.

Other 4-H'ers to win first places with their animals were Carol Mundis of York with a junior calf, Mike Welsh with an intermediate calf, Jana Beth Fantom with a senior calf, and David Krone with a senior yearling.

In showmanship and fitting, Greg Fantom won the showmanship category and Jana Beth Fantom was tops in fitting. Runner-ups for the respective contests were Jana Beth Fantom and Mike Welsh.

JERSEYS

The Welsh brothers, Mike and Joey, dominated this event, showing the grand and reserve grand champions, respectively. Also winning first-place ribbons and championship rosettes were Suzy Queitsch of New Freedom (junior champion) and Michael Anderson of Hanover (reserve junior champion).

In showmanship, Mike Welsh was first and Suzy Queitsch placed second.

Hickory Grange wins at fair

FLEMINGTON, N.J. – Hickory Grange No. 133 topped this year's Grange Booth competition at the Flemington Fair. Grangers competed with one another in displays of produce in the Main Agricultural Tent on the Fairgrounds. The purpose of the displays was to present a theme in interesting fashion, featuring local agriculture, and to acquaint people with the many different kinds of fruits, vegetables, and farm crops grown in the area.

Hickory's score was 97.73 out of a possible 100.

Second place went to Locktown Grange No. 88. Locktown had been 1977's Grange competition winner. This year they amassed 97.15 points.

Third place went to the Kingwood Grange No. 106 with 95.54 points.

York Fair names top 4-H swine exhibitors

YORK — Michelle and Brian Bankert of Hanover, Shelly Bankert of Red Lion, John Mummert of Seven Valleys, Gus Parlett of Airville, and Steve Trostle of Red Lion all had champion entries in the York Fair's 4-H breeding swine show. Following are results by breed:

Yorkshire champion Shelly Bankert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Bankert, Red Lion, narrowly edged Ron Wilson of New Freedom who had the reserve champion. Miss Bankert's entry was a senior sow, while Wilson entered the ring with a March gilt.

Steve Trostle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Trostle, Red Lion, was owner of the top two entries among Spotted Swine. His champion was a January gilt while the reserve animal was a senior sow.

Shelly Bankert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Bankert, Red Lion, added to her showmanship and fitting laurels at the York Fair.

In Poland China competition, Gus Parlett of Airville exhibited both the champion and reserve champion, a February gilt and senior sow, respectively. Gus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Parlett.

John and Harold Mummert, sons of Barbara Mummert, Seven Valleys, shared the top titles in Landrace classes.

John Mummert, Seven Valleys, exhibited the champion Landrace hog.

John's February gilt was champion while Harold won reserve honors with his April gilt.

Brian Bankert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Bankert, Hanover, edged his sister Michelle's entry for the top spot in Duroc competition. He exhibited a January gilt while his sister took a senior sow into the ring. The two young exhibitors dominated the breed show, which had 18 entries.

Michelle Bankert got a champion of her own when the Chester Whites were brought into the ring for judging. Her winner was a March gilt. Gus Parlett came in second with an April gilt. The only other contestrant to gain a first place in the class was Melissa Trostle of Red Lion. She had the top senior sow of the breed.

Hershey wins Rural Youth award

QUARRYVILLE — Carl Hershey, the 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hershey, Kirkwood R1, won the Rural Youth award last week at the Solanco Fair. He won 37 blue ribbons with over 130 entries in the three day fair.

Hershey, who is a Solanco FFA member, entered exhibits in fruits and nuts, canned goods, vegetables, flowers, and the FFA steer contest.

Caroline Wimer, Quarryville R3, was the second place winner.

The 16 year old young lady took home 30 blue ribbons from 130 fair entries. Her exhibits included vegetables, home and dairy products, canned goods, and flowers. She is a senior at Solanco High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wimer. She had also placed second inthe contest last year.

Third place winner was Pam Kreider, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kreider, Quarryville R4; fourth place went to Debra Hershberger, 14, the daughter of Mr.a nd Mrs. Robert Hershberger, Quarryville R4; and fifth place went to Judi Wilhelm, 14, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Devonshire, New Providence R2.

Ram home again after winning several shows

FAIRFIELD — Spring Bottom Farms, near here, recently completed another successful show season. "We are proud to have brought to Adams County an outstanding Shropshire Ram, 'Mr. Everything', Menhennet 563. He will stand at stud in Adams County and will surely upgrade the county's fast growing sheep industry," says owner Frank Darcey, Jr.

'Mr. Everything' was grand champion ram at the 1977 Maryland State Fair and at the Eastern National Livestock Exhibition. He was reserve champion of the 1978 Pennsylvania Farm Show; grand champion at the 1978 Shippensburg Fair, grand champion at the 1978 Montgomery County Fair, Gaithersburg, Md.; reserve champion at the 1978 Maryland State Fair; and grand champion at the 1978 York Fair.

He also completed the Meat Evaluation Test at Penn State University in May of this year and graduated with a confirmation score of 14+, highest of all rams of all breeds. He had loin of 4.75 inches by scan-o-gram, highest of all rams of all breeds. He showed a daily gain of 1.03 pounds per day and a back fat cover of only .20. He has been awarded the classification of Shropshire Superior Performance by the American Shropshire Registry Association. His lambs will be available to the public on a limited basis next Spring, says Darcey.

Gardens should be 'winterized'

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Gardeners can prolong the productivity of their vegetable crops if certain precautions are taken before cold weather comes.

Five to six inches of mulch such as straw, hay, leaves, grass clippings or anthing organic, can save swiss chard and other salad crops from very cold weather, say experts.

Turnips and carrots will last until December if mulched. Parsnips, scallions and leeks will survive the entire Winter without protection and develop a sweeter taste than those harvested in warmer weather.

This is also the time of year when 'cole' crops such as broccoli, cauliflower and brussels sprouts develop high quality. After the center heads of broccoli are harvested, continue to water the plants and enjoy the tender side shoots that are produced. Cauliflower will be more tender and keep a nice white color if the long 'rabbit ear' leaves are pulled over the head and tied with a piece of string. Brussels sprouts will last through freezing weather.

Closely related vegetable such as kale and collards will continue to provide greens for the table right up to cold weather.

One shouldn't forsake the green tomatoes that are still in the garden. One can salvage them by cutting the plants off at ground level and hanging them upside down, tomatoes and all, in a cool place such as the garage, breezeway, or cellar. The fruit will ripen slowly. They may not have the quality of sun-ripened tomatoes but chances are they'll be superior to the ones bought.

These barrows by the Iron Horse boar earned honors of grand champion market hog and champion pair over all breeds at the York Fair's hog competition. A littermate to the two was chosen champion carcass over all breeds as well. John Strawbridge of Stewartstown exhibited the champion animals.

York Fair

Champions named for open swine show

YORK — In open class swine competion at the York Fair last week, the entries of John Strawbridge, Stewartstown, excelled once again. He gave up only a few first places in the numerous classes of Yorkshire and Hampshire competition, for example. Following are results by breed.

YORKSHIRES

Among Strawbridge's winnings were: January boar, February boar, March boar, April boar, champion boar, senior sow, and senior and reserve senior champion. Each gilt class was won by the well-known and victorious York Countian as well. Not surprisingly, every championship rosette was awarded to Strawbridge. In barrow competition, Strawbridge continued to excell by winning each single and paired class and his entries were again named champion.

Second-place ribbons were in most cases also awarded to Strawbridge. One of the few competitors to outscore the Yorkshire breeder in any of the classes was Craig Miller, exhibitor of the winning mature sow. Tim Rehman earned a top placing in the junior yearling sow contest.

HAMPSHIRES

Strawbridge's hogs were in the forefront again as they frequently captured the judge's eye as being the best in the show. His winnings included: January boar, February boar, March boar, April boar, grand and reserve grand champion, senior sow. senior and reserve senior champion, January gilt, February gilt, March gilt, April gilt, and each of the barrow classes. All of the championship rosettes were won by Strawbridge.

As was true of his placings in the Yorkshire breed, Strawbridge dominated the show in depth as he most always shut the competition out of the first two places in each class.

Ken Bankert and Jeff Waltmyer were the only two exhibitors who managed to score higher than Strawbridge in any of the classes. Bankert exhibited he best mature sow and Waltemyer was owner of the top junior yearling sow. Strawbridge managed to keep all the honors for himself in the gilt and barrow classes.

BERKSHIRES

The top ribbons and rosettes were distributed to several exhibitors in this show, although Greg Innerst and Russell Cornbower managed to dominate. Cornbower had the champion and reserve champion boar and also all of the champions in both single and paired barrow divisions. Innerst had the champion sows and gilts.

Cornbower had the top individuals in each boar class except April, which was won by Terry Bennecoff. Innerst won the mature sow and senior sow class, while Lynn Sheffer squeezed ahead in the junior yearling sow contest.

In gilt competition, Innerst edged Bennecoff for top honors in the January class, and took the top two places for February. The March class was won by Bennecoff, with Russell Cornbower placing second. Bennecoff then went on to win the two top places in the April class. Innerst had the junior champion, Bennecoff came up with the reserve honor. Innerst's junior champion was named grand champion, and his senior champion filled the reserve grand slot.

(Turn to Page 128)

Harold Boyd's Chester White sow was named champion of the breed.

Harold Mummert, Seven Valleys, exhibited the best Landrace hogs at the York Fair last week.

Trade license suspended

NEW YORK, N.Y. – William G. Vicari, of Toms River, N.J., doing business as Pleasant Plains Produce, has had his interstate produce trading license suspended by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for violations of the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act (PACA).

Officials of the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service charged Vicari with failing to pay two reparation awards of $4,075 and $1,625, respectively, that were set by USDA.

The suspension makes Vicari ineligible to conduct business under the Act until the award has been paid. He also may not be employed by any PACA licensee during the suspension period.

Brucellosis quarantine violations draw fines

NEW YORK, N.Y. – Four cattle dealers and a corporation have been fined a total of $36,000 for conspiring to smuggle cattle across the Canadian border and violating animal quarantine regulations, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) spokesman.

Euclide Quesnel of Middlebury, Vt., William Donald LaPage of North Bangor, N.Y., Chester Lawrence of Malone, N.Y., William J. Neverett of Plattsburg, N.Y., and W.J.N., Inc., of Huntingdon, Quebec, Canada, have been found guilty of conspiracy to smuggle cattle from Canada into the United States by federal district court in Syracuse, N.Y. A six-month investigation revealed evidence of the violations.

Paul Becton, director of the national brucellosis eradication program of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said Quesnel also pleaded guilty to two counts of unlawful interstate movement of cattle. The animal quarantine violation of Sept. 20, 1977 involved the shipment of 27 adult cattle unaccompanied by owner's statements or other documents from New York to Middlebury, Vt., en route to Wilkinsonville, Mass. Of these cattle, 24 were not identified by USDA-approved identification tags.

LaPage pleaded guilty of aiding and abetting the movement of the cattle from New York to Vermont. The court fined the two men $2,000 each for violating the USDA regulations.

In addition, the court handed down the following fines and sentences for participation in the conspiracy: Quesnel received a $10,000 fine and four years probation; LaPage received a $5,000 fine and three years probation; Lawrence received a $5,000 fine and three years probation; Neverett received a $10,000 fine, three-month jail sentence and three years probation; and W.J.N., Inc., a $2,000 fine.

USDA regulations on cattle movement help prevent the spread of diseases such as brucellosis. This costly disease causes reproductive problems in livestock and may be passed on to humans.

"Whether animals are shipped between countries, states, counties, or herds, the possibility of disease introduction into a clean area must always be considered and protective measures taken," Becton said.

The APHIS official continued, "Shipping documents provide a buyer with information regarding the origin of the animals and proper identification makes it possible to trace individual animals to the herd of origin if they are later found to be diseased."

"The buyer is not the only one who might lose when purchasing replacement cattle from unidentified sources. Whole counties have lost brucellosis-free status when disease, brought in by an infected animal, begins to spread," he emphasized.

Steers, hogs sold at Solanco Fair

QUARRYVILLE -- Truman Ferguson purchased the Grand Champion FFA steer raised at the Solanco Fair market sale, this year by Troy Groff. Groff, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Groff, Quarryville R2, showed a Simmental-Angus weighing 1220 pounds. The steer purchased from Sam Wiley, Nottingham, was the reserve champion of the show and the first place heavyweight FFA steer.

Ferguson paid a total of $1,830 at the price of $1.50 a pound.

Twenty-three head of beef went before the auction block bringing in final bids ranging from 82 cents a pound paid by James Kreider for the reserve champion FFA steer of the show, owned by Dwight Herr, to 68 cents. The animals weighed from 875 pounds to 1240 pounds with the average price at 77 cents per pound. Mussers Store bought seven of the animals before the sale ended.

James Kreider purchased Steve Long's 915 pound third place light weight at 71 cents a pound and then donated the $649.65 to the fair association. The steer was then bought by New Holland Sales for 69 cents a pound for a total of $631.35.

For the first time in the fair's history, the reserve champion pen of hogs brought the highest bid. Vickie Warfel's reserve champions were bid in by The Friendly First Bank of Strasburg for $1.25 per pound, twenty cents more per pound than the champion Chester Whites owned by Dannette Groff. Hatfield Packing Co. started out the sale by buying the champions weighing a total of 425 pounds for the bid of $1.05.

Dannette Groff's grand champion hogs were her first entries at the Solanco fair. They were her second year 4-H project. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Groff, Peach Bottom R1. Vickie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Warfel, Buck Road, Quarryville.

A total of 21 pens of market hogs were sold with prices ranging from $.56 to $1.25. Hatfield Packing purchased half of the 52 hogs sold during the sale. Average price per pound paid for the market hogs was 62 cents.

Produce firm cited

NEW YORK, N.Y. -- Charles N. Simeone, trading as the Fruit Basket in Bethel Park, Pa., was recently ordered to pay a reparation award by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for violations of the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act (PACA).

Officials of the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service charged Simeone with failing to pay the award, in the amount of $909 set by USDA in favor of a Pennsylvania commission merchant for 14 lots of potatoes shipped from June through September 1977.

ARENDTSVILLE – Kevin Diehl, Fairfield, exhibited the grand champion 4-H Steer at the recent South Mountain Fair, here, and was also named reserve champion fitter.

Kim Reichart, Littlestown, exhibited the reserve grand champion 4-H steer. She placed first in the jr. fitting class and second in the jr. showmanship class.

Jeff Golden; York Springs, showed the reserve champion heavyweight 4-H Steer, and was named grand champion fitter and grand champion showman.

Jim Reichart, Littlestown, exhibited the champion lightweight 4-H steer and placed third in the intermediate fitting class and fourth in the intermediate showmanship class.

Amy Breighner, Littlestown, placed second in the mediumweight class. She also was named reserve grand champion showman and placed second in the intermediate fitting class.

Seed law violated

NEW YORK, N.Y. – A federal court has ordered Northrup, King and Co., of Minneapolis, Minn., to pay a $1,950 penalty for seven violations of the Federal Seed Act. The Act, administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is a truth-in-labeling law intended to protect farmers and consumers who buy seed.

The U.S. District Court for the District of Minnesota ordered the penalty; two additional charges were dismissed.

Violations, while not the same for all shipments, were false labeling as to noxious-weed seeds, purity, germination and maturity, and failure to show required labeling.

Tractors sparked interest at Flemington Fair

FLEMINGTON, N.J. – It seemed endless... the Farm Tractor Pull at the Flemington Fair this year. Tractors continued to appear for their chance at the weight sled over the 300 foot course.

It was after 5 p.m. before the dust settled on the track in front of the grandstand. The crowd hung on all day. It appeared, though, that more watched from the stage and pit area than from the covered grandstand. Apparently, they'd sacrifice the comfort of the stands for being closer to the action.

And, competition was indeed keen. It's not just the prize money, though $50 for first prize and a big trophy are pretty good incentives. It still has to be the love of the sport. This is a great one-day outing for farmer and his tractor, giving him that opportunity to pit his tractor and skill against his neighbors.

There were three Pennsylvanians among the seven class winners. Richard Troxell, Andreas, Pa., took top honors in the class for tractors 5500 pounds and under. He pulled the sled 277 feet 11 inches with his Case "TC" tractor. Second was Bill Vargo, Bloomsbury, pulling the sled with his international "M" a distance of 258'10". Dick Nagy, Frenchtown, was second on his Allis Chalmers "WD 45."

The second class honors went to Jake Jelliffe, Asbury, on his Allis-Chalmers "D19," pulling 282'10". Ralph Wolverton, Asbury, on a John Deere "4010" was second with 275'3"; Greg Manners, Ringoes, third, with 263'3" on his Farmall "60."

There were six antique tractors participating in the first and second classes. The best pull was that of Fred VanDoren, Flemington, with 235'11" on his John Deere "8D," a tractor made back in 1936. In order to compete in the antique tractor class, the tractor must have been manufactured in 1938 or earlier.

Class III honors went to Russell Smith, Milford, and his John Deere "4010," with a pull of 274'0". Second was Jon Danberry, Ringoes, John Deere "4020," 271'7"; Carl Vliet, Washington, third, on a John Deere "4010." 264'7".

Class IV, tractors weighing in between 9,000 and 12,000 pounds, was won by one of two brothers from Pennsylvania. Albert Kiefer, Bangor, Pa., drove his Ford "9600" a distance of 268'8". Chuck Kocsis, Baptistown, with his Case "1070," was second with 255' even. Bob Fulper, Jr., Lambertville, on an International "966," came in third with 252'11".

Brother, Bob Kiefer, captured top honors in the fifth class with his pull of 256'11". He drove a John Deere "4430." Greg Manners was second with his Allis Chalmers "210," at 254'7". Jim Pauch, Frenchtown, a long-time participant in this event at Flemington Fair, was third on his John Deere "4320" with 254'3".

Getting on to the really big ones, Class VI featured tractors 15,000 to 18,000 pounds. Dave Daku, Flemington, was first with his International "1466," pulling the sled with increased weights, to 224'11".

Bill Whitehead, driving for Joseph Daku, was second with an International "1066," 218'2". Ray Truszkowski, Stewartsville, was third on a John Deere 4430, 216'11".

Ernie Kuster, Jr., Ringoes, was the only entry in Class VII, tractors weighing between 18,000 and 21,000 pounds. His International "1256" weighed 20690 pounds. He had an excellent pull at 287'2".

The 96 tractors participating was a record. Last year there were 8[illegible] tractors in competition.

Modified tractors competed later that night.

Machinery dealers in the area sponsored trophies for the classes, and they included: J.S. Covert & Sons, Neshanic Station; Frank Rymon and Sons, Washington; Poniatowski Bros., VanZandt Sales and Service, John M. Saums and Sons, all of Flemington, D & R Equipment, Ringoes, as well as a big assist from the Flemington Agricultural Fair.

Bernie Beatty and Jack Coleman, local representatives for Muncy-Chief seed corn, donated a bushel of seed to each of the winners during the day and evening contests.

Computers becoming a part of farm management

COLUMBIA, Mo. – Those few farmers operating their own computers are just the beginning of a trend toward computerized agriculture, says a University of Missouri-Columbia agricultural economist.

"Computers are becoming more usable, practical and specialized and should play a major part in farm management of the future," says Norlin Hein.

UMC has launched a pilot project to show how portable computer terminals can be used by Extension specialists to help farmers make better decisions. The specialists and farmers use the terminals, which look like portable typewriters with a telephone attached, to "talk" directly to computers.

UMC has already developed programs on investment analysis, four-year financial planning, feeder pig finishing budgets, profit comparisons among different crops, and least-cost livestock rations.

Basically, it's Extension specialists who are using the terminals, but there are a few farmers and agribusinessmen who have installed their own computers and some who have terminals to tie into computer programs like the University of Nebraska's "AGNET," Michigan State's "Telplan," the Virginia Polytechnic Institute's Computerized Management Network (CMN).

This summer, four UMC Extension specialists and about 10 Missouri farmers were using computer terminals and AGNET to determine their irrigation schedules.

"These farmers and specialists in the Chillicothe, Columbia, Mexico and Warrenton areas plug temperature and moisture data into the terminals and get a print-out telling when and if they should turn on their irrigation systems," says Hein.

With companies now producing mini or micro computers about the size of a portable typewriter, Hein sees more versatile computers for agricultural uses.

"An important use of computers will be for information retrieval," he says.

"In the future, farmers will use terminals to get pesticide recommendations, pricing information, weather forecasts, etc.

"But they will also be used for farm management analysis. For example, farmers can simply ask a computer to help them determine which crop to plant, what to feed, and whether or not an investment will likely be profitable.

"Computers would have a terrific advantage over printed publications, because such things as pesticide recommendations could be kept much more up to date."

Grain reserve worries Grant

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The leader of the nation's largest farm organization has personally urged the Secretary of Agriculture to take immediate, definite steps to deal with grain surpluses.

Allan Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, met here with Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, recently.

Grant called for a September announcement on provisions of a 1979 feed grains program, designed to produce a crop of 5.5 billion bushels. The Secretary is mandated to make an announcement before November 15.

The 1978 crop is expected to reach a record 6.8 billion bushels according to USDA crop forecast released last week.

Grant told the Secretary that a 5.5 billion bushel crop, coupled with an estimated 1979 carryover of about 1.5 billion bushels, will be more than enough to meet domestic and export needs.

To insure participation in the program, the Secretary was asked to announce per acre performance payments for set-aside acres.

Grant supported efforts by the Secretary to maintain favorable farm prices, but said he is "gravely concerned that the Secretary of Agriculture is but one voice raised among the many cheap food advocates in the Administration and Congress."

Champion goats named

YORK — Eighty-two dairy goats were entered into the York Fair's goat show, held earlier this month. It was sanctioned by the American Dairy Goat Association, (ADGA) and judged by Teresa Wigle of Keymar, Md., who is officially licensed by the ADGA.

Exhibitors who won champion distinction were Timothy Humphreys of Millers, Md., with High View Heidi, an Alpine; Brandt A. Kampa, Fallstown, Md., with Abraxas Coris Getta, a Nubian; Bernard R. Bosley, Glen Rock, Pa., with Collegheny Hills Marcie, a Toggenburg, and Chenango Hills Lisa, a Saanen; and Nancy Sentman, Fawn Grove, Pa., with Nevada Desert's Champagne, a LaMancha.

Long wins Ayrshire show

YORK — Howard Long of Thurmont, Md. exhibited the grand champion Ayrshire cow here last week during the York Fair. The Maryland exhibitor also had the reserve grand champion and nearly a dozen first-place entries.

The honor of junior champion exhibitor went to Mark Jenkins. Joey Welsh captured the reserve slot. Also showing a first place animal was Barry Lehman.

60th Ephrata Fair begins Tuesday

EPHRATA -- The Ephrata Street Fair, Pennsylvania's largest of its kind, launches its 60th year on Tuesday, September 26th and continues through Saturday, September 30th. The fair, inaugurated in 1919 as a homecoming for World War I veterans, attracts over 200,000 persons each year.

The parade, highlighting the five day affair, begins its march through the streets of Ephrata at seven o'clock on Wednesday evening, September 27th. (Rain Date - September 28) Drawing over 65,000 viewers, the parade is composed of talented high school bands, a variety of marching and special interest groups, a beautiful array of floats and the lovely Miss Lancaster County Pageant contestants. Warwick High School, 1978 Honor Band, will be last in the line of march and at the close of the parade will present a concert in front of the viewing stand on Lake Street.

Visitors of all ages will enjoy the various displays to be found at specific locations throughout the fair grounds. Housing the baked, canned, dried goods, jellies, flowers and crafts will be the basement of the J.J. Newberry Store. The former Reading Company Station on East Main Street will feature needlework, 4-H clothing, etc. The Texgas Corp. Showroom, 11 South State Street, will display the art work. Finally, vegetables, fruits, nuts and sunflowers will be found in the large tent on the borough parking lot.

"Tent City", the agricultural segment and foundation on which the fair was built, will be a bustling center of activity. Sounds of baby beef, cattle, swine, sheep and poultry will fill the Ephrata Community Park and will become the point of interest during the judging of the livestock. Also exhibited for public viewing will be tobacco, grain, forage, various farm displays and mini displays by youth groups.

Among the many contests, branching from the agricultural portion of the fair, are the tractor driving, garden tractor pulling, cow milking and pig chase.

A carnival spirit will prevail on the giant midway throughout the week, complete with rides for children and adults, concession stands, games of skill and free entertainment nightly.

On Thursday afternoon, between one and six o'clock, the midway is overtaken by thousands of school age children for what is commonly known as "Kiddies Day". The children are all given special reduced rates for rides, including some old favorites like the ferris wheel and the merry-go-round. As a special treat from the Fair Association each boy and girl receives a popsicle and a sucker. Finally, to round out an exciting afternoon, on hand to greet everyone is a friendly and lovable clown.

On Saturday, the final day of festivities, thousands of people line the streets to catch a glimpse of the little tots in their fancy costumes and creatively designed floats. The baby parade will be held at two o'clock Saturday afternoon and is expected, as in past years, to

Today's cattle breeds will be here tomorrow

By JERRY WEBB
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. – Consumers of the future can expect to get their steaks from the same breeds of cattle as they do today. The idea of a completely new type of animal that can profitably turn tough grass into tender steaks is appealing, but research suggests that such an animal isn't likely anytime soon.

Interest currently centers on "exotic breeds" such as the "beefalo", which is a cross between a buffalo and present breeds of cattle.

Developers of the beefalo say their animal makes more efficient use of grass and other inexepensive forages than do regular cattle. The beefalo has not been tested by the Department of Agriculture or any land-grant university in the United States. However, the Canadian Department of Agriculture tested buffalo-cattle crosses for 40 years - from 1916 until 1935. Only they called their animals "Cattaloes" rather than beefaloes.

The Canadians found cattaloes to be hardier than cattle and concluded that they might have a place on northern ranches where cattle cannot be grown profitably. But the Canadians also found that cattaloes had many reproduction problems. For example, bulls with as little as three-sixteenths buffalo blood were practically sterile.

Their conclusion was that most farmers should stick to more conventional animals.

Research by the Agriculture Department does show that larger breeds of cattle do make slightly more efficient use of forages than smaller breeds. For example, the large Simmentals put on 100 pounds of meat for each 661 pounds of feed they consumed in a 279-day test involving seven breeds of cattle. The smaller Jerseys required 707 pounds of feed for each 100 pounds of gain. All animals in the test were getting a ration of about one-third grain and two-thirds forages. Research by the Tennessee Agricultural Experiment Station shows that breed size did not affect feed efficiency as much as animal maturity.

Cattle, like people, use feed most efficiently when they are young. After they reach maturity, much of the feed goes to produce fat.

Since small breeds of cattle mature more quickly than larger breeds, the results from feed tests depend somewhat on the length of the test. For example, results may be one thing if all breeds are tested for the same number of days. They may be different if each breed is stested only until optimum maturity.

The experts seem convinced that much progress remains to be made in cattle breeding, feeding and management. But they say we'll make this progress with the breeds that are available today.

Farmers have options with their grain loans

NEWARK, Del. – If your corn or grain sorghum loan is about to mature, you have two options besides redeeming it or forfeiting your crop to the Commodity Credit Corporation, according to Joe Penuel, an official of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

First, Penuel says, you can extend your loan on the same terms for an additional 30 days. Of, if you choose, you can place your crop directly into the farmer-owned grain reserve.

Expanding the loan gives farmers more time to weigh the other options. In addition, the loan program for 1977 corn and grain sorghum has been reopened, giving farmers who didn't take out loans earlier a chance to enter the grain reserve. Farmers signing up for new loans on their 1977 crops must agree to enter the reserve.

Through the reserve program, farmers shield their commodities from the market to help strengthen prices. They receive payments to store the commodity on their farms or in commercial warehouses. In turn they pay interest charges the first year, but not the two succeeding years, and agree to leave their commodities in the reserve until prices climb substantially or for three years.

For more information on commodity loans and the farmer-owned grain reserve, contact the local county ASCS office.

A hog sale is scheduled for 6 p.m., a garden tractor pulling contest at 7, 4-H and FFA baby beef judging at 7:30 and entertainment at 8.

The area FFA tractor driving contest begins 1:30 p.m. Sept. 29. A carcass lamb auction is planned for 6:30 p.m., cow milking contest at 7, dairy cattle judging at 7:30 and entertainment at 8.

The annual baby parade is set for 2 p.m. Sept. 30 for children under 7. Judging will be at 1:15 p.m. at E. Main and Lake streets, and winners will be posted at Ephrata Sports Center after the parade.

Entries must be registered with Mrs. Randall Carpenter of 125 N. State St., Ephrata, by 5 p.m. Sept. 29.

At 8 p.m. Sept. 30, there will be entertainment at the midway and the Miss Lancaster County Scholarship Pageant in Ephrata High School auditorium.

Contestants will compete for the Miss Lancaster County title and for $3,000 in scholarship awards, a senatorial scholarship by state Sen. Clarence F. Manbeck and $5,000 in gift certificates and awards.

Woodbine Holsteins to be shown in Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. – George Knight Jr., Woobine Holsteins, Airville, Pa., has entered the Central National Holstein show at the World Dairy Expo, to be held October 4 through 8 at the Dane County Exposition Center, here.

The show dates are: Ayrshire Oct. 4-5, Brown Swiss Oct. 5-6, Guernsey Oct. 4-5, Holstein Oct. 6-7, Jersey Oct. 4, and Milking Shorthorn Oct. 7.

In addition to cattle shows, the Expo features the National Intercollegiate and 4-H Judging Contests, the Cook 'n' Craft Show and many other events of interest to dairy farm families.

The annual grand door prize program this year offers a Hawaiian vacation for two from World Dairy Expo Tours, five liquid nitrogen refrigerators from American Breeders Service, five tons of 40 per cent dairy supplement from Kent Feeds, Inc., five registered dairy heifers from Tri-State Breeders, and a 1979 pick-up truck from Chevrolet and Renk Seed Company.

Displays of equipment and services are a major attraction for many dairymen. Just about anything a dairy farmer might want, from embryo transfer equipment to bulk coolers will be set up at the Expo. Exhibits are open from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. each day of the show.

Bergland comments on energy bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Speaking to the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture, USDA Secretary Bob Bergland said, "Because our food and fiber system is energy-intensive, energy shortages for whatever reason can cause severe disruptions to the production of food and fiber." Under existing laws, the food and fiber system is not adequately protected. The Natural Gas Policy Act shifts the burden of incremental price increases for interstate natural gas to "low priority" users. Bergland went on to say that agriculture was exempted from these increases until after 1985 because agriculture and the food system are considered high priorities. The Act also prohibits any curtailment of natural gas to agriculture unless there are other economically available sources. Bergland stated that he would certify the essential agriculture uses of natural gas in order to maintain full food and fiber production.

Eastern signs agreement to buy 8 million pounds milk per month

SYRACUSE, N.Y. – Peter Sandfort, president of Aldovin Dairy, Tunkhannock, Pa. and Arden Tewksbury, president of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, Syracuse, N.Y., jointly announced last week the recently signed long term agreement between Aldovin Dairy and Eastern Milk Producers under which Eastern will purchase approximately 8 million pounds of milk monthly from Aldovin.

Tewksbury hailed the marketing program as, "a new era in cooperation between Eastern and Aldovin which will certainly help stabilize the entire Northeastern dairy industry".

Sandfort announced that Aldovin will no longer handle surplus milk at its Aldovin plant. However, the plant will continue to operate on a limited basis, producing cottage cheese and related products.

The farmers which supply Aldovin Dairy and the Canton and East Smithfield farmers can now be assured of a long term market through this contract, according to Sandfort.

Howard McDonald, Eastern's general manager, stated, "This milk supply will complement the future marketing strategy of Eastern and ready markets are currently available for it."

Eastern's treasurer, Max Lonstein, added that he could see the arrangement resulting in improved efficiencies in Eastern's plant and hauling operations which would benefit all of Eastern's membership.

Open House

AKRON – Whitney Oldsmobile-Cadillac, Inc., and Whitney Leasing, Inc., will hold an open house Saturday, Sept. 23, beginning at 3 p.m. to celebrate the grand opening of its new sales and service facility located in Ephrata on the Oregon Pike at Route 772. Congressman Robert Walker will be one of many guests.

The public is invited to attend the open house from 3 to 7 p.m., and to view the 79 new Oldsmobiles and Cadillacs on display. Food and beverages will also be served.

New ag education head announced at Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. – Dr. Clifford L. Nelson of New Carrollton (Princes Georges County) is the new chairperson for the Department of Agricultural and Extension Education in the College of Agriculture at the University of Maryland, here.

The new ag ed chairman has been a faculty member in the department for nearly 10 years. He is well-known among secondary and vocational school administrators throughout the state as an on-the-job training supervisor for prospective vocational agriculture teachers.

Dr. Nelson has also served in support of the Future Farmers of America, an associated youth organization, for most of the past decades. And he has been a member of several national FFA support committees.

He was awarded the honorary American Farmer degree in 1976 during the 49th national FFA convention in Kansas City, Mo. The Maryland Vocational Association bestowed on him its outstanding achievement award in 1974.

A native of Walla Walla, Wash., Dr. Nelson taught high school vocational agriculture for six years in the Evergreen State. He holds B.S. and M.S. degrees in agricultural education from Washington State University and a Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota.

Shive and Myers win beef contests

YORK — Chris Shive and Mike Myers received purple rosettes here last Saturday for exhibiting champion Angus and Hereford cattle, respectively. Miss Shive, is a 4-H'er from Seven Valleys, and Myers hails from Manchester.

Other first-place entries in the four classes of competition of the Angus show were exhibited by Ralph Dixon, Jr. of York and Dave Wise of Spring Grove. Miss Shive also had the reserve champion of the breed.

Hereford classes were limited to two, those being shown by Myers, and runner-up Chris Klinedinst of Wrightsville.

Flower bulb course available

UNIVERSITY PARK – It may be difficult now to think about early Spring flowers popping through the snow, but the time is approaching when autumn-planting bulbs must be planted.

A correspondence course from Penn State on Bulbs for Your Flower Garden presents the propagation, culture, disease and insect controls, harvesting, and storage of popular flowering plants grown from bulbs, corms, rhizomes, and tubers. Dahlias, gladioli, and other frost-tender flowers for spring planting as well as tulips, narcissus, and other winter-hardy bulbs for Autumn planting are included.

By properly selecting varieties, one can have continuous bloom during Spring, Summer, and Autumn from this group of hardy, semi-hardy and frost-tender plants. If a person would like more information about these popular flowering plants, they can send $4 to Bulbs, Box 5000, University Par, Pa., 16802, making check payable to Penn State.

Tie makes the man

NEWARK, Del. – The wrong tie can cancel out even the most elegant Brooks Brothers suit.

Extension clothing specialists cite studies showing that a man's tie does more to create an image of authority, prosperity, and social status than any other item in his wardrobe. If he wears a handsome suit with an inappropriate tie, people will zero in on the tie and ignore the suit. And if the tie is wearing the man rather than the other way around, he's in real trouble.

Keep these points in mind when selecting a tie:

LENGTH: The end of the tie should reach the top of the belt buckle. Extra-long ties are manufactured for Wilt and Stilt types, and little guys can go to the boys' department. At any rate, know the length your tie should be, and shopping will be easier.

WIDTH: Ties that look like a stripped dinner napkin tucked into your collar are definitely out. Deisgners currently favor widths of about 3¾ inches. Always consider the width of the coat collar and lapel. (They're gradually getting narrower.)

PATTERN: Wear quiet ties with patterened shirts, and vice versa. Diagonal stipes, small prints, and solids are always good. Leave the splashy splotches and flashy flowers for the wallpaper designers. Use the tie with the hand-painted peacock for a shoe rag.

FABRIC: Avoid synthetics that look synthetic. There's nothing like real silk, or the appearance of silk which is found in some of the blends. Quality wool and cotton ties are fine for less elegant suits or jackets.

A good tie is an investment, so take care of it. Remove wrinkles by placing a press cloth over it and pressing with a warm iron. (Yes, even men and boys can learn to do this.) Hang it up neatly. Take it to the dry cleaners unless the lable indicates hand-washing.

Recycled aluminum worth 17c per pound

PHILADELPHIA – This Fall, students can join with faculty and PTA members in fund raising activities to supplement district school budgets by saving all-aluminum beverage cans and other household aluminum for recycling. The Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company pays 17 cents per pound – cash on the spot – to individuals and organizations recycling aluminum at Reynolds collection points in Pennsylvania.

Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company pays 17 cents per pound for all-aluminum beverage cans and other clean household aluminum such as pie plates, foil, frozen food and dinner trays and dip, pudding and meat containers. Certain other items, including aluminum siding, gutters, storm door and window frames, and lawn furniture tubing are also worth 17 cents per pound. This aluminum must be free of all foreign materials, cut to lengths not exceeding three feet and should not be mixed with cans.

Gas bill opposed

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Allan Grant, went to Capitol Hill last week to "correct the erroneous impression" that all of agriculture is supporting the administration's natural gas pricing proposals.

Farm Bureau, Grant said, "Is not".

Grant told a news conference in the Senate press gallery that the measure now before the Senate "does not deregulate gas prices and farmers are for deregulation now." We want to be a participant in bringing about constructive legislation that will meet the needs of the American people, but this bill simply adds more regulations.

Grant spoke at a joint news conference followed by Senator Clifford P. Hansen (R., Wyoming). The Senator outlined attempts to have a vote on the measure delayed until this week. Farm Bureau is asking Senators to return the bill to conference committee for revision.

Red Power contest near end

CHICAGO — The day for the drawing of the grand prize is getting nearer as International Harvester's Red Power Showdown Sweepstakes comes to a close. The Sweepstakes began on Aug. 1 with Red Power Showdown Days that were held all across the country. Several of the field days were held within Lancaster Farming's prime cverage area in southeastern and south-central Pennsylvania.

Eight national finalists for the grand prize - an IH 1586 tractor - were chosen on Sept. 15. Each of them will be attending the Farm Progress Show in Illinois next week, where the final winner will be selected.

Other prizes to be awarded during the Sweepstakes include two Model 484 tractors and five Cadet 81 lawn tractors.

Everyone who entered the contest received a coupon for a $100 reward toward the purchase of any IH agricultural product or service when they buy a Series 86 tractor.

Tractors and implements manufactured by the International Harvester Company were featured at field days held all across the country during the late Summer. A Sweepstakes contest was part of the affair and the winner will be announced next week.

Trappers course to be Sept. 30

LEOLA — The third annual trappers' education course will be offered at the Middle Creek Wildlife Refuge, on September 30, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. This course is intended for anyone interested in trapping.

The course will cover muskrat, racoon, and fox trapping along with proper fur handling. Lunch will be available to those who attend.

There will be a $2 registration fee. For more information, one can contact Richard Atkins, Leola, at 717-656-8928.

in pairs. Cornbower took the show in mediumweight and heavyweight barrow cometition, allowing him to move on to all the championship rosettes.

CHESTER WHITES

The Chester White show turned out to be a battle dominated by Gus Parlett, a young 4-H'er from Airville R2, who showed the top lightweight, mediumweight, and heavyweight barrows, and Boyd Brothers of The Brogue who had the two best boars and the best gilt. Boyds also had a second-place entries in lightweight and heavyweight barrow competition.

Boyds won three out of four boar classes, leaving the March honors to Jim Parlett, father of Gus.

In the sow contest, Donald Schrum of Spring Grove had the top junior yearling and Boyd Brothers won the senior yearling class. Boyds won the senior championship, while Schrum took the reserve banner.

In gilt competition, it was James Parlett scoring firsts with his January and April entries, while Boyd Brothers captured the February titles and Rodger Bankert was tops with the March pigs. The junior champion, belonged to Boyd Brothers, the reserve champion to Parlett. Boyd brothers won both the grand and reserve grand titles.

SPOTTED SWINE

Steve Trostle, Red Lion; and Grant Lazarus, Germansville, dominated this show. Trostle, a 4-H'er, had the top two January boars and champion boar. Lazarus showed the two best February, March, and April boars and had one of his entries chosen as reserve champion boar.

Lazarus then went on to win the mature sow class, edging Denton Griest of Abbottstown, who won the junior yearling sow class. Trostle had the best senior sow, which was judged senior champion. Griest's junior yearling was awarded the reserve champion honor.

In gilt competition, Trostle won the top two places in the January class, Lazarus won he top two spots in the February class, and Larry Robinson of Delta won the March lass. Trostle was second. The April class was won by Trostle, with Lazarus placing second. Trostle had the junior an reserve junior champion in the gilt classes.

Grand champion of the breed was an entry by Trostle, with Griest's entry named to the reserve honor.

LANDRACE

Mummert, Wessner and Bankert were the predominant names in this show. Shelly Bankert, a young exhibitor from Red Lion, had the senior champion sow and champion barrows, both individuals and pairs. Harlan Wessner had the junior champion boar and Mrs. Harold Mummert won the gilt championships.

Wessner placed first in January boars, Mrs. Harold Mummert was second. Among February entries, Mrs. Mummert was first and Wessner was runner-up. Wessner

(Turn to Page 129)

Gus Parlett, 9, had the champion Poland China boar. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Parlett of Airville R2.

won both top places for the March class and Mrs. Mummert did likewise in the April show. Wessner had the champion and Mrs. Mummert the reserve champion.

Wessner and Mrs. Mummert continued their duel in gilt classes, with Mrs. Mummert coming out on top each time, thus enabling her to effectively shut the competition out of the champion's circle. Wessner had to settle for reserve junior and reserve grand champion honors.

Shelly Bankert continued to add laurels to her collection when the barrow show got underway. She won the lightweight and mediumweight contest, while Mrs. Mummert exhibited the best lightweight pair of barrows. Wessner scored a victory with his heavyweight entry and was second among lightweight singles competion. Miss Bankert had her entries selected as champion while Wessner filled the reserve slots.

POLANDS

Jim Parlett and Harlan Wessner scored the most points in this show as the two contestants switched back and forth with their leads of various classes. Parlett showed the champion boar and Wessner had the reserve champion.

In female classes of competion, a third competitor claimed the spotlight from time to time. He was J.E. Lanius, owner of the champion sows and contender for some of the top honors in the gilt classes.

Gilt competition went as follows: January gilt - Harlan Wessner first and second; February gilt - Jim Parlett, Harlan Wessner; March gilt - Parlett, Lanius; April gilt - Parlett, Wessner. Junior an reserve junior champion gilts, James Parlett. Grand champion, Parlett; reserve grand, Lanius.

In the barrow segment of the show, Wessner had both the champion and reserve champion. He won both top places in the lightweight class. Parlett and Lanius placed first an second, respectively, in the mediumweight and heavyweight categories.

DUROCS

Rodger Bankert of Red Lion and Calvin Lazarus of Whitehall shared the high honors, although significant competition also came from Mrs. Harold Mummert of Seven Valleys and Tom Innerst of Red Lion.

Lazarus exhibited both the champion and reserve champion boar and the senior champion female which was later chosen as reserve grand champion. The grand champion female of the show was exhibited by Rodger Bankert, who also had the champion and reserve champion junior pigs. In the barrow contest, Bankert edged Lazarus for the top honors.

Here's how it went, class by class: January boar - Lazarus, Mummert; February boar - Lazarus, Innerst; March boar - Bankert, Lazarus; April boar - Bankert, Bankert.

Pennsylvanian victorious at Flemington Fair pony pull

FLEMINGTON, N.J. – Horse and pony pulling contests were big features of the Flemington Fair. There were nine teams in the pony contest. Weigh-in was important in being certain that a team of ponies was being pitted against others of similar size. There was a 1200 pound limit on the pony teams, 3200 pounds on the horses. All had to be weighed in at Flemington Block and Supply prior to the contest.

Charles Jennings, Millerton, Pa., took first place honors in the pony pull. His Team, "Jeff" and "Star," pulled the dragsled weighing 4430 pounds the full required distance of 10 feet.

Second in the pony pull was a team, "Bob" and "Pete," owned by Alpaugh Bros., Lebanon. They pulled the 4430 pounds a distance of 5 feet 10½ inches. Third was another team owned by Alpaugh Bros., "Jim" and "Betty" pulling the same weight 5'½".

Competing teams were from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York, and Rhode Island.

There were five teams in the Horse Pulling Contest, this time won by a newcomer to Flemington Fair, Phil Davis, Norwich, Conn. His team, "Bob" and "Ted," weighing in at 3150 lbs., pulled the 8030 pound load the full 16 feet.

Second place went to "Gyp" and "Dick," a team owned by Larue Austin, Columbia Cross Roads, Pa. They pulled the 8030 pound load 10'1".

Search Dalyrmple, Hampton, was third with "Bill" and "Harry." They managed to pull the load 7'1". Fourth place went to Alpaugh Bros., Lebanon; fifth to Roger Hall, Delhi, New York.

January gilt - Bankert, Bankert; February gilt - Bankert, Innerst; March gilt - Bankert, Bankert; April gilt - Bankert, David Leese.

In the barrow contest, the lightweight contest saw Lazarus in first place and Bankert as runner-up. Among mediumweights, Bankert won and Leese came in second. In heavyweight competition, Bankert won and Lazarus came in second.

STRAWBRIDGE WINS OVER ALL BREEDS

John Strawbridge, who won dozens of ribbons and a number of championships in individual breed contests, had his barrows judged as the best of the entire show. The reserve high honors were awarded to barrows owned by Rodger Bankert.

Broilers up 29 per cent

HARRISBURG -- Placements of broiler chicks in the commonwealth during the week ending September 9 were 29 per cent more than the corresponding week a year ago, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

The placements were 2,062,000, about the same as the previous week. Average placements during the past nine weeks were 20 per cent above a year earlier.

Placements in the 21 key poultry producing states were 68,896,000, about the same as the previous week but eight per cent more than the same week a year ago. Average placements in the 21 states during the past nine weeks were eight per cent above a year ago.

The number of broiler-fryers slaughtered under federal inspection during the week ending August 30, were 1,902,000 with an average weight of 3.98 pounds.

Seed law violated

NEW YORK, N.Y. -- Rupert Seed Farms, New Waterford, Ohio, has paid $1,275 to settle a case involving alleged violations of a federal truth-labeling law. U.S. Department of Agriculture officials had charged the firm with violating the Federal Seed Act, a law intended to protect farmers and consumers who buy seed.

The case involved four shipments of oat seed to Pennsylvania in 1974, 1976, and 1977.

Alleged violations for three shipments were false labeling as to the presence of noxious-weed seed, and the presence of the prohibited noxious-weed seed quackgrass. For the remaining shipment, alleged violations were false labeling as to the percentage of pure seed, failure to label each variety present or show the words "Varieties Not Stated," and failure to keep required records.

Seed regulatory officials with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture cooperated with AMS in carrying out the investigations. AMS administers the Federal Seed Act with the help of state seed agencies.

Archery season begins next Saturday

HARRISBURG – Pennsylvania's 1978-79 hunting seasons for big game will get underway when archers begin hunting whitetail deer one-half hour before sunrise on Saturday, September 30.

Just about one-fourth of all of the nation's archery hunters purchase licenses in Pennsylvania. Last year, there were a record 233,229 archery licenses sold in the state, an increase of about 8,000 over the preceding year.

During the 1977-78 seasons archers reported harvesting 4,678 deer in Pennsylvania. The Keystone State again has a large herd of whitetails this year.

There will be 24 hunting days during the regular statewide archery deer season which closes on Friday, October 27, one day before the opening of the general small game season. Sunday hunting is prohibited.

An extended 17-day archery deer season is scheduled to begin on December 26 and to end on January 13.

Use of bow and arrow is also permitted during the regular antlered and antlerless seasons in late November and December.

Archers are permitted to take one deer of either sex, regardless of size. If a hunter tags a deer during the archery season, he or she is not permitted to take another whitetail during the regular gunning season. Hunting hours for bowbenders are from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset.

In addition to a regular resident or non-resident hunting license, an archery license is required to hunt deer with bow and arrow during the archery seasons. Archery licenses are available from county treasurers, archery license issuing agents, or by mail only from the Pennsylvania Game Commission, License Section, P.O. Box 1567, Harrisburg, Pa. 17120. An archery license costs $2.20.

The archery license in Pennsylvania is in the form of a gummed stamp, which is to be attached to the regular hunting license in the space provided.

The Game Commission reminds archers that a mechanical release for a bow of any kind is unlawful. Arrows must be of a cutting-edged broadhead design for big game and turkeys.

Successful archers are reminded to tag their deer immediately, and to return their big game report card to the Game Commission within five days of the taking of the deer.

Rabies cases reported

HARRISBURG – Five rabies cases were diagnosed positive in Pennsylvania during August, and one case involved human exposure to the disease, Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Kent Shelhamer said recently.

The Secretary said a woman was bitten by a bat in Jersey Shore, Lycoming County, and is now undergoing rabies treatment. The other rabies cases in August all involved bats, one each in Bucks and Lancaster Counties and two in Northumberland County.

One rabies case was reported in July in Lehigh County. That case involved a woman being bitten by a bat in Allentown.

Records in the Department's Bureau of Animal Industry show one positive rabies case was reported in June in Chester County and one case in May in Lebanon County this year. Both cases involved bats and neither had any human exposure to the disease.

Statistics show the incidence of rabies cases increases in warmer months when wild animals are more active and people are more likely to be exposed to them. Bats are still the number one carrier of the disease.

No rabies cases were reported from January through April this year.

Service Sires of these heifers are mainly Wittier Farms Astro Galaxy, FGP Elevate Ivan Al and Ljuf-Lage Mose Lucky Star

Tested for immediate interstate shipment.

INTRODUCING

BOB ZOLLINGER

Robert E. Zollinger, Divisional Hog Manager
Kleen Leen Inc. Commercial Breeding Stock

Bob, a native of Ohio -- where hogs are big business -- and a graduate of North Dakota State University, has been closely associated with the Ralston-Purina Company for nearly 10 years. He grew up on a hog farm which turned to Kleen Leen Breeding Stock in 1969. He has been employed by the Ralston-Purina Company for more than 4½ years. As the divisional hog manager for Kleen Leen Commercial Breeding Stock in eastern Pennsylvania, Zollinger can offer area farmers a service based on experience.

Since coming to Pennsylvania, Bob, his wife, Jo, and daughter, Tawnia, have relocated in Mount Joy, Lancaster County.

Dr. Clyde Wilson, Kleen Leen Veterinarian, will also be servicing the Kleen Leen Breeding Herds.
